Atomic Groups Override USSR And OK Report

Offers Principles For Control Agency

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 8 (AP)—Two United Nations atomic committees overrode vigorous Russian objections today and approved a report laying down principles for creation and operation of an international atomic control agency.

After losing consistently to a majority of 10 delegates in the committees, Prof. Dmitri V. Skobeltsyn charged that the majority did not desire to achieve unanimous agreement.

Gen. A. G. I. McNaughton, of Canada, chairman, promptly reminded him that any country could suggest any changes to the full United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, which will meet Wednesday for final action on the report.

The day's prime developments were:

1. The Political Committee approved the backbone of the report made up of six papers dealing with organization and functions of the proposed control agency.

Working Committee Approves

The vote was 10 countries for all six papers and Soviet Russia opposed to all six. Poland opposed five papers and abstained on the sixth.

2. The Working Committee, made up of the same delegates, approved these papers also plus all other sections of the proposed report The vote was the same on the papers.

The committees worked all day against a deadline set by order of the Security Council last March for the Atomic Commission to produce a second report before the United Nations Assembly meets in New York on September 16.

The work today meant that the delegates finally have agreed upon a draft of what they say is merely a progress report for the council. They plan to continue other phases of atomic discussions until they get further directions fro mthe council.

French Move Causes Fight

The big fight came over a French move to insert in the report a statement that Soviet proposals for an atomic control agency, submitted June 11, had led to the conclusion that "these proposals as they now stand and the explanations given thereon do not provide an adequate basis for the development by the committee of specific proposals for an effective system of international control of atomic energy."

That was based on a Canadian resolution which Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, had resisted stoutly and Prof. Skobeltsyn in turn fought against today.

It was approved finally by a vote of 10 to 0, with Russia and Poland abstaining on that point.

War Contract Probe Will Be Opened Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (INS)—A House Investigating Subcommittee will open hearings tomorrow on fraud and overpayment in the settlement of war contracts which it said today may have wasted more than one-half billion dollars of taxpayers' money.

The subcommittee staff said that an audit of only 1.5 per cent of all war contracts disclosed fraud and overpayment of more than six million.

On the basis of this sampling, it was explained, total waste may exceed one-half billion dollars.

Chairman Bender (R-Ohio), said that the hearings will concentrate first on overpayments, with E. L. Fisher, newly-appointed chief counsel of the General Accounting Office as a witness. Fisher will testify tomorrow and Wednesday.

Sen. Taft Begins Tour

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 8—(AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft entrained for Chicago tonight on a political "pulse-feeling" tour of the west, after he was told by Ohio Republican leaders that "very encouraging" reports had been received on his probable campaign for the Republican presidential nomination .

ACCUSED GIRL — Barbara E. Roberts (above), 24, was held at Laconia, N. H., on a charge of murder. County Solicitor William W. Keller said the body of her father, Sylvester Roberts, 52, was found under boards of a sheep pen on the family farm.

Truman, Lie Ask "Free Exchange" Of Information

Would Be Peace Aid, Conference Is Told

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—President Truman sent a message to the 55-nation World Statistical Conference here today urging a "free exchange of economic and social information" among all countries to help promote international peace.

Upwards of 600 delegates from all parts of the world are registered for the conference, the first of its kind since 1938. Russia is not represented.

The President's message, conveyed to the conference's opening session by Secretary of Commerce Harriman, declared:

"It is my earnest hope that you men will find means of binding the world together in arrangements for the collection and free exchange of dependable economic and social information concerning all people.

Harriman Delivers Separate Address

"In my opinion, this would do much to promote the growth of peaceful democratic institutions throughout the world."

Harriman told the delegates in a separate address that "if we are ever to have an intelligently functioning world community, we must have an accurate factual map of the world so that all the resources of men can best be used for mankind's benefit.

Lie Urges Free Exchange

Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the United Nations, told the conference that international understanding is impossible without a free exchange of facts.

Without reference to Russia's absence from the parley, Lie declared:

"The task ahead will require the combined efforts of all countries and of all organizations. We cannot cure our troubles unless we know in the first place what those troubles are.

"Likewise, we cannot achieve international understanding, which is the basis of advancement, unless the peoples of the world are given the facts about each other."

Girl Who Wanted To Receive Letter Gets One From Postmaster General

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP) — A nine-year-old Washington, D. C., girl who wanted very much to receive a letter got a personal one today from Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan.

The Postoffice Department told about the letters as a reminder that National Letter-Writing Week is set for October 12-18.

The little girl, Eva Michaelis, apparently got tired of seeing the postman go by her door without stopping. So last week, she got a pencil and wrote:

"Dear Post Man

"Will you please tell somebody to write me a letter.

"Thank you, love, Eva Michaelis, 9 years old."

This she placed in an envelope which she addressed simply: "To the man who takes the mail away." It was "stamped" only with some shiny blue and gold stars, obviously removed from a report card.

The letter, passed around amid smiles at the main postoffice, eventually landed in Hannegan's office. Aides who went to work on the Washington telephone directory found 11 "Michaelis" listings. They called the list until they found the family who had an "Eva."

Then this letter promptly went forward to Eva:

"Dear Miss Michaelis:

"I can think of no better way to encourage the observance of the approaching letter writing week than by writing you.

"The postman delivered your letter to me and I enjoyed reading it.

"I am sure you are a fine little girl. I hope you are successful in your school work and that you will grow up and enjoy in fullest measure the blessings of our great country.

"Kindest regards
"Sincerely yours,
"Robert E. Hannegan."

300 Reported Dead In Bloody Delhi Rioting

Cannon And Grenades Are Used By Military

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 8 (AP)—The twin cities of Old and New Delhi were in a virtual state of siege tonight as police and the military used light cannons, rapid-fire weapons and hand grenades to quell Moslem-Hindu rioting which one high police official said had killed at least 300 persons in two days.

Countless fires, big and small, blazed in the worst affected sections of the old city, where today's rioting centered. New Delhi, which suffered worst yesterday, was fairly quiet today compared with the outbreaks in the crowded bazaar and tenement areas of Old Delhi, where whole blocks of houses were set afire.

Heavy firing, which rattled almost continuously during the morning, slackened during the afternoon, picked up somewhat in the early evening, then subsided except for occasional shots.

Grenades Tossed At Snipers

Adding to the difficulties of those attempting to keep order in the extremely narrow alleys — some barely 15 feet wide—was the sniping from rooftops at the police, the military or members of a rival religious community.

A police magistrate said troops heaved grenades onto rooftops where snipers had been spotted. The magistrate displayed homemade mortars fastened to hand-hewed wooden stocks which he said had been captured in one area. He added that some "bad characters" had holed up in buildings and that the military had not been able to drive them out, e[illegible] with machine guns.

The magistrate said that whereas earlier refugees in this area were mainly Moslems, evacuees now include members of all religious communities: Moslems, Hindus, and Sikhs. Mass evacuations were frequently observed by Associated Press correspondent during day-long tours of trouble areas in the old city.

Prime Ministers Confer

The correspondents watched one caravan estimated at 10,000 Moslems pouring out of the Subzi Mandi vegetable market area, one of the most riot-torn districts in the city.

Meanwhile, Prime Ministers Jawaharlal Nehru, of India, and Liaquat Ali Khan, of Pakistan, declared jointly that armed bands in the strife-torn Punjab would be shot down if caught red-handed in acts of violence.

The two Prime Ministers said their respective governments would take all steps necessary to see that officials carried out their orders against the armed bands. Hundreds of thousands of copies of the statement will be dropped by plane in the East and West Punjab trouble areas.

Price Controls Urged By Kilgore

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (INS) — Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.), urged Congress today to restore some price controls during a special session to check the rising cost of living.

Kilgore, returning from a trip through the Midwest, told a news conference that he had found "terrific resentment" against the high cost of living, and declared that Congress should do something about it unless industry takes action beforehand.

He threw his support behind the reimposition of controls as the Agriculture Department reported that retail prices of most foods will maintain their present levels or go higher this fall and winter.

The department reported that meat prices might decline seasonally during the coming months, but would jump upwards next spring.

In addition to new price controls, Kilgore expressed his view that any foreign aid program to be undertaken by the United States would have to be accompanied by some dollar stabilization plan.

Emphasizing the possibility of serious consequences unless measure are taken either by the government or industry to relieve price pressures, Kilgore said:

"The danger to a nation like ours when prices are too high is that our own people may revolt against them with demands for a controlled economy."

Kilgore said he was not predicting "a revolution," but that this might be the "ultimate conclusion."

Nuns And Children Trapped By Rome Fire

ROME, Tuesday, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Rome Fire Department reported that nuns and children were trapped inside the Convent of San Giuseppe in the heart of Rome when the convent and adjoining church caught fire early today.

The department said 100 firemen were at the scene. It described the situation as "grave."

Department officials would make no estimate of the number of persons inside.

"FORGOTTEN AMERICAN"—Mrs. Anna E. Boyer, self-styled "forgotten American" landlady, stuck to a professed diet of ice water and olive oil yesterday and vowed to die of hunger unless federal agencies permit rent increases in her dilapidated two-story apartment dwelling at Savannah, Ga. The 73-year-old woman said that since last Thursday, she has taken only two or three quarts of ice water daily and an occasional teaspoon of olive oil.

Navy Fires V-2 Rocket From Deck Of Carrier

"New Era In Naval Weapons" Launched

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP) — The Navy opened up what its top expert called "a new era in naval weapons" today with the announcement that a German V-2 rocket was fired last Saturday from the carrier Midway at sea.

It was the first recorded launching of one of the mass destruction weapons from any moving platform.

Specific information was withheld by the Navy on where the Midway was at the time the projectile was launched. But the ship was last reported in Bermuda on Friday and presumably the rocket was fired somewhere in that general vicinity the following day.

The Navy refrained from calling the whole demonstration a "success," using that word only to describe the actual launching operation. Nevertheless the test brought fearfully close the day when any target within V-2 range of a coastline may be menaced by the weapons that battered London and shattered Antwerp.

Goes Only Short Distance

The announcement, chary of details, said the V-2 "after being launched successfully x x x traveled about six miles and exploded." No explanation was given of why the missile went only such a short distance.

Navy officials, who would not be quoted by name, told a reporter the test had been planned for maximum range. The Germans were firing V-2s up to 200 miles toward the close of World War II.

The V-2, more than 40 feet in length and weighing about 26,000 pounds when fully fueled and its warhead loaded with explosives, is heavier than any aircraft bomb in actual use so far, though bombs of 40,000 pounds weight and more are in the planning stage.

Admiral Comments

The Navy's only estimate of the results of the test at sea came from Rear Adm. D. V. Gallery, assistant chief of naval operations for guided missiles. He said:

"This launching will mark the beginning of a new era in naval weapons."

Woman Cuts Foot After Taking Sedative And Bleeds To Death

The victim was Mrs. Helen Proctor, 45, a summer resident of Rye and wife of Ralph Proctor, an electrical engineer of Columbus, O.

Police said Mrs. Proctor apparently arose during the night to take a sedative, dropped a glass on the kitchen floor and stepped on the pieces.

Chief Executive Rests Up At Sea

ABOARD U. S. S. MISSOURI, Sept. 8 (AP)—President Truman, resting up at sea after his strenuous week in Brazil, today read clippings of United States editorial reaction to his speech closing the Western Hemisphere Defense Conference.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, described the tone of the editorials as "very friendly."

Mr. Truman in the speech at Rio de Janeiro served notice that the United States will maintain its strength to back up world peace.

The President made a morning appearance on the deck of this battleship bearing him and his party homeward, but it was brief on account of heavy spray breaking over the ship. He wore a pullover sweater and the new nautical headgear which he calls his six-star cap to give him more rank than his Chief of Staff, Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy.

Mr. Truman breakfasted at 8 a. m., with hot cakes as part of the hearty meal. Mrs. Truman and their daughter Margaret, slept late, however, and only part of the President's staff joined him at the table.

Rent-Increasing Leases Filed On 964,000 Units

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — (AP) — Leases providing rent increases up to 15 per cent under the new rent law had been filed on 964,000 dwelling units throughout the nation up to August 29, Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon announced today.

The figure represents about six per cent of the approximately 15,700,000 units subject to rent control. The law had been in operation eight weeks when the figures were compiled.

One-Fifth Of Terminal Leave Bonds Cashed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—Veterans cashed in more than one-fifth of all terminal leave bonds during the first five days they were allowed to cash them, the Treasury announced today .

It said cash-ins from the opening day last Tuesday through Saturday caused the government to pay out $420,107,425 in principal and $17,256,398 in interest for a total of $437,363,823.

The principal amount absorbed well over one-fifth of the $1,800,000,000 held by some 8,900,000 veterans.

More Exodus Jews To Land; Many Beaten

1,406 Disembarked; British Use Clubs

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 8 (AP)—British troops disembarked 1,406 Jews of the Exodus 1947 today amid scenes of violence, using clubs and their fists to smash resistance of some against landing on German soil.

"This is as bad as Hitler," Jews shouted at the soldiers.

By nightfall the refugees were lodged in a heavily guarded displaced persons camp at Poppendorf, near Hamburg. Thus ended their long journey back to Europe from Palestine waters aboard the British transport Ocean Vigour, the first of three such ships to be unloaded.

Estimates of how many Jews offered resistance varied. Two correspondents permitted aboard the transport said one out of seven — about 175—were subjected to physical pressure. Newsmen watching from the dock saw 50 Jews manhandled. An official British statement said one Jew was hospitalized with head injuries, while several were treated for bruises and other injuries.

More Landings Planned

Early tomorrow the British plan to unload the second ship of the convoy, returning to Germany 4,300 Jews who sailed for the Holy Land from France on July 10, only to be taken in charge eight days later by the British navy off the Palestine coast.

The Jews sailed originally from Sete, France. They refused to disembark when they were returned to Port De Bouc, and the British finally brought them to Hamburg. Today's disembarkation was preceded by an invitation to leave the ship peacefully.

British officials expressed fear tomorrow's landing would see additional violence, but said the troops again were ordered to drag ashore any Jew who resisted.

The Jews who disembarked today were reported more peacefully inclined than those on the other two vessels, Empire Rival and the Runnymede Park. The Empire Rival is expected to be unloaded tomorrow.

Many Jews Shout Defiance

The disembarking began at 6:20 a. m. and was peaceful for the first three hours, when about half of the refugees were unloaded. A radio loudspeaker which had asked the Jews to step peacefully ashore was blaring out music, including "Saturday Night Is the Loneliest Night In The Week."

Then violence broke out in the number two hold, where Jews spurned the invitation to land quietly.

In full view of correspondents on the quayside, the British troops began beating the resisting Jews with truncheons and dragging them bodily down the dock and to the Poppendorf-bound trains.

Men, women and children were dragged down and dumped on the dock, many kicking and flailing their arms and shouting defiance.

Many of the Jews, frustrated in their dream of celebrating the Jewish high holy days a week hence in Palestine, began to wail. They shouted against "Hitlerism" and being returned to "this land which is a bloody graveyard of millions of Jews."

Greek Guerrillas Offered Amnesty

ATHENS, Sept. 8 (AP)—The new Greek government, seeking a vote of confidence in Parliament, announced tonight it would invite an international commission to "guarantee execution" of an unconditional amnesty to guerrillas who surrender with their arms "as soon as possible."

Premier Themistokles Sophoulis, chief of the Liberal-Populist coalition government, announced the amnesty plan to Parliament, as a step to end the prolonged and costly warfare in the north.

Parliament then adjourned until tomorrow, when the vote of confidence will be taken. Leaders of the several opposition parties told Parliament today they would vote confidence in the Sophoulis Cabinet, but Spiro Markezini, leader of a group of 19 deputies who have bolted from the Populists, said he would agree only to a vote of "tolerance."

Sophoulis said that as soon as "pacification" of the country had been accomplished new elections would be held.

The 86-year-old Premier disclosed also that the government plans to modify the tax system to "throw weight on the wealthy classes" and to hit at the black market through control of production and prices.

Sophoulis expressed the hope that the amnesty move would meet with a favorable response, but he made clear that if the war in the north does not end he would call upon the nation to "stamp it out" with all measures at its control.

May Miss Opening Term

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — (AP) — Because of illness Justice William O. Douglas is not expected to return to the Supreme Court bench for opening sessions of the new term next month.

HELD IN PLOT—Rabbi Baruch Korff (above), co-chairman of the American Political Action Committee for Palestine, was arrested while preparing to take off from an airport near Paris, France, and drop 10,000 leaflets on London, the French security police announced. Roger David, spokesman for the Department of Interior, said police had been checking reports of plans to conduct an air expedition over London protesting British return of the 4,400 Jews, taken from the Exodus 1947, to Germany.

American Flier Informed French Police Of "Plot"

Rabbi, Eight Others Are Held In Paris

PARIS, Sept. 8 (AP)—Nine persons, including an American rabbi, were held today for police investigation of an alleged plot to "bomb" London with Stern Gang leaflets, but Reginald Gilbert, 24-year-old Birmingham, Ala., native who was engaged to pilot the "bombing" plane, was released and flown to England in an RAF plane.

Gilbert, arrested with Rabbi Baruch Korff and the latter's woman secretary at an airport near Versailles Saturday, worked with police to foil the plan to drop the Jewish underground propaganda leaflets on London.

The young pilot was reported by friends to have been put under Scotland Yard's protection until he can return to the United States.

Rabbi On Hunger Strike

Korff announced he was on a hunger strike when he appeared in the police lineup today. He and eight others were brought before Judge Fernand Golleti and charged with possession of "pamphlets of foreign origin."

Gilbert's friends said that as a pilot in the United States Army Air Forces during the war he flew 136 fighter missions over the continent and was credited with shooting down nine German aircraft.

They said he had gone directly to the British Embassy from the meeting with Korff, at which he was asked to pilot the rabbi's plane, and reported the plot. The propaganda "raid" on London was to have coincided with the disembarkation of Jewish refugees from British transports at Hamburg.

Feared For Flier's Life

Gilbert was spirited out of France at about the same time Korff was brought before Judge Goletti. Police said they feared for the young flier's life of the Stern Gang ever caught him.

Police headquarters spokesmen here were frank in expressing chagrin at premature announcements that Gilbert had been their informer.

"We wanted to get him out of France before that fact was known," one officer at the Surete Nationale headquarters said.

Gilbert, with an escort of two gendarmes, was permitted to visit friends in Paris today to say farewell before he was taken to England.

Anti-Red Part Ruled Proper By U. S. Judge

Oil Workers Union Loses By Decision

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 8—(AP) — Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson today held the non-Communist portions of the Taft-Hartley law are legal, consistent and proper.

Judge Davidson made this ruling during a hearing by which the Oil Workers International Union (CIO) today sought to force Edwin A. Elliott, regional NLRB director, to count ballots in an election of workers of the Deep Oil Development of Wichita Falls, Tex.

"The Constitution guarantees a representative form of government," Davidson declared, "and it is consistent and proper to throw restraint around any organization by denying privileges to those who would destroy this form of government."

Judge Davidson held that by failing to comply with the provision of the Taft-Hartley law which requires filing of non-Communist affidavits, the OWIU was not eligible for certification as a bargaining unit.

Davidson declared that since the Constitution guaranteed a republican form of government and that the people were expected to live by the laws which their representatives made, it "behooves the government to attempt to control the growth of any system that would attempt to control the government."

"Communism is recognized as not being a representative form of government," Davidson declared. "Communism is more the dictatorial type.

"Elections under a dictator are one-sided affairs. People do not have a free choice.

"If the law means what it says, then provisions of it must be complied with."

He added that it was "consistent and proper" for a republican form of government to "throw restraint around any organization or government that would destroy this republican form of government by denying privileges to those who would destroy it."

The OWIU had contended that its constitution bars Communists from membership and officer positions.

Judge Davidson held that the union was an affiliate of the CIO, which has not complied with the law.

Green Believes AFL Leaders Will Sign Up

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (AP) — AFL President William Green expressed the opinion tonight that top AFL leaders would sign non-Communist affidavits in order to use the National Labor Relations Board in jurisdictional fights with rival unions.

A decision was put off by the Executive Council until Friday morning, Green said, to permit a legal inquiry into a ruling by NRLB General Counsel Robert N. Denham that AFL council members must sign the affidavits.

Green said the same affidavits were not being required of the 51 members of the CIO Executive Board and the AFL council members wanted to know the reason.

Denham made the distinction between the CIO Executive Board and the AFL Executive Council when he handed down his ruling about three weeks ago. Denham decided that all 15 members of the AFL Council should sign because all were vice presidents or other officers in the AFL. The CIO board, on the other hand, is composed of presidents of all CIO unions. Only 11 of them are officers in the CIO.

These 11 CIO officers met in Pittsburgh last Friday and put off their decision on signing the affidavits—and, therefore, using the NLRB machinery—until the CIO convention in Boston beginning October 13.

The affidavits are provided for under the Taft-Hartley Labor Management Relations Act. As interpreted by Denham, failure of any AFL or CIO officer to sign the declaration that he is not a Communist would keep all member unions from using the board.

VFW Stages Huge, Six-Hour Parade At Cleveland; Meeting Ends Today

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8 (INS)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars abandoned business sessions this afternoon to stage a gigantic, six-hour parade through Cleveland's downtown section.

More than 250,000 persons were estimated on hand as the 20,000 veterans strutted down the streets in the major specatacle of their 48th national encampment.

In the morning business session of the VFW, housing and national security again held top priority on the agenda. Resolutions calling for a strengthened air force, establishment of a national science foundation and a more powerful National Guard and organized reserves were passed.

Some opposition was met before another resolution, demanding that atomic control be returned to the military, was approved. The resolution also stated that all atomic information be withheld from other countries.

Rev. Michael Haley, past national VFW chaplain, speaking in favor of the atomic resolution, charged that Russia has been "goading" America to war. He asked:

"When shall we use the atomic bomb which God has placed in our hands to enforce peace?"

The VFW also went counter to its rival veterans organization, the Amreican Legion, by voting support of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. The American Legion withdrew support of the bill at its recent meeting in New York.

The ex-servicemen will conclude their six-day encampment tomorrow with election of national officers. Ray H. Brannaman, Denver, Col., present senior vice-commander, is slated to move up to the commander-in-chief's spot.

Truman, Lie Ask "Free Exchange" Of Information

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—President Truman sent a message to the 55-nation World Statistical Conference here today urging a "free exchange of economic and social information" among all countries to help promote international peace.

Upwards of 600 delegates from all parts of the world are registered for the conference, the first of its kind since 1938. Russia is not represented.

"In my opinion, this would do much to promote the growth of peaceful democratic institutions throughout the world."

Harriman told the delegates in a separate address that "if we are ever to have an intelligently functioning world community, we must have an accurate factual map of the world so that all the resources of men can best be used for mankind's benefit.

Lie Urges Free Exchange

Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the United Nations, told the conference that international understanding is impossible without a free exchange of facts.

Without reference to Russia's absence from the parley, Lie declared:

"The task ahead will require the combined efforts of all countries and of all organizations. We cannot cure our troubles unless we know in the first place what those troubles are.

"Likewise, we cannot achieve international understanding, which is the basis of advancement, unless the peoples of the world are given the facts about each other."

Girl Who Wanted To Receive Letter Gets One From Postmaster General

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP) — A nine-year-old Washington, D. C., girl who wanted very much to receive a letter got a personal one today from Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan.

The Postoffice Department told about the letters as a reminder that National Letter-Writing Week is set for October 12-18.

The little girl, Eva Michaelis, apparently got tired of seeing the postman go by her door without stopping. So last week, she got a pencil and wrote:

"Dear Post Man

"Will you please tell somebody to write me a letter.

"Thank you, love, Eva Michaelis, 9 years old."

This she placed in an envelope which she addressed simply: "To the man who takes the mail away." It was "stamped" only with some shiny blue and gold stars, obviously removed from a report card.

The letter, passed around amid smiles at the main postoffice, eventually landed in Hannegan's office. Aides who went to work on the Washington telephone directory found 11 "Michaelis" listings. They called the list until they found the family who had an "Eva."

Then this letter promptly went forward to Eva:

"Dear Miss Michaelis:

"I can think of no better way to encourage the observance of the approaching letter writing week than by writing you.

"The postman delivered your letter to me and I enjoyed reading it.

"I am sure you are a fine little girl. I hope you are successful in your school work and that you will grow up and enjoy in fullest measure the blessings of our great country.

"Kindest regards

"Sincerely yours,

"Robert E. Hannegan."

Cannon And Grenades Are Used By Military

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 8 (AP)—The twin cities of Old and New Delhi were in a virtual state of siege tonight as police and the military used light cannons, rapid-fire weapons and hand grenades to quell Moslem-Hindu rioting which one high police official said had killed at least 300 persons in two days.

Countless fires, big and small, blazed in the worst affected sections of the old city, where today's rioting centered. New Delhi, which suffered worst yesterday, was fairly quiet today compared with the outbreaks in the crowded bazaar and tenement areas of Old Delhi, where whole blocks of houses were set afire.

Heavy firing, which rattled almost continuously during the morning, slackened during the afternoon, picked up somewhat in the early evening, then subsided except for occasional shots.

Grenades Tossed At Snipers

Adding to the difficulties of those attempting to keep order in the extremely narrow alleys — some barely 15 feet wide—was the sniping from rooftops at the police, the military or members of a rival religious community.

A police magistrate said troops heaved grenades onto rooftops where snipers had been spotted. The magistrate displayed homemade mortars fastened to handhewed wooden stocks which he said had been captured in one area. He added that some "bad characters" had holed up in buildings and that the military had not been able to drive them out, [illegible] with machine guns.

The magistrate said that whereas earlier refugees in this area were mainly Moslems, evacuees now include members of all religious communities: Moslems, Hindus, and Sikhs. Mass evacuations were frequently observed by Associated Press correspondent during day-long tours of trouble areas in the old city.

Prime Ministers Confer

The correspondents watched one caravan estimated at 10,000 Moslems pouring out of the Subzi Mandi vegetable market area, one of the most riot-torn districts in the city.

Meanwhile, Prime Ministers Jawaharlal Nehru, of India, and Liaquat Ali Khan, of Pakistan, declared jointly that armed bands in the strife-torn Punjab would be shot down if caught red-handed in acts of violence.

The two Prime Ministers said their respective governments would take all steps necessary to see that officials carried out their orders against the armed bands. Hundreds of thousands of copies of the statement will be dropped by plane in the East and West Punjab trouble areas.

Price Controls Urged By Kilgore

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (INS) — Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.), urged Congress today to restore some price controls during a special session to check the rising cost of living.

Kilgore, returning from a trip through the Midwest, told a news conference that he had found "terrific resentment" against the high cost of living, and declared that Congress should do something about it unless industry takes action beforehand.

He threw his support behind the reimposition of controls as the Agriculture Department reported that retail prices of most foods will maintain their present levels or go higher this fall and winter.

The department reported that meat prices might decline seasonally during the coming months, but would jump upwards next spring.

In addition to new price controls, Kilgore expressed his view that any foreign aid program to be undertaken by the United States would have to be accompanied by some dollar stabilization plan.

Emphasizing the possibility of serious consequences unless measure are taken either by the government or industry to relieve price pressures, Kilgore said:

"The danger to a nation like ours when prices are too high is that our own people may revolt against them with demands for a controlled economy."

Nuns And Children Trapped By Rome Fire

ROME, Tuesday, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Rome Fire Department reported that nuns and children were trapped inside the Convent of San Giuseppe in the heart of Rome when the convent and adjoining church caught fire early today.

The department said 100 firemen were at the scene. It described the situation as "grave."

Department officials would make no estimate of the number of persons inside.

"FORGOTTEN AMERICAN"—Mrs. Anna E. Boyer, self-styled "forgotten American" landlady, stuck to a professed diet of ice water and olive oil yesterday and vowed to die of hunger unless federal agencies permit rent increases in her dilapidated two-story apartment dwelling at Savannah, Ga. The 73-year-old woman said that since last Thursday, she has taken only two or three quarts of ice water daily and an occasional teaspoon of olive oil.

Navy Fires V-2 Rocket From Deck Of Carrier

"New Era In Naval Weapons" Launched

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP) — The Navy opened up what its top expert called "a new era in naval weapons" today with the announcement that a German V-2 rocket was fired last Saturday from the carrier Midway at sea.

It was the first recorded launching of one of the mass destruction weapons from any moving platform.

Specific information was withheld by the Navy on where the Midway was at the time the projectile was launched. But the ship was last reported in Bermuda on Friday and presumably the rocket was fired somewhere in that general vicinity the following day.

The Navy refrained from calling the whole demonstration a "success," using that word only to describe the actual launching operation. Nevertheless the test brought fearfully close the day when any target within V-2 range of a coastline may be menaced by the weapons that battered London and shattered Antwerp.

Goes Only Short Distance

The announcement, chary of details, said the V-2 "after being launched successfully x x x traveled about six miles and exploded." No explanation was given of why the missile went only such a short distance.

Navy officials, who would not be quoted by name, told a reporter the test had been planned for maximum range. The Germans were firing V-2s up to 200 miles toward the close of World War II.

The V-2, more than 40 feet in length and weighing about 26,000 pounds when fully fueled and its warhead loaded with explosives, is heavier than any aircraft bomb in actual use so far, though bombs of 40,000 pounds weight and more are in the planning stage.

Admiral Comments

The Navy's only estimate of the results of the test at sea came from Rear Adm. D. V. Gallery, assistant chief of naval operations for guided missiles. He said:

"This launching will mark the beginning of a new era in naval weapons."

Woman Cuts Foot After Taking Sedative And Bleeds To Death

The victim was Mrs. Helen Proctor, 45, a summer resident of Rye and wife of Ralph Proctor, an electrical engineer of Columbus, O.

Chief Executive Rests Up At Sea

ABOARD U. S. S. MISSOURI, Sept. 8 (AP)—President Truman, resting up at sea after his strenuous week in Brazil, today read clippings of United States editorial reaction to his speech closing the Western Hemisphere Defense Conference.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, described the tone of the editorials as "very friendly."

Mr. Truman in the speech at Rio de Janeiro served notice that the United States will maintain its strength to back up world peace.

The President made a morning appearance on the deck of this battleship bearing him and his party homeward, but it was brief on account of heavy spray breaking over the ship. He wore a pullover sweater and the new nautical headgear which he calls his six-star cap to give him more rank than his Chief of Staff, Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy.

Mr. Truman breakfasted at 8 a. m., with hot cakes as part of the hearty meal. Mrs. Truman and their daughter Margaret, slept late, however, and only part of the President's staff joined him at the table.

Rent-Increasing Leases Filed On 964,000 Units

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — (AP) — Leases providing rent increases up to 15 per cent under the new rent law had been filed on 964,000 dwelling units throughout the nation up to August 29, Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon announced today.

The figure represents about six per cent of the approximately 15,700,000 units subject to rent control. The law had been in operation eight weeks when the figures were compiled.

One-Fifth Of Terminal Leave Bonds Cashed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—Veterans cashed in more than one-fifth of all terminal leave bonds during the first five days they were allowed to cash them, the Treasury announced today.

It said cash-ins from the opening day last Tuesday through Saturday caused the government to pay out $420,107,425 in principal and $17,256,398 in interest for a total of $437,363,823.

The principal amount absorbed well over one-fifth of the $1,800,000,000 held by some 8,900,000 veterans.

1,406 Disembarked; British Use Clubs

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 8 (AP)—British troops disembarked 1,406 Jews of the Exodus 1947 today amid scenes of violence, using clubs and their fists to smash resistance of some against landing on German soil.

"This is as bad as Hitler," Jews shouted at the soldiers.

By nightfall the refugees were lodged in a heavily guarded displaced persons camp at Poppendorf, near Hamburg. Thus ended their long journey back to Europe from Palestine waters aboard the British transport Ocean Vigour, the first of three such ships to be unloaded.

Estimates of how many Jews offered resistance varied. Two correspondents permitted aboard the transport said one out of seven — about 175—were subjected to physical pressure. Newsmen watching from the dock saw 50 Jews manhandled. An official British statement said one Jew was hospitalized with head injuries, while several were treated for bruises and other injuries.

More Landings Planned

Early tomorrow the British plan to unload the second ship of the convoy, returning to Germany 4,300 Jews who sailed for the Holy Land from France on July 10, only to be taken in charge eight days later by the British navy off the Palestine coast.

The Jews sailed originally from Sete, France. They refused to disembark when they were returned to Port De Bouc, and the British finally brought them to Hamburg. Today's disembarkation was preceded by an invitation to leave the ship peacefully.

British officials expressed fear tomorrow's landing would see additional violence, but said the troops again were ordered to drag ashore any Jew who resisted.

The Jews who disembarked today were reported more peacefully inclined than those on the other two vessels, Empire Rival and the Runnymede Park. The Empire Rival is expected to be unloaded tomorrow.

Many Jews Shout Defiance

The disembarking began at 6:20 a. m. and was peaceful for the first three hours, when about half of the refugees were unloaded. A radio loudspeaker which had asked the Jews to step peacefully ashore was blaring out music, including "Saturday Night Is the Loneliest Night In The Week."

Then violence broke out in the number two hold, where Jews spurned the invitation to land quietly.

In full view of correspondents on the quayside, the British troops began beating the resisting Jews with truncheons and dragging them bodily down the dock and to the Poppendorf-bound trains.

Men, women and children were dragged down and dumped on the dock, many kicking and flailing their arms and shouting defiance.

Many of the Jews, frustrated in their dream of celebrating the Jewish high holy days a week hence in Palestine, began to wail. They shouted against "Hitlerism" and being returned to "this land which is a bloody graveyard of millions of Jews."

Greek Guerrillas Offered Amnesty

ATHENS, Sept. 8 (AP)—The new Greek government, seeking a vote of confidence in Parliament, announced tonight it would invite an international commission to "guarantee execution" of an unconditional amnesty to guerrillas who surrender with their arms "as soon as possible."

Premier Themistokles Sophoulis, chief of the Liberal-Populist coalition government, announced the amnesty plan to Parliament, as a step to end the prolonged and costly warfare in the north.

Parliament then adjourned until tomorrow, when the vote of confidence will be taken. Leaders of the several opposition parties told Parliament today they would vote confidence in the Sophoulis Cabinet, but Spiro Markezini, leader of a group of 19 deputies who have bolted from the Populists, said he would agree only to a vote of "tolerance."

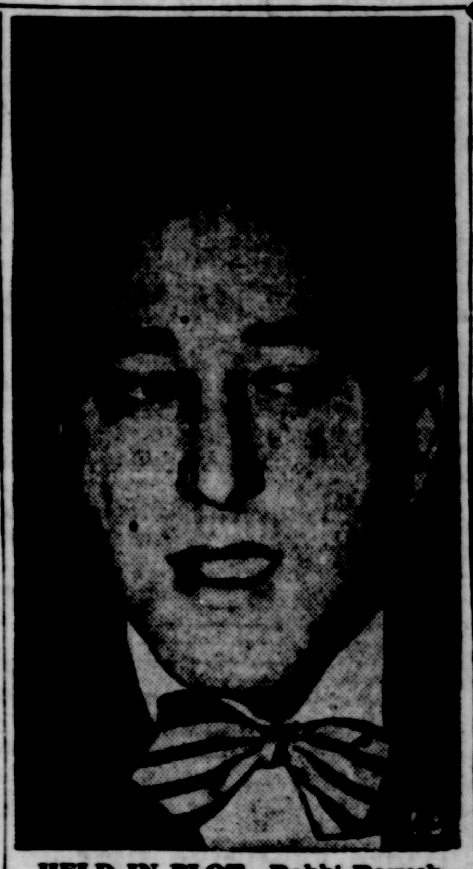
Sophoulis said that as soon as "pacification" of the country had been accomplished new elections would be held.

The 86-year-old Premier disclosed also that the government plans to modify the tax system to "throw weight on the wealthy classes" and to hit at the black market through control of production and prices.

Sophoulis expressed the hope that the amnesty move would meet with a favorable response, but he made clear that if the war in the north does not end he would call upon the nation to "stamp it out" with all measures at its control.

May Miss Opening Term

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — (AP) — Because of illness Justice William O. Douglas is not expected to return to the Supreme Court bench for opening sessions of the new term next month.



HELD IN PLOT—Rabbi Baruch Korff (above), co-chairman of the American Political Action Committee for Palestine, was arrested while preparing to take off from an airport near Paris, France, and drop 10,000 leaflets on London, the French security police announced. Roger David, spokesman for the Department of Interior, said police had been checking reports of plans to conduct an air expedition over London protesting British return of the 4,400 Jews, taken from the Exodus 1947, to Germany.

American Flier Informed French Police Of "Plot"

Rabbi, Eight Others Are Held In Paris

PARIS, Sept. 8 (AP)—Nine persons, including an American rabbi, were held today for police investigation of an alleged plot to "bomb" London with Stern Gang leaflets, but Reginald Gilbert, 24-year-old Birmingham, Ala., native who was engaged to pilot the "bombing" plane, was released and flown to England in an RAF plane.

Gilbert, arrested with Rabbi Baruch Korff and the latter's woman secretary at an airport near Versailles Saturday, worked with police to foil the plan to drop the Jewish underground propaganda leaflets on London.

The young pilot was reported by friends to have been put under Scotland Yard's protection until he can return to the United States.

Rabbi On Hunger Strike

Korff announced he was on a hunger strike when he appeared in the police lineup today. He and eight others were brought before Judge Fernand Golleti and charged with possession of "pamphlets of foreign origin."

Gilbert's friends said that as a pilot in the United States Army Air Forces during the war he flew 136 fighter missions over the continent and was credited with shooting down nine German aircraft.

They said he had gone directly to the British Embassy from the meeting with Korff, at which he was asked to pilot the rabbi's plane, and reported the plot. The propaganda "raid" on London was to have coincided with the disembarkation of Jewish refugees from British transports at Hamburg.

Feared For Flier's Life

Gilbert was spirited out of France at about the same time Korff was brought before Judge Goletti. Police said they feared for the young flier's life of the Stern Gang ever caught him.

Police headquarters spokesmen here were frank in expressing chagrin at premature announcements that Gilbert had been their informer.

"We wanted to get him out of France before that fact was known," one officer at the Surete Nationale headquarters said.

Gilbert, with an escort of two gendarmes, was permitted to visit friends in Paris today to say farewell before he was taken to England.

Anti-Red Part Ruled Proper By U. S. Judge

Oil Workers Union Loses By Decision

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 8—(AP) — Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson today held the non-Communist portions of the Taft-Hartley law are legal, consistent and proper.

Judge Davidson made this ruling during a hearing by which the Oil Workers International Union (CIO) today sought to force Edwin A. Elliott, regional NLRB director, to count ballots in an election of workers of the Deep Oil Development of Wichita Falls, Tex.

"The Constitution guarantees a representative form of government," Davidson declared, "and it is consistent and proper to throw restraint around any organization by denying privileges to those who would destroy this form of government."

Judge Davidson held that by failing to comply with the provision of the Taft-Hartley law which requires filing of non-Communist affidavits, the OWIU was not eligible for certification as a bargaining unit.

Davidson declared that since the Constitution guaranteed a republican form of government and that the people were expected to live by the laws which their representatives made, it "behooves the government to attempt to control the growth of any system that would attempt to control the government."

"Communism is recognized as not being a representative form of government," Davidson declared. "Communism is more the dictatorial type.

"Elections under a dictator are one-sided affairs. People do not have a free choice.

"If the law means what it says, then provisions of it must be complied with."

He added that it was "consistent and proper" for a republican form of government to "throw restraint around any organization or government that would destroy this republican form of government by denying privileges to those who would destroy it."

The OWIU had contended that its constitution bars Communists from membership and officer positions.

Judge Davidson held that the union was an affiliate of the CIO, which has not complied with the law.

Green Believes AFL Leaders Will Sign Up

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (AP) — AFL President William Green expressed the opinion tonight that top AFL leaders would sign non-Communist affidavits in order to use the National Labor Relations Board in jurisdictional fights with rival unions.

A decision was put off by the Executive Council until Friday morning, Green said, to permit a legal inquiry into a ruling by NRLB General Counsel Robert N. Denham that AFL council members must sign the affidavits.

Green said the same affidavits were not being required of the 51 members of the CIO Executive Board and the AFL council members wanted to know the reason.

Denham made the distinction between the CIO Executive Board and the AFL Executive Council when he handed down his ruling about three weeks ago. Denham decided that all 15 members of the AFL Council should sign because all were vice presidents or other officers in the AFL. The CIO board, on the other hand, is composed of presidents of all CIO unions. Only 11 of them are officers in the CIO.

These 11 CIO officers met in Pittsburgh last Friday and put off their decision on signing the affidavits—and, therefore, using the NLRB machinery—until the CIO convention in Boston beginning October 13.

The affidavits are provided for under the Taft-Hartley Labor Management Relations Act. As interpreted by Denham, failure of any AFL or CIO officer to sign the declaration that he is not a Communist would keep all member unions from using the board.

VFW Stages Huge, Six-Hour Parade At Cleveland; Meeting Ends Today

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8 (INS)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars abandoned business sessions this afternoon to stage a gigantic, six-hour parade through Cleveland's downtown section.

More than 250,000 persons were estimated on hand as the 20,000 veterans strutted down the streets in the major specatacle of their 48th national encampment.

In the morning business session of the VFW, housing and national security again held top priority on the agenda. Resolutions calling for a strengthened air force, establishment of a national science foundation and a more powerful National Guard and organized reserves were passed.

Some opposition was met before another resolution, demanding that atomic control be returned to the military, was approved. The resolution also stated that all atomic information be withheld from other countries.

Rev. Michael Haley, past national VFW chaplain, speaking in favor of the atomic resolution, charged that Russia has been "goading" America to war. He asked:

"When shall we use the atomic bomb which God has placed in our hands to enforce peace?"

The VFW also went counter to its rival veterans organization, the Amreican Legion, by voting support of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. The American Legion withdrew support of the bill at its recent meeting in New York.

The ex-servicemen will conclude their six-day encampment tomorrow with election of national officers. Ray H. Brannaman, Denver, Col., present senior vice-commander, is slated to move up to the commander-in-chief's spot.

Doomed Negro's Advice: "Don't Do As I Have Did"

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (AP) — A 23-year-old negro convicted of murder and sentenced to die Friday in the electric chair said today:

"Boys, please don't do as I have did. Do as I say.

"You are not tough when you put a gun in a man's face and take what he has worked for.

"It don't take guts to do that. Any fool can put a gun in his hand and do wrong.

"But it takes a man with guts to get a job and work for what he wants. You are a man when you get that tough."

The advice was written by Ernest Gaither, Jr., convicted of murdering Max Baran in a tavern shooting last February 9. It was contained in a crudely-penciled note he handed to Warden Frank G. Sain at county jail.

The Illinois Supreme Court today declined to interfere in the scheduled execution, 55th in Cook County history.

In the testimonial Gaither described himself as "little Gaither the money waster and the woman chaser—I thought I was a big shot. Two or three grands on me at all times. But it was a great mistake I made for thinking that." He added:

"I have never worked in my life. x x x I was one of the best fighters in my class at one time. Yes, my fame was ranging all over Chicago as a big time gambler, but how do you think I got my money? I didn't get all of it from boxing.

"I was a stickup man, that's what I was at the age of 16. I was boss of a gang. I mean I was head of some tough guys. x x x

"All the guys are now in prison—all but one, he went to the chair. I even went to prison myself. I was there five and a half years. I had life. I got out in June '46.

"It looked as if that sure have been a lessing to me, don't it. But it wasn't. After I was out six months I came to be head man of another gang.

"Well I have had my fun. But the end of my life is about here. So boys please don't do as I have did. Do as I say."

Fight To Put Sales Tax Up To Vote Is In Court

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 8 (AP)—Maryland had official notice today that a fight to put its two per cent retail sales tax to the voters has gone to court.

Anne Arundel County Sheriff Joseph Alton delivered a show cause order to the office of Secretary of State Bertram L. Boone this morning. It allowed the secretary until October 4 to answer a petition for a mandamus writ that would require a sales tax referendum in November, 1948.

The petition was filed in county court last Friday by Carroll H. Albaugh, Annapolis attorney for four protesting taxpayers. One of them, Robert I. Black, Norbeck, is president of the Maryland Economic Council, which filed petitions for referendum with the Secretary of State in May and June.

Bazooka Blast, Fatal To Three Children, Probed

NEWTON, Kas., Sept. 8. (AP)—A bazooka rocket explosion which killed three children and injured five others in their farm home was under investigation today by Fort Riley officials.

The bazooka, which Arnold Schmidt, father of the children, said he had picked up near Fort Riley, exploded last night after one of the youngsters threw it on a cement walk.

Killed instantly was Calvin Schmidt, 11. Portions of the child's body were found scattered over a wide area. Caroline 7, and Paul David 9, died en route to the hospital.

Minor Storm Becomes Guinea Pig For Hurricane-Busting Experiment

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 8 (AP)—A minor tropical storm made a sneak appearance in the Gulf of Mexico today and became a meteorological guinea pig for history's first hurricane-busting experiment.

Today's storm developed too close to the Florida west coast to be seeded with dry ice or other crystals by Army and Navy planes. The military services and scientists cooperating with them want a bigger storm farther at sea for their first real effort.

A Navy hurricane hunter plane from the Miami Naval Air Station probed the gulf storm for possibly the last bit of research before the actual hurricane busting effort begins.

The hurricane hunter craft was piloted by Lt. R. Dannetell, with Lt. Comdr. C. Marshall the co-pilot and Ensign W. J. Remillard the meteorologist. No chemicals were dropped into the storm.

All phases of the plan to artificially disintegrate hurricanes will be ready next weekend. Crews are being briefed, photographic equipment gathered and scientific data studied for the effort. The Army, Navy and General Electric Company will cooperate in the plan which has been worked out by Dr. Irving Langmuir, noted physicist and Nobel prize-winner.

Rainmaking by "seeding" clouds with dry ice is not new, but the huge, violent hurricane, packed with energy and spinning like a giant wheel, has never been tackled. Various chemicals are to be used, but the experiment will be cautiously conducted because the effect on such a storm is not known. Meteorologists believe that the release of heat energy in condensation and precipitation is a part of the motivating force behind hurricanes.

Soviet Objections Delay Four-Power Korea Meet

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (INS)—Russian objections today forced "postponement" of a scheduled meeting of Pacific Big Four representatives in Washington to discuss problems of Korean independence.

Lincoln White, State Department spokesman, acknowledged that Russia replied to the American proposal that top diplomatic representatives of Russia, China and Great Britain meet with State Department officials in an effort to overcome the two-year Russo-American stalemate.

White would not divulge contents of the note. He said only that as a result of its receipt this afternoon's proposed meeting had been postponed.

"What this country amounts to depends on what happens to its homes." . . . That's why the life insurance companies and their agents are bringing you this series of messages from the nation's foremost authorities, to help you plan for happiness in the handling of your family money. (This is Message Number 20.)

How to meet happiness HALF-WAY!

Dreams can be made to come true, if the family all works together!

An authoritative message on how your family can set its goals, and decide what it wants to get out of life . . .

by MARGARET CULKIN BANNING,
noted Author and Lecturer

Margaret Culkin Banning

HAPPINESS is not just an accident! It can be planned. The family that knows what it wants in life already has taken the first step.

Of course different families want different things . . .

The young Castles (I've changed these names, of course) spend all the money they can on things for their home! Except for their children, their house means more to them than anything else. Every piece of equipment, from the living-room chairs to the washing machine is a family treasure. They buy books too; and albums of records. They have a charming, convenient house, and they are always thinking of ways to improve it.

The Macknights, who live next door, spend much less on their house. They can't afford it; not and take a trip every year. But they figure that both they and their children will get more from meeting new people and seeing new places than from having extra household comforts.

"It all depends on what you want out of life," the Castles say to the Macknights, arguing in a friendly way about which family gets the most. But they agree, with modern tolerance, that each family should make its own plan, according to the temperament and philosophy of its members.

The only ones who miss out all around are those couples who never manage to agree on what they want, or what they are working for. Families like that scatter their energy and their money, without ever seeming to have any satisfactions to show for what they spend.

You can't have everything, nor do you want it. In the last ten years, the ambitions of most young people in America have become simpler, and the way they live shows it. Yet the variety of what they want is wider than ever.

Basically, all young American families want safety. They want no more wars. They want to earn security, too . . . not a million dollars, but enough money for decent and independent living.

Beyond this, young people seek personal goals of their own. Homes, entertaining, travel, hobbies . . . none of these goals is new. None of them need shut out all the others. What is new is that many modern young families know that they must make a choice, and organize their lives accordingly.

It may not always be possible to reach one's goals. But in working toward them there is great unity. If a family has no goals, children and parents live in confusion. After a plan has been made, happiness often comes half-way to meet it!

How to PLAN for Family Happiness

- Planning what you want in life is only part of sound money planning. You'll be more likely to have enough money on hand when you need it, if you'll follow these few simple rules:

FOR TODAY . . . The first thing, for most families, is to take care of the larger fixed items such as rent, taxes, insurance, mortgage and installment payments, etc.

So start by adding up all your fixed items for the year, divide by 52, and set aside that amount weekly.

Also every family should have a "rainy day" fund equal to at least four weeks' income. Set aside a little every week until you have that much. Then, you'll know how much you can spend for food, clothing, heat, light, amusements, and so forth.

FOR TOMORROW . . . We live in a changing world. Family needs and circumstances change . . . living costs . . . taxes. If you have not had your life insurance program reviewed lately, the chances are 2 to 1 that it should be brought up to date.

There are so many ways in which you can use your life insurance, that you should have the life insurance you now own checked to see if it is suited to your needs. This is a service that comes with your life insurance.

The person best equipped to help you with this is the well-trained life insurance agent. Get in touch with your agent, or write your life insurance company. INSTITUTE OF LIFE INSURANCE, 60 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N. Y.

Doomed Negro's Advice: "Don't Do As I Have Did"

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (AP) — A 23-year-old negro convicted of murder and sentenced to die Friday in the electric chair said today:

"Boys, please don't do as I have did. Do as I say.

"You are not tough when you put a gun in a man's face and take what he has worked for.

"It don't take guts to do that. Any fool can put a gun in his hand and do wrong.

"But it takes a man with guts to get a job and work for what he wants. You are a man when you get that tough."

The advice was written by Ernest Gaither, Jr., convicted of murdering Max Baran in a tavern shooting last February 9. It was contained in a crudely-penciled note he handed to Warden Frank G. Sain at county jail.

The Illinois Supreme Court today declined to interfere in the scheduled execution, 58th in Cook County history.

In the testimonial Gaither described himself as "little Gaither the money waster and the woman chaser—I thought I was a big shot. Two or three grands on me at all times. But it was a great mistake I made for thinking that." He added:

"I have never worked in my life. x x x I was one of the best fighters in my class at one time. Yes, my fame was ranging all over Chicago as a big time gambler, but how do you think I got my money? I didn't get all of it from boxing.

"I was a stickup man, that's what I was at the age of 16. I was boss of a gang. I mean I was head of some tough guys. x x x

"All the guys are now in prison—all but one, he went to the chair. I even went to prison myself. I was there five and a half years. I had life. I got out in June '46.

"It looked as if that sure have been a lessing to me, don't it. But it wasn't. After I was out six months I came to be head man of another gang.

"Well I have had my fun. But the end of my life is about here. So boys please don't do as I have did. Do as I say."

Fight To Put Sales Tax Up To Vote Is In Court

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 8 (AP)—Maryland had official notice today that a fight to put its two per cent retail sales tax to the voters has gone to court.

Anne Arundel County Sheriff Joseph Alton delivered a show cause order to the office of Secretary of State Bertram L. Boone this morning. It allowed the secretary until October 4 to answer a petition for a mandamus writ that would require a sales tax referendum in November, 1948.

The petition was filed in county court last Friday by Carroll H. Albaugh, Annapolis attorney for four protesting taxpayers. One of them, Robert I. Black, Norbeck, is president of the Maryland Economic Council, which filed petitions for referendum with the Secretary of State in May and June.

Bazooka Blast, Fatal To Three Children, Probed

NEWTON, Kas., Sept. 8. (AP)—A bazooka rocket explosion which killed three children and injured five others in their farm home was under investigation today by Fort Riley officials.

The bazooka, which Arnold Schmidt, father of the children, said he had picked up near Fort Riley, exploded last night after one of the youngsters threw it on a cement walk.

Killed instantly was Calvin Schmidt, 11. Portions of the child's body were found scattered over a wide area. Caroline 7, and Paul David 9, died en route to the hospital.

Store Executive Dies

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—William G. Woodward, 64, department store executive and former advertising manager of New York newspapers, died today.

Minor Storm Becomes Guinea Pig For Hurricane-Busting Experiment

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 8 (AP)—A minor tropical storm made a sneak appearance in the Gulf of Mexico today and became a meteorological guinea pig for history's first hurricane-busting experiment.

Today's storm developed too close to the Florida west coast to be seeded with dry ice or other crystals by Army and Navy planes. The military services and scientists cooperating with them want a bigger storm farther at sea for their first real effort.

A Navy hurricane hunter plane from the Miami Naval Air Station probed the gulf storm for possibly the last bit of research before the actual hurricane busting effort begins.

The hurricane hunter craft was piloted by Lt. R. Dannetell, with Lt. Comdr. C. Marshall the co-pilot and Ensign W. J. Remillard the meteorologist. No chemicals were dropped into the storm.

All phases of the plan to artificially disintegrate hurricanes will be ready next weekend. Crews are being briefed, photographic equipment gathered and scientific data studied for the effort. The Army, Navy and General Electric Company will cooperate in the plan which has been worked out by Dr. Irving Langmuir, noted physicist and Nobel prize-winner.

Rainmaking by "seeding" clouds with dry ice is not new, but the huge, violent hurricane, packed with energy and spinning like a giant wheel, has never been tackled. Various chemicals are to be used, but the experiment will be cautiously conducted because the effect on such a storm is not known. Meteorologists believe that the release of heat energy in condensation and precipitation is a part of the motivating force behind hurricanes.

Soviet Objections Delay Four-Power Korea Meet

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (INS)—Russian objections today forced "postponement" of a scheduled meeting of Pacific Big Four representatives in Washington to discuss problems of Korean independence.

Lincoln White, State Department spokesman, acknowledged that Russia replied to the American proposal that top diplomatic representatives of Russia, China and Great Britain meet with State Department officials in an effort to overcome the two-year Russo-American stalemate.

White would not divulge contents of the note. He said only that as a result of its receipt this afternoon's proposed meeting had been postponed.

Sen. McKellar Ill

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 8 — (AP) — Sen. Kenneth McKellar, Democrat of Memphis, Tenn., was reported ill of food poisoning today at the Hotel Traymore, his secretary, W. R. Davidson, said.

Weather In Nearby States

Television Sets Reduced

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—Reductions in the price of big-screen projection television models were announced today by United States Television Manufacturing Corporation.

Hamilton Hoge, president, said mass production and absorption of costs by heavy sales had made possible cuts up to $480 in the price of models selling around $2,000.

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was certainly astonished when I read your article in which you discussed the case of a young girl 17 being in love with a man 23. I personally believe you were very narrow-minded in telling this young lady she is too young to get married. I know many 17-year-old girls, and younger, who are happily married. My grandmother was married at 16 and just celebrated her 50th anniversary three years ago.

Of course you are going to say that times were different when grandmother was a girl, and girls of her age were much more mature than they are now. Before you draw this conclusion, talk to some of the grandmothers and you will find that there was very little difference between them.

Because of your seemingly limited opinions, I suggest that you spend much more time upon your decisions. I assure you that many prominent psychologists disagree with your opinions wholeheartedly.

If you ever feel in need of assistance, feel free to get in touch with me at my home.

JAMES P. THOMAS

Dear Mr. Thomas:

Apparently you did not read my reply to the letter in question very carefully. The 17-year-old who wished to marry the 23-year-old man was threatening to run away and marry him because her mother refused to consent. I agree with you that some girls of 17 may be mature enough for marriage, but my opinion was that, in this particular case, the girl's whole attitude showed that she was not in this class.

I agree with you also that those who are grandmothers today and were married at 16 weren't any more mature than present-day 16-year-olds. My opinion on that is that they had fewer alternatives in their day than modern girls have who find interesting jobs, and so early marriages were more common.

No doubt many psychologists disagree with me. They also disagree among themselves.

Thank you for your offer of assistance whenever I feel that I need it. In return, I offer you mine under the same circumstances.

Cumberland Has New Heads For Its Police Department

The permanent appointment of R. Emmett Flynn and B. Frank Gaffney as chief and assistant chief, respectively, of the Cumberland Police Department, by the unanimous vote of the Mayor and City Council yesterday is assurance to all citizens of Cumberland that their law enforcement bureau will be in the hands of capable leaders.

Both Mr. Flynn and Mr. Gaffney have had many years of service with the police department as special investigators. In addition they have undergone the strenuous training the Federal Bureau of Investigation subjects all students. As a result of this, together with the personal knowledge of local conditions, they bring to the Cumberland Police Department experience extraordinary which will enable them to cope with the various, and very often baffling problems to confront them. It also will serve them well in dealing with all civic issues of vital importance to the general public.

Chief Flynn and Assistant Chief Gaffney are young men with progressive thoughts on how a police department should be conducted in order to secure from every officer and patrolman under them the maximum in efficiency in the performance of duty, and it is a foregone conclusion they will see to it that such service is forthcoming.

That they will accept their responsibilities with one thought uppermost in their minds—to give the people of Cumberland a law enforcement body they can be proud of—goes without saying.

Republican Senator Offers His Party Some Good Advice

The Democratic National Committee has jumped into the 1948 campaign with a broadcast political rally, said to be the first of its kind. This comes fourteen months before the ballots in the presidential election are cast.

The Democratic committee's director, Gael Sullivan, has called for doorbell-ringing and hard work to get out the vote. Speakers from six states blasted at the record of the Republican 80th Congress and predicted election of President Truman and a Democratic Congress. It could hardly have been expected they would do otherwise. And this coincided with a Gallup Poll report that public expectation of a GOP victory next year has "dropped sharply."

It might be recalled that just after the Republicans captured Congress last November, Dr. Gallup found 79 per cent of all voters questioned sure that 1948 would see a Republican President elected. Now, he says, only 46 per cent feel that way, while the percentage expecting Democratic success has risen from 9 to 30, and nearly one-fourth of the voters have "no opinion" at this time.

During the past ten months many things have happened. And many more will happen in the next fourteen months. The one sure thing, as we see it, is that neither party can count on a walkaway, which is well for the country. We'd regret to have the Democrats stay so despondent that they couldn't put up a real fight, or the more reactionary Republicans encouraged by continued over-confidence.

Meanwhile, it is fair to remember that only half of the record of the 80th Congress has been written. That half, we think, was a splendid one when it is considered so much time was required to set machinery in motion, under the terms of the reorganization act, before the real business of the Congress could be taken up. There is no doubt in the minds of a majority of the citizens that it was a lot better, under the circumstances, than the Democratic spellbinders would have us believe. The second half can, and should, be better still. It will be, if Republican leaders follow such advice as that just given by one of their "freshman" senators, Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, in an American magazine article:

"When we Republicans were swept into control of Congress by a public weary of the Democrats' record of bumbling, there was excited talk about a Republican trend which would make victory in 1948 inevitable. Now we know better. If we are to remain the majority party we must act effectively in the interests of a majority of the people. If we act only in the interest of a minority of rock-ribbed Republicans, we shall again quickly become a minority party."

World Language

Falk Johnson, instructor in English at Northwestern University, said recently a survey indicated that English is virtually the world tongue from the standpoint of usage. He said 705,000,000 people know all or many of the words normally used. There are 260,000,000 native English-speakers, he asserted, and 445,000,000 persons who partly understand English because of its similarity to their native tongues.

Actually, he said, the figure should be considerably higher, as 350,000,000 additional persons live in colonial areas where English is the official language; other millions live in colonial areas having official European languages related to English, and still other millions have acquired in schools one of the languages akin to English.

Mr. Johnson pointed out that English is the dominant language of two continents, North America and Australia, and ranks second in Central America and the West Indies, third in South America, fourth in Europe and first among languages of colonization in Africa and Asia.

Many persons have expressed the belief that if all the peoples of the world spoke a single language, the chances of world understanding and enduring peace would be much greater. There are many who would object to such a state of affairs, however. They see a loss to culture in the use of only one language. But if the English language were to continue to spread as it has in the last two centuries, the goal of one universal language would be achieved in time.

Students who have difficulties with the intricacies of English will be glad to hear of the factors which, in Mr. Johnson's view, recommend English as a universal tongue. They are: "Comparative ease of learning, wide usage of its alphabet, simplicity of grammar, adaptability for high-speed typing, printing and telegraphy, and its combined vocabulary (about half the words in the English language come from the Romance languages and about a fourth are of Germanic origin)."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

NERVOUSNESS AND RECTAL ITCHING

PRURITUS ani is the technical term for that common and annoying disorder, itching about the rectum. The disorder may be severe enough to constitute a major handicap, interfering with work, sleep, and play. The condition does not always imply that disease exists. Lack of cleanliness is a factor, since individuals who take baths infrequently or perspire excessively often become victims. Plenty of soap and water help such cases and care must be taken to wash away all the soap as this in itself may aggravate the symptom.

The diet also must be considered and constipation avoided. In some, irritation follows the consumption of certain foods or medicines, suggesting that an allergy exists. The same may occur on partaking of highly seasoned food, fish, nuts, pickles, or alcoholic drinks. Various parasites and worms may likewise be responsible.

Worry and overwork are notorious offenders. Physicians habitually encounter patients who are bothered only after going thru a period of stress and strain or long working hours. All too often this is the beginning of a vicious cycle because itching robs the victim of sleep which in turn enhances fatigue. On the other hand, overwork is not always a factor as purritus may appear in persons who lead a sedentary existence or have nothing to do. If the difficulty persists for any length of time the area becomes red and later the overlying membranes thicken and are thrown into deep folds. As a rule the sensation is more intense at night and is likely to be worse immediately after a bowel movement.

But in spite of these possibilities, examination is in order because there is always a chance that a local disturbance such as hemorrhoids, fissures, and crypts, is the source of trouble. In many instances inflammation is present, producing an infected secretion which oozes and irritates the anal surface. Relief follows the correction of abnormalties of this type.

There are numerous ointments, salves, and medicated suppositories to alleviate discomfort. But in some sufferers, local products are powerless. Even the more radical treatments—X-ray therapy, injections of anethetics, alcohol, and various acids—may prove ineffective. Operations have also been tried in which the entire skin surrounding the anal opening is removed.

The majority of these patients are highstrung and have not learned to control their jitteriness. A few years ago Bodkin found that dilantin sodium given by mouth was often helpful. This preparation has been used largely in epilepsy and apparently soothes the nervous system. He combines the chemical with a starch digestant (taka-diastase) and a mild antispasmodic because the digestion in many victims is also deranged through nervousness. A follow-up on his first report reveals that in a series of 116 cases, failure occurred in only six. Seventy-five of the group have had no recurrences; in seven, itching returned only once. Many of the others are still under treatment and the results will not be known until this therapy has received a fair trial.

This treatment is revolutionary to say the least and self-medication is contraindicated as dilantin can cause toxic manifestations. The plan should be tried only under the guidance of a physician.

HEAT THERAPY

G. M. writes: I have been using an infra-red lamp for sinus trouble. What distance from the body should the device be placed?

REPLY

Lamps of this type vary in strength; consequently the question is difficult to answer. In general, however, they should be far enough away so that burning does not occur.

CROPS OF BOILS

A. M. writes: When boils keep appearing, does this mean a blood disease?

REPLY

No. Nothing has ever been discovered in the blood of a person who is plagued by boils to account for the disorder. The subject, however, is highly susceptible to the staphylococcus. By keeping the skin as clean as possible and the resistance at a high level, much can be accomplished. Vaccines to increase immunity are often helpful.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The other day an eagle was forced down on some live wires here in California and broke his leg. You have no idea what humiliation he had to go through before his leg was set and he was free. If he hadn't been bald eagle, he would have lost his hair worrying.

I've been laying eggs long enough to feel it my duty to come to the defense of our feathered friends in their hour of need. I happen to know that this was no ordinary eagle and he didn't just happen to be on those telephone wires. He was tapping them actually; he was a carrier pigeon in disguise, a sort of Sam Spade on the wing.

When the lineman found him on the wires, the eagle was dazed and mumbling something about the air corps staying on its own side of the fense. By the time he snapped out of it, he was in a museum with a curator ready to knock the stuffings into him. The curator, holding the bird's leg, thought he was dead, of course. He changed his mind when he looked down and saw the floor 50 feet below him.

Our eagle proved his mental prowess. He not only escaped; he ran off with a maltese falcon.

FBI Avoided Witch-Hunting In Arresting Pro-Soviet Officials; Top Americans Quarrel In Greece; Tom Clark's Mother Inspired Price Probe

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — The FBI has come in for criticism for alleged "witch-hunting" as a result of the State Department's recent loyalty purge and the New York Grand Jury probe of certain U. S. aviation secrets which leaked to the Russians. Real fact, however, is that the FBI has leaned over backward against witch-hunting.

Most people don't know it, but the FBI was not consulted regarding the dismissal of State Department employees. The State Department did not even consult FBI records, and there is considerable reason to believe that certain diplomats started the purge hastily and unfairly in order to make an impression with Congress.

In the current New York Grand Jury probe of the Russian ring, inside fact is that the FBI opposed any arrests at this time. Careful J. Edgar Hoover proposed keeping the suspects under surveillance for a considerable longer period in order to gather further evidence and see if they communicated with any other Russian links.

However, when orders came from up-above to make arrests, the FBI picked up two former officials late at night after they had visited a friend's house together. They were arrested separately, but within a few minutes of each other.

After the arrests, the FBI quizzed the two men at length, both of whom stated afterward that they were treated with the utmost courtesy. Each was asked to sign a statement summarizing what they had said. When they refused, no pressure was exerted to make them sign. No political questions of any kind were asked.

Note—FBI agents making loyalty checks have been accused of asking witnesses whether they read the New Republic, liberal weekly edited by Henry Wallace. However, J. Edgar Hoover has given strict orders that no questions of this kind shall be asked, and New Republic editors, when challenged, have failed to produce witnesses who were reported to have been so questioned.

84-Year-Old Lady Starts Price Probe

It was not President Truman, nor the CIO, nor Justice Department subordinates who inspired the Justice Department's probe into high prices, but the Attorney General's mother.

Attorney General Tom Clark flew to Dallas, had dinner with his 84-year-old mother, listened to her complaints of constantly soaring food prices. Flying to Chicago for a speech next day, he decided to speak on that subject. That was how the price probe was born.

Note—Clark did not mention the probe to President Truman until after he had announced it himself, nor did chair-warming Assistant Attorney General Sonnett, who has tried to claim credit through a news columnist, ever talk to the President.

U. S. Feud in Greece

Ironing out tangled, bankrupt Greece was expected to be a super-tough job, but uncensored diplomatic cables indicate it is even tougher than expected.

One complication is the hot personal rivalry of our two top representatives — ex-Governor Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, and U. S. Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh.

Griswold, sincere, energetic, anxious to clean up Greece in a hurry, has run up against skilled, slower-moving Ambassador MacVeagh, nephew of Mrs. Roosevelt, and stationed in Greece so long that he shies at its many pitfalls.

Result—Both men have been acting as if they were top dog, with hardboiled Greek officials playing one off against the other. Their chief disagreement: how to purge the Greek Government.

MacVeagh has always argued that the Greeks must change their own government, but that the USA could not emulate Moscow and dictate government purges.

However, Griswold, even before he left Washington, bluntly informed Secretary of State Marshall that one of the first things he would do was revamp the Greek Government.

"Hadn't you better go a little slow on that?" Marshall cautioned. "After all, we can't be dictators."

"Last night," replied the ex-Governor of Nebraska, "I dined with ten of the most prominent newspapermen in Washington, and every one of them agreed that my first move should be for a new government in Greece."

"I have the highest regard for the newspapermen of Washington," replied Secretary Marshall, in effect, "but I hardly think they are in a position to assume responsibility for changing the Greek Government."

Nevertheless, when Gov. Griswold arrived in Athens, he called first on the man he proposed to make Prime Minister, Archbishop Damaskinos, former Regent under Winston Churchill. In calling on the Archbishop, Griswold ignored the King of Greece and Prime Minister Maximos, whom he should have called on first.

Griswold's proposal to shake up the Greek Cabinet has persevered, and the final result should be healthy. Chief trouble in Greece, however, can be solved by neither Griswold nor MacVeagh, whether they agree or disagree—namely, the constant drumfire of Soviet-inspired bullets from the north. This is increasing.

Phone Company On Spot

The New York Telephone Company, subsidiary of the Bell System, is in for a tough lawsuit from two customers claiming they don't have to pay for interrupted dial service during last May's telephone strike.

Amount involved in this one suit is small, but if the phone company loses, it will be kept busy for years paying for interrupted service during telephone strikes. Also, subscribers in other states can start suits and collect from other Bell subsidiaries all over the country. In fact, this action is likely to touch off a whole chain reaction similar to the portal-to-portal suits.

Suit is brought on the grounds that the phone company operates a monopoly, that subscribers had no other choice than but sign with it, and that the phone company during the strike failed to supply services specified in contract.

Authors of the suit: Mitchell Kennerly, Jr., son of the New York publisher, and William Floyd II, head of the Lenox Hill Book Shop. Attorneys are Henry Kohn, young Army veteran and Amos Basel, who brought suit against Standard Oil of New Jersey to stop it from trading with I. G. Farben, now indicted for war crimes.

To defend the suit, the phone company has hired Judge William Bleakley, former GOP candidate for Governor of New York.

Republican Wins In Off-Year Elections Closely Analysed

By MARK SULLIVAN

Political leaders in Washington and other persons experienced in judging political trends, have been paying close attention to a special election of a Congressman in the 8th Pennsylvania District, to be held today to fill a vacancy caused by the death of a Republican member. The simplest inference, much too simple to be exact, is that unless the Republicans continue to hold this district, it will be a sign that they are slipping from their success last November. From that arises inference about the Presidential election next year.

As to this, the first fact is that no one special election to Congress can be made the basis of inference about the country as a whole, unless the circumstances of the local election are extraordinary, and unless the outcome is sensational. But it is also true that a considerable number of local Congressional elections, taking place in widely separated parts of the country, have as a group always been accepted as a dependable sign of the political trend of the country as a whole.

Since the general Congressional election last November there have been several special elections. Some, in the South and one in Maryland, have not been regarded as bearing on any nation-wide trend as between Republicans and Democrats. But three—in Michigan, Wisconsin and Washington—have been so regarded. All three were won by the Republicans, but this fact standing alone means little.

Not A Clear Trend

For a dependable inference it is necessary to examine the percentage of the total vote received by the respective parties in each district, and whether it was greater or less than in preceding elections. To this is added consideration of the total votes cast, showing whether or not the total was large enough to be representative. A survey of this intricate calculation leads to a negative conclusion, that the results in these districts are not enough to show a clear trend toward either the Republicans or Democrats. This accounts in part for the attention paid to the coming election in the 8th Pennsylvania District as an addition to the group.

This sort of thing is as old as American politics. But in the politics of today there is something new, and on this the election in the Pennsylvania District has a direct and vital bearing in making it extraordinary. The outcome will justify inferences going to the heart of next year's Presidential campaign and election.

In the 8th Pennsylvania District, the Republican campaign is, so to speak, normal. Their candidate, Mr. Franklin Lichtenwalter, has been four times a member of the Pennsylvania legislature and recently Speaker of the House. It is a Democratic candidate, Mr. Philip Storch, and not of the campaign in behalf of him, that is part of the new condition in American national politics.

Mr. Storch, new in politics, is a member of CIO, head of a local unit of the American Newspaper Guild. He has been urgently endorsed by national leaders of CIO, as well as AFL and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The Storch campaign stresses attack upon the new Taft-Hartley labor law—the fact that this is the first Congressional election since that law took effect in August is one of the factors that makes the election extraordinary and nationally pregnant. In the district, one county, Lehigh, includes two large industrial centers, Bethlehem and Allentown. This makes the coming election one in which CIO can count upon opportunity to make a demonstration of its strength. The other county, Bucks, is largely agricultural. One might say that though the eyes of the country may be on this election, the outcome locally depends largely on whether the eyes of farmers and others opposed to CIO in both counties are upon it.

"Laboratory Test" Watched

This "laboratory test" is watched by national leaders for answers to vital questions. Is the Taft-Hartley law unpopular? Is it unpopular among workers, as distinguished from labor leaders? But the overall question has to do with the relation between the CIO Political Action Committee and the national heads of the Democratic Party.

If the CIO candidate wins this election, the CIO Political Action Committee will be encouraged to renew their effort toward power within the Democratic Party. That effort was checked by the November election, and the whole hope of the school of thought reflected by CIO-PAC was set back by the dismisal of one of its symbols, Mr. Henry A. Wallace, from President Truman's cabinet.

In the event of success for the CIO candidate in the 8th Pennsylvania District, Democratic leaders will be asked, and will ask themselves, whether their best hope of winning the Presidential election next year lies in identifying themselves with CIO and the issues and school of thought associated with it. A related effect will be upon the question whether the followers of Mr. Wallace should form a third party or make their bid for power within the Democratic Party.

Inter-American Treaty Hailed As Example Pan-American Unity

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—Somehow or another they don't pin medals on men who achieve for their country some of its most substantial successes.

Everybody, for example, is happy in Washington nowadays over the new inter-American treaty. It is hailed as a great example of Pan American solidarity. It is an example to all the world. No one nation exercised a veto. It was all done by unanimous agreement.

Yet this magnificent result could not have been attained if good relations had not been restored with Argentina.

The one country that could have upset the applecart was Argentina. Without Argentina, there really would never have been a treaty or even a meeting at Rio. This was recognized on all sides and the meeting at Rio was deferred again and again until relations with Argentina were ironed out.

Had it not been for the indefatigable work of Nelson Rockefeller, when he was assistant secretary of state, and George Messersmith, when he became American ambassador to Argentina, today's applause for the Rio treaty would never have been heard because there would have been no such agreement.

Roosevelt Agreed With Rockefeller

The late President Roosevelt was far sighted when, early in 1945, he accepted and initialed a memorandum from Assistant Secretary Nelson Rockefeller recommending that Argentina be invited to the meeting at Chapultepec and that she be given an opportunity to join the United Nations.

It was at Chapultepec that the foundation for the Rio agreement was laid by the then Senator Warren Austin of Vermont. It was at San Francisco that Mr. Rockefeller carried out the wishes of Mr. Roosevelt in making the fight for admission of Argentina to the United Nations.

Had Argentina been excluded, the other Latin-American nations would have been resentful and the entire Pan-American relationship would have been imperilled. Mr. Rockefeller was bitterly criticized by the "left wing" press, which didn't know he was operating under instructions covered in a memorandum approved by Mr. Roosevelt just a few weeks before he died. The memorandum was never made public.

When Secretary Byrnes came into office, the campaign against Mr. Rockefeller, on the ground that he was "appeasing" Argentina, had reached extensive proportions. Spruille Braden, who had served as ambassador in Buenos Aires, was appointed assistant secretary of state when Mr. Rockefeller resigned.

Shortly afterward, when Peron was elected constitutionally, influential senators on Capitol Hill began to point out to President Truman that the U. S. policy was harmful to the future of Pan-American relationships. Senator Vandenberg is known to have criticised the policy as likely to create long-enduring antagonisms.

Truman Saw Dilemma Clearly

Mr. Truman finally saw the dilemma clearly and appointed George Messersmith to go to Argentina to clear up relations with the Peron government. That job was done with superb tact and with an effectiveness rarely excelled in modern diplomacy.

After several months, Mr. Messersmith almost singlehanded brought about such a relationship with Argentina that, when he left Buenos Aires, President Peron was there to say farewell and he was given a public demonstration of the esteem in which Argentinians held him. Mr. Messersmith resigned on his return here, as he had long desired to retire from the diplomatic service. But no public mention was made of his greatest achievement—laying the groundwork at Buenos Aires for Argentina's cooperation with the United States at Rio.

Here is an example of a large and powerful country like the United States daring to be fair and equitable in relations with a smaller country despite outcries of "appeasement." The Peron government has much to do before it can win wholehearted approval. It is still violating civil liberties and press freedom in certain important respects. But the chances of a freer Argentina emerging now are better than they possibly could have been under a policy of continued friction with the United States and intervention by this country in Argentina's internal affairs.

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

Russian-American Relations

Nearly two years ago an editor complained of my writings because I emphasized the Russian problem too much. I do not have his letter before me but as I recall it, he counted the number of times I mentioned Russia and showed statistically that I was harping too much on one subject. He said that the people in his town did not like the emphasis on Soviet Russia; that they were not interested; that the did not consider Communism that important.

I am sure that he was right two years ago. He lives in what might be called C.I.O. territory and many of his readers, while not themselves Communists, were sympathetic toward the general thesis advocated by the Leftists in this country. Besides, the Russians and ourselves were allies who had fought a common enemy in a devastating war, and it seemed to be close to treason to call attention to their shortcomings.

Those of us who were hammering away, in those days, at the truth about Russia, calling attention to the evils of Teheran and Yalta and, later, Potsdam, felt that only if the whole truth were unfolded before the American people, only if they knew precisely what was happening, could this country develop enough strength to withstand the enfolding movement of the Slav in Europe. None of us wanted the United States to make war on Soviet Russia; all of us wanted our country to take a firm stand for right and justice.

Time passed. The evils of Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam are known to the American people. The Russian seizure of plants, peoples and even countries has disclosed itself in a brutal disregard for human rights. At the United Nations and in the conferences of Foreign Ministers, Soviet Russia adopted the position that the United States is the enemy of Europe. Every measure toward peace has been vetoed. They tried to take our atomic bomb; they have harassed us in Japan, Korea and China. The United States and Soviet Russia are farther apart than Germany and the United States were before they went to war. They are as far apart as Japan and the United States were after 1931.

Those of us who kept harping on the subject seemed to play on one string, but that note proved to be a true one. Those who continued a pro-Russian propaganda misled the American people. Now we face the facts and they are ugly.

The official policy of the American people, the Truman Doctrine, is positively anti-Russian. It has now been reinforced by the Marshall Plan, the insistence upon an Eleven-Power Treaty with Japan and by the correspondence between Truman and the Pope.

The Russians have countered by organizing the Slavic Bloc of nations which now includes Czechoslovakia and Hungary; they have re-stimulated the civil war in China; they have restored the Third International to both legal and illegal activity in every country. This phase of their activity has forced the United States to rescreen its public officials from the standpoint of their personal loyalty. Bernard Baruch's phrase, "The Cold War," fits the situation perfectly.

But this country wants no war and the Russians can afford no war. War will not solve the problems raised by Russian imperialism. It can only bring upon the peoples of Europe greater suffering than they have already undergone. It will not be the Russians as much as the British, the French, the German, Austrian, Hungarian and other Western and central European peoples who will find themselves between the Eastern and Western millstones. It will be a horrible war, if ever it occurs.

For us, this situation means so huge a preparedness that Russia dare not fight. It means vast expenditures for army, navy, air force, chemical and biologic warfare, atom bombs. It means high taxes and less spent on social welfare. It means high production for warfare and the wasteful utilization of our natural resources.

But this we must face. We must be so prepared that we stave off a war while will destroy Western civilization and our liberties. Those who fooled us between 1939 and 1945 cannot be trusted again. They lied to us then—we cannot take any risks now.

Both Mr. Flynn and Mr. Gaffney have had many years of service with the police department as special investigators. In addition they have undergone the strenuous training the Federal Bureau of Investigation subjects all students. As a result of this, together with the personal knowledge of local conditions, they bring to the Cumberland Police Department experience extraordinary which will enable them to cope with the various, and very often baffling problems to confront them. It also will serve them well in dealing with all civic issues of vital importance to the general public.

Chief Flynn and Assistant Chief Gaffney are young men with progressive thoughts on how a police department should be conducted in order to secure from every officer and patrolman under them the maximum in efficiency in the performance of duty, and it is a foregone conclusion they will see to it that such service is forthcoming.

That they will accept their responsibilities with one thought uppermost in their minds—to give the people of Cumberland a law enforcement body they can be proud of—goes without saying.

Republican Senator Offers His Party Some Good Advice

The Democratic National Committee has jumped into the 1948 campaign with a broadcast political rally, said to be the first of its kind. This comes fourteen months before the ballots in the presidential election are cast.

The Democratic committee's director, Gael Sullivan, has called for doorbell-ringing and hard work to get out the vote. Speakers from six states blasted at the record of the Republican 80th Congress and predicted election of President Truman and a Democratic Congress. It could hardly have been expected they would do otherwise. And this coincided with a Gallup Poll report that public expectation of a GOP victory next year has "dropped sharply."

It might be recalled that just after the Republicans captured Congress last November, Dr. Gallup found 79 per cent of all voters questioned sure that 1948 would see a Republican President elected. Now, he says, only 46 per cent feel that way, while the percentage expecting Democratic success has risen from 9 to 30, and nearly one-fourth of the voters have "no opinion" at this time.

During the past ten months many things have happened. And many more will happen in the next fourteen months. The one sure thing, as we see it, is that neither party can count on a walkaway, which is well for the country. We'd regret to have the Democrats stay so despondent that they couldn't put up a real fight, or the more reactionary Republicans encouraged by continued over-confidence.

Meanwhile, it is fair to remember that only half of the record of the 80th Congress has been written. That half, we think, was a splendid one when it is considered so much time was required to set machinery in motion, under the terms of the reorganization act, before the real business of the Congress could be taken up. There is no doubt in the minds of a majority of the citizens that it was a lot better, under the circumstances, than the Democratic spellbinders would have us believe. The second half can, and should, be better still. It will be, if Republican leaders follow such advice as that just given by one of their "freshman" senators, Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, in an American magazine article:

"When we Republicans were swept into control of Congress by a public weary of the Democrats' record of bumbling, there was excited talk about a Republican trend which would make victory in 1948 inevitable. Now we know better. If we are to remain the majority party we must act effectively in the interests of a majority of the people. If we act only in the interest of a minority of rock-ribbed Republicans, we shall again quickly become a minority party."

World Language

Falk Johnson, instructor in English at Northwestern University, said recently a survey indicated that English is virtually the world tongue from the standpoint of usage. He said 705,000,000 people know all or many of the words normally used. There are 260,000,000 native English-speakers, he asserted, and 445,000,000 persons who partly understand English because of its similarity to their native tongues.

Actually, he said, the figure should be considerably higher, as 350,000,000 additional persons live in colonial areas where English is the official language; other millions live in colonial areas having official European languages related to English, and still other millions have acquired in schools one of the languages akin to English.

Mr. Johnson pointed out that English is the dominant language of two continents, North America and Australia, and ranks second in Central America and the West Indies, third in South America, fourth in Europe and first among languages of colonization in Africa and Asia.

Many persons have expressed the belief that if all the peoples of the world spoke a single language, the chances of world understanding and enduring peace would be much greater. There are many who would object to such a state of affairs, however. They see a loss to culture in the use of only one language. But if the English language were to continue to spread as it has in the last two centuries, the goal of one universal language would be achieved in time.

Students who have difficulties with the intricacies of English will be glad to hear of the factors which, in Mr. Johnson's view, recommend English as a universal tongue. They are: "Comparative ease of learning, wide usage of its alphabet, simplicity of grammar, adaptability for high-speed typing, printing and telegraphy, and its combined vocabulary (about half the words in the English language come from the Romance languages and about a fourth are of Germanic origin)."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

NERVOUSNESS AND RECTAL ITCHING

PRURITUS ani is the technical term for that common and annoying disorder, itching about the rectum. The disorder may be severe enough to constitute a major handicap, interfering with work, sleep, and play. The condition does not always imply that disease exists. Lack of cleanliness is a factor, since individuals who take baths infrequently or perspire excessively often become victims. Plenty of soap and water help such cases and care must be taken to wash away all the soap as this in itself may aggravate the symptom.

The diet also must be considered and constipation avoided. In some, irritation follows the consumption of certain foods or medicines, suggesting that an allergy exists. The same may occur on partaking of highly seasoned food, fish, nuts, pickles, or alcoholic drinks. Various parasites and worms may likewise be responsible.

Worry and overwork are notorious offenders. Physicians habitually encounter patients who are bothered only after going thru a period of stress and strain or long working hours. All too often this is the beginning of a vicious cycle because itching robs the victim of sleep which in turn enhances fatigue. On the other hand, overwork is not always a factor as purritus may appear in persons who lead a sedentary existence or have nothing to do. If the difficulty persists for any length of time the area becomes red and later the overlying membranes thicken and are thrown into deep folds. As a rule the sensation is more intense at night and is likely to be worse immediately after a bowel movement.

But in spite of these possibilities, examination is in order because there is always a chance that a local disturbance such as hemorrhoids, fissures, and crypts, is the source of trouble. In many instances inflammation is present, producing an infected secretion which oozes and irritates the anal surface. Relief follows the correction of abnormalties of this type.

There are numerous ointments, salves, and medicated suppositories to alleviate discomfort. But in some sufferers, local products are powerless. Even the more radical treatments—X-ray therapy, injections of anethetics, alcohol, and various acids—may prove ineffective. Operations have also been tried in which the entire skin surrounding the anal opening is removed.

The majority of these patients are highstrung and have not learned to control their jitteriness. A few years ago Bodkin found that dilantin sodium given by mouth was often helpful. This preparation has been used largely in epilepsy and apparently soothes the nervous system. He combines the chemical with a starch digestant (taka-diastase) and a mild antispasmodic because the digestion in many victims is also deranged through nervousness. A follow-up on his first report reveals that in a series of 116 cases, failure occurred in only six. Seventy-five of the group have had no recurrences; in seven, itching returned only once. Many of the others are still under treatment and the results will not be known until this therapy has received a fair trial.

This treatment is revolutionary to say the least and self-medication is contraindicated as dilantin can cause toxic manifestations. The plan should be tried only under the guidance of a physician.

HEAT THERAPY

G. M. writes: I have been using an infra-red lamp for sinus trouble. What distance from the body should the device be placed?

REPLY

Lamps of this type vary in strength; consequently the question is difficult to answer. In general, however, they should be far enough away so that burning does not occur.

CROPS OF BOILS

A. M. writes: When boils keep appearing, does this mean a blood disease?

REPLY

No. Nothing has ever been discovered in the blood of a person who is plagued by boils to account for the disorder. The subject, however, is highly susceptible to the staphylococcus. By keeping the skin as clean as possible and the resistance at a high level, much can be accomplished. Vaccines to increase immunity are often helpful.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The other day an eagle was forced down on some live wires here in California and broke his leg. You have no idea what humiliation he had to go through before his leg was set and he was free. If he hadn't been bald eagle, he would have lost his hair worrying.

I've been laying eggs long enough to feel it my duty to come to the defense of our feathered friends in their hour of need. I happen to know that this was no ordinary eagle and he didn't just happen to be on those telephone wires. He was tapping them actually; he was a carrier pigeon in disguise, a sort of Sam Spade on the wing.

When the lineman found him on the wires, the eagle was dazed and mumbling something about the air corps staying on its own side of the fense. By the time he snapped out of it, he was in a museum with a curator ready to knock the suffings into him. The curator, holding the bird's leg, thought he was dead, of course. He changed his mind when he looked down and saw the floor 50 feet below him.

Our eagle proved his mental prowess. He not only escaped; he ran off with a maltese falcon.

FBI Avoided Witch-Hunting In Arresting Pro-Soviet Officials; Top Americans Quarrel In Greece; Tom Clark's Mother Inspired Price Probe

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — The FBI has come in for criticism for alleged "witch-hunting" as a result of the State Department's recent loyalty purge and the New York Grand Jury probe of certain U. S. aviation secrets which leaked to the Russians. Real fact, however, is that the FBI has leaned over backward against witch-hunting.

Most people don't know it, but the FBI was not consulted regarding the dismissal of State Department employees. The State Department did not even consult FBI records, and there is considerable reason to believe that certain diplomats started the purge hastily and unfairly in order to make an impression with Congress.

In the current New York Grand Jury probe of the Russian ring, inside fact is that the FBI opposed any arrests at this time. Careful J. Edgar Hoover proposed keeping the suspects under surveillance for a considerable longer period in order to gather further evidence and see if they communicated with any other Russian links.

However, when orders came from up-above to make arrests, the FBI picked up two former officials late at night after they had visited a friend's house together. They were arrested separately, but within a few minutes of each other.

After the arrests, the FBI quizzed the two men at length, both of whom stated afterward that they were treated with the utmost courtesy. Each was asked to sign a statement summarizing what they had said. When they refused, no pressure was exerted to make them sign. No political questions of any kind were asked.

Note—FBI agents making loyalty checks have been accused of asking witnesses whether they read the New Republic, liberal weekly edited by Henry Wallace. However, J. Edgar Hoover has given strict orders that no questions of this kind shall be asked, and New Republic editors, when challenged, have failed to produce witnesses who were reported to have been so questioned.

84-Year-Old Lady Starts Price Probe

It was not President Truman, nor the CIO, nor Justice Department subordinates who inspired the Justice Department's probe into high prices, but the Attorney General's mother.

Attorney General Tom Clark flew to Dallas, had dinner with his 84-year-old mother, listened to her complaints of constantly soaring food prices. Flying to Chicago for a speech next day, he decided to speak on that subject. That was how the price probe was born.

Note—Clark did not mention the probe to President Truman until after he had announced it himself, nor did chair-warming Assistant Attorney General Sonnett, who has tried to claim credit through a news columnist, ever talk to the President.

U. S. Feud in Greece

Ironing out tangled, bankrupt Greece was expected to be a super-tough job, but uncensored diplomatic cables indicate it is even tougher than expected.

One complication is the hot personal rivalry of our two top representatives — ex-Governor Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, and U. S. Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh.

Griswold, sincere, energetic, anxious to clean up Greece in a hurry, has run up against skilled, slower-moving Ambassador MacVeagh, nephew of Mrs. Roosevelt, and stationed in Greece so long that he shies at its many pitfalls.

Result—Both men have been acting as if they were top dog, with hardboiled Greek officials playing one off against the other. Their chief disagreement: how to purge the Greek Government.

MacVeagh has always argued that the Greeks must change their own government, but that the USA could not emulate Moscow and dictate government purges.

However, Griswold, even before he left Washington, bluntly informed Secretary of State Marshall that one of the first things he would do was revamp the Greek Government.

"Hadn't you better go a little slow on that?" Marshall cautioned. "After all, we can't be dictators."

"Last night," replied the ex-Governor of Nebraska, "I dined with ten of the most prominent newspapermen in Washington, and every one of them agreed that my first move should be for a new government in Greece."

"I have the highest regard for the newspapermen of Washington," replied Secretary Marshall, in effect, "but I hardly think they are in a position to assume responsibility for changing the Greek Government."

Nevertheless, when Gov. Griswold arrived in Athens, he called first on the man he proposed to make Prime Minister, Archbishop Damaskinos, former Regent under Winston Churchill. In calling on the Archbishop, Griswold ignored the King of Greece and Prime Minister Maximos, whom he should have called on first.

Griswold's proposal to shake up the Greek Cabinet has persevered, and the final result should be healthy. Chief trouble in Greece, however, can be solved by neither Griswold nor MacVeagh, whether they agree or disagree—namely, the constant drumfire of Soviet-inspired bullets from the north. This is increasing.

Phone Company On Spot

The New York Telephone Company, subsidiary of the Bell System, is in for a tough lawsuit from two customers claiming they don't have to pay for interrupted dial service during last May's telephone strike.

Amount involved in this one suit is small, but if the phone company loses, it will be kept busy for years paying for interrupted service during telephone strikes. Also, subscribers in other states can start suits and collect from other Bell subsidiaries all over the country. In fact, this action is likely to touch off a whole chain reaction similar to the portal-to-portal suits.

Suit is brought on the grounds that the phone company operates a monopoly, that subscribers had no other choice than but sign with it, and that the phone company during the strike failed to supply services specified in contract.

Authors of the suit: Mitchell Kennerly, Jr., son of the New York publisher, and William Floyd II, head of the Lenox Hill Book Shop. Attorneys are Henry Kohn, young Army veteran and Amos Basel, who brought suit against Standard Oil of New Jersey to stop it from trading with I. G. Farben, now indicted for war crimes.

To defend the suit, the phone company has hired Judge William Bleakley, former GOP candidate for Governor of New York.

Republican Wins In Off-Year Elections Closely Analysed

By MARK SULLIVAN

Political leaders in Washington and other persons experienced in judging political trends, have been paying close attention to a special election of a Congressman in the 8th Pennsylvania District, to be held today to fill a vacancy caused by the death of a Republican member. The simplest inference, much too simple to be exact, is that unless the Republicans continue to hold this district, it will be a sign that they are slipping from their success last November. From that arises inference about the Presidential election next year.

As to this, the first fact is that no one special election to Congress can be made the basis of inference about the country as a whole, unless the circumstances of the local election are extraordinary, and unless the outcome is sensational. But it is also true that a considerable number of local Congressional elections, taking place in widely separated parts of the country, have as a group always been accepted as a dependable sign of the political trend of the country as a whole.

Since the general Congressional election last November there have been several special elections. Some, in the South and one in Maryland, have not been regarded as bearing on any nation-wide trend as between Republicans and Democrats. But three—in Michigan, Wisconsin and Washington—have been so regarded. All three were won by the Republicans, but this fact standing alone means little.

Not A Clear Trend

For a dependable inference it is necessary to examine the percentage of the total vote received by the respective parties in each district, and whether it was greater or less than in preceding elections. To this is added consideration of the total votes cast, showing whether or not the total was large enough to be representative. A survey of this intricate calculation leads to a negative conclusion, that the results in these districts are not enough to show a clear trend toward either the Republicans or Democrats. This accounts in part for the attention paid to the coming election in the 8th Pennsylvania District as an addition to the group.

This sort of thing is as old as American politics. But in the politics of today there is something new, and on this the election in the Pennsylvania District has a direct and vital bearing in making it extraordinary. The outcome will justify inferences going to the heart of next year's Presidential campaign and election.

In the 8th Pennsylvania District, the Republican campaign is, so to speak, normal. Their candidate, Mr. Franklin Lichtenwalter, has been four times a member of the Pennsylvania legislature and recently Speaker of the House. It is a Democratic candidate, Mr. Philip Storch, and not of the campaign in behalf of him, that is part of the new condition in American national politics.

Mr. Storch, new in politics, is a member of CIO, head of a local unit of the American Newspaper Guild. He has been urgently endorsed by national leaders of CIO, as well as AFL and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The Storch campaign stresses attack upon the new Taft-Hartley labor law—the fact that this is [illegible] Congressional election since that law took effect in August is one of the factors that makes the election extraordinary and nationally pregnant. In the district, one county, Lehigh, includes two large industrial centers, Bethlehem and Allentown. This makes the coming election one in which CIO can count upon opportunity to make a demonstration of its strength. The other county, Bucks, is largely agricultural. One might say that though the eyes of the country may be on this election, the outcome locally depends largely on whether the eyes of farmers and others opposed to CIO in both counties are upon it.

"Laboratory Test" Watched

This "laboratory test" is watched by national leaders for answers to vital questions. Is the Taft-Hartley law unpopular? Is it unpopular among workers, as distinguished from labor leaders? But the overall question has to do with the relation between the CIO Political Action Committee and the national heads of the Democratic Party.

If the CIO candidate wins this election, the CIO Political Action Committee will be encouraged to renew their effort toward power within the Democratic Party. That effort was checked by the November election, and the whole hope of the school of thought reflected by CIO-PAC was set back by the dismissal of one of its symbols, Mr. Henry A. Wallace, from President Truman's cabinet.

In the event of success for the CIO candidate in the 8th Pennsylvania District, Democratic leaders will be asked, and will ask themselves, whether their best hope of winning the Presidential election next year lies in identifying themselves with CIO and the issues and school of thought associated with it. A related effect will be upon the question whether the followers of Mr. Wallace should form a third party or make their bid for power within the Democratic Party.

Inter-American Treaty Hailed As Example Pan-American Unity

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—Somehow or another they don't pin medals on men who achieve for their country some of its most substantial successes.

Everybody, for example, is happy in Washington nowadays over the new inter-American treaty. It is hailed as a great example of Pan American solidarity. It is an example to all the world. No one nation exercised a veto. It was all done by unanimous agreement.

Yet this magnificent result could not have been attained if good relations had not been restored with Argentina.

The one country that could have upset the applecart was Argentina. Without Argentina, there really would never have been a treaty or even a meeting at Rio. This was recognized on all sides and the meeting at Rio was deferred again and again until relations with Argentina were ironed out.

Had it not been for the indefatigable work of Nelson Rockefeller, when he was assistant secretary of state, and George Messersmith, when he became American ambassador to Argentina, today's applause for the Rio treaty would never have been heard because there would have been no such agreement.

Roosevelt Agreed With Rockefeller

The late President Roosevelt was far sighted when, early in 1945, he accepted and initialed a memorandum from Assistant Secretary Nelson Rockefeller recommending that Argentina be invited to the meeting at Chapultepec and that she be given an opportunity to join the United Nations.

It was at Chapultepec that the foundation for the Rio agreement was laid by the then Senator Warren Austin of Vermont. It was at San Francisco that Mr. Rockefeller carried out the wishes of Mr. Roosevelt in making the fight for admission of Argentina to the United Nations.

Had Argentina been excluded, the other Latin-American nations would have been resentful and the entire Pan-American relationship would have been imperilled. Mr. Rockefeller was bitterly criticized by the "left wing" press, which didn't know he was operating under instructions covered in a memorandum approved by Mr. Roosevelt just a few weeks before he died. The memorandum was never made public.

When Secretary Byrnes came into office, the campaign against Mr. Rockefeller, on the ground that he was "appeasing" Argentina, had reached extensive proportions. Spruille Braden, who had served as ambassador in Buenos Aires, was appointed assistant secretary of state when Mr. Rockefeller resigned.

Shortly afterward, when Peron was elected constitutionally, influential senators on Capitol Hill began to point out to President Truman that the U. S. policy was harmful to the future of Pan-American relationships. Senator Vandenberg is known to have criticised the policy as likely to create long-enduring antagonisms.

Truman Saw Dilemma Clearly

Mr. Truman finally saw the dilemma clearly and appointed George Messersmith to go to Argentina to clear up relations with the Peron government. That job was done with superb tact and with an effectiveness rarely excelled in modern diplomacy.

After several months, Mr. Messersmith almost singlehanded brought about such a relationship with Argentina that, when he left Buenos Aires, President Peron was there to say farewell and he was given a public demonstration of the esteem in which Argentinians held him. Mr. Messersmith resigned on his return here, as he had long desired to retire from the diplomatic service. But no public mention was made of his greatest achievement — laying the groundwork at Buenos Aires for Argentina's cooperation with the United States at Rio.

Here is an example of a large and powerful country like the United States daring to be fair and equitable in relations with a smaller country despite outcries of "appeasement." The Peron government has much to do before it can win wholehearted approval. It is still violating civil liberties and press freedom in certain important respects. But the chances of a freer Argentina emerging now are better than they possibly could have been under a policy of continued friction with the United States and intervention by this country in Argentina's internal affairs.

THESE DAYS

Russian-American Relations

Nearly two years ago an editor complained of my writings because I emphasized the Russian problem too much. I do not have his letter before me but as I recall it, he counted the number of times I mentioned Russia and showed statistically that I was harping too much on one subject. He said that the people in his town did not like the emphasis on Soviet Russia; that they were not interested; that the did not consider Communism that important.

I am sure that he was right two years ago. He lives in what might be called C.I.O. territory and many of his readers, while not themselves Communists, were sympathetic toward the general thesis advocated by the Leftists in this country. Besides, the Russians and ourselves were allies who had fought a common enemy in a devastating war, and it seemed to be close to treason to call attention to their shortcomings.

Those of us who were hammering away, in those days, at the truth about Russia, calling attention to the evils of Teheran and Yalta and, later, Potsdam, felt that only if the whole truth were unfolded before the American people, only if they knew precisely what was happening, could this country develop enough strength to withstand the enfolding movement of the Slav in Europe. None of us wanted the United States to make war on Soviet Russia; all of us wanted our country to take a firm stand for right and justice.

Time passed. The evils of Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam are known to the American people. The Russian seizure of plants, peoples and even countries has disclosed itself in a brutal disregard for human rights. At the United Nations and in the conferences of Foreign Ministers, Soviet Russia adopted the position that the United States is the enemy of Europe. Every measure toward peace has been vetoed. They tried to take our atomic bomb; they have harassed us in Japan, Korea and China. The United States and Soviet Russia are farther apart than Germany and the United States were before they went to war. They are as far apart as Japan and the United States were after 1931.

Those of us who kept harping on the subject seemed to play on one string, but that note proved to be a true one. Those who continued a pro-Russian propaganda misled the American people. Now we face the facts and they are ugly.

The official policy of the American people, the Truman Doctrine, is positively anti-Russian. It has now been reinforced by the Marshall Plan, the insistence upon an Eleven-Power Treaty with Japan and by the correspondence between Truman and the Pope.

The Russians have countered by organizing the Slavic Bloc of nations which now includes Czechoslovakia and Hungary; they have re-stimulated the civil war in China; they have restored the Third International to both legal and illegal activity in every country. This phase of their activity has forced the United States to rescreen its public officials from the standpoint of their personal loyalty. Bernard Baruch's phrase, "The Cold War," fits the situation perfectly.

But this country wants no war and the Russians can afford no war. War will not solve the problems raised by Russian imperialism. It can only bring upon the peoples of Europe greater suffering than they have already undergone. It will not be the Russians as much as the British, the French, the German, Austrian, Hungarian and other Western and central European peoples who will find themselves between the Eastern and Western millstones. It will be a horrible war, if ever it occurs.

For us, this situation means so huge a preparedness that Russia dare not fight. It means vast expenditures for army, navy, air force, chemical and biologic warfare, atom bombs. It means high taxes and less spent on social welfare. It means high production for warfare and the wasteful utilization of our natural resources.

But this we must face. We must be so prepared that we stave off a war while will destroy Western civilization and our liberties. Those who fooled us between 1939 and 1945 cannot be trusted again. They lied to us then—we cannot take any risks now.

PITCHING HORSESHOES
by Billy Rose

The other night I got a yen for sauerbrauten.

The best sauerbrauten in the world is made by my Aunt Frieda I arrived at Aunt Frieda's house a little after seven o'clock.

Billy Rose

Aunt Frieda and Uncle Charlie have lived down on the East Side since Teddy Roosevelt was President. Charlie is an amiable old boy whose profession is not making money. In his spare time—from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily—he invents things, thinks deep thoughts and plays chess at the coffee house on the corner. The old gaffers at the coffee house consider Charlie a genius. Aunt Frieda agrees. "Genius," she says, spelled backwards—jackass."

As I climbed the three flights to their flat, I could feel myself gaining weight on the smells which came out of Aunt Frieda's kitchen. In the parlor, Uncle Charlie was frowning at an old copy of Popular Mechanics and pencilling notes in the margins.

"Done any inventing lately?" I asked.

"Who has time to invent?" sighed Uncle Charlie. "These days I am a laboring man. On call twenty-four hours a day."

"What kind of work are you doing?" I asked him.

"Your uncle," yelled Frieda from the kitchen, "is sitting with babies."

"To make a little spending money," explained Charlie. "I'm registering with an agency and becoming a baby sitter. Last Monday the agency is sending me to mind a baby for a Mrs. Mendel who lives uptown on Eighth Street. She is willing to pay fifty cents an hour while she is spending her husband's money in the stores. At two o'clock I am in her apartment minding the little one."

"So is Marcus and the other loafers from the coffee house," Aunt Frieda added.

"My friends came fifteen minutes later when Mrs. Mendel is gone," Crarlie said with dignity. "What harm is there in a quiet game of chess while the child is sleeping? There are eleven of us. Five games of chess and one man watches the baby in a bedroom with puppydogs and pussycats on the walls. I am playing Marcus. I am winning."

"By getting Marcus drunk," Frieda explained.

"Marcus had only two small drinks of Mr. Mendel's brandy," said my uncle. "As host, am I not obliged to give each guest a little refreshment?

"All at once the baby is commencing to cry. The eleventh man is bringing her into the parlor for a consultation. Everybody starts making kitchy-koo at the baby. The baby starts crying loud enough for two babies."

"What else? said Frieda. "I would cry myself if eleven chess players made faces at me."

"So," continued Charlie, "we are sitting down and reasoning with logic how to make a baby stop crying. Marcus says in the old country when a baby cries they are putting a little schnapps in the milk. This we do. Now the baby is cryilng like four babies.

"Again we reason with logic. 'What does baby want?' asks Strunsky. 'Its mother,' says Meyer. So because I am getting the fifty cents an hour, I must be the mother. In a closet I find a dress of Mrs. Mendel's and I put it on. A black silk one. Then I pick up the baby and sing it a little song from the old country. Dunder and Blitzen! Now the baby is crying like to wake the dead.

"Suddenly Marcus gets very excited. From his chess board is missing a pawn. 'The baby has swallowed the pawn,' hollers Marcus. This is why it keeps crying. Everyone is excited. 'Call the doctor,' yells Strunsky. We do not know a doctor to call. Marcus says the hospital is supported by the money of citizens, and we are citizens. The hospital should send the doctor. Otherwise we will write letters to the newspapers. I call and tell the operator please, this is an emergency. Send a doctor from the hospital. Just then I notice one of the chess players has thrown a cigarette in the waste basket. A fire is breaking out. I tell the operator if she will please be so kindly to sent the fire engine too.

"While we wait, Marcus puts out the fire with a bottle of seltzer. Berger, with the brilliant mind, opens the baby's mouth and finds it is getting a tooth. I go to the telephone to tell the girl not to bother the hospital and the fire department.

"Suddenly there is clanging and whistles. Into the room comes firemen with axes, doctors with oxygen tanks policemen with billy clubs. Also the neighbors. Also Mrs. Mendel.

"A fat policeman arrests me for contributing to the delinquency of a minor child and masquerading like a woman.

'At the station house I explain. 'Tell it to Sweeney,' the sergeant says. In a cell I am waiting until eleven o'clock that night to tell it to this Mr. Sweeney, but he doesn't come. Finally my son Melvin, the druggist-doctor, arrives and bails me out. The next morning he convinces Mrs. Mendel not to press the charges. But first—imagine it—we must pay for the brandy her own baby helped drink."

"And second," said my Aunt Frieda, "if you loafers don't stop talking, the sauerbrauten will get cold. Eat, eat, eat."

Club To Ask City To Eliminate Curb

A motion was passed at a dinner meeting of the Western Maryland Modtor Club at Ali Ghan Country Club recently to notify the City Street Commissioner of a projecting curb in front of Nichols Store at Oldtown Road and Thomas Street, with a recommendation that it be cut off.

Hugo Keller, president, made a report of the recent meeting with Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn and other interested citizens concerning local traffic conditions.

A report on driver education was given by William L. Wilson, Jr.

Keller appointed a special committee to draw up suggestions outlining a campaign for new members.

Dial Phones Set For Romney Area

Paul L. Miller, manager of the Central Telephone Company, Romney, W. Va., has announced that dial telephone service has been in use in the Fort Ashby, W. Va., section and within two years it is expected that all communities served by the company will have dial equipment.

When his program is completed Cumberland will be surrounded on :" sides by dial phone service. The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company has had for some years dial service at Flintstone, Mt. Savage, Wellersburg, Piedmont, Westernport and Keyser, and the equipment is now being installed at Lonaconing.

Dial service is also on the program for Cumberland and Frostburg and other communities but no dates for the establishment have been set.

Miller said his company is spending approximately $200,000 in improving telephone service in nearby West Virginia sections, and the improvements of service to Fort Ashby by subscribers is the first step of a broad program. The dial system, eliminating former "rural line" difficulties, gives the community vastly better service.

Of this amount about $185,000 will be spent for dial phone equipment. Miller explained that dials are scheduled to be installed in Burlington, Petersburg, Levels and Paw Paw in the spring of 1948. When this work is completed 825 or nearly half of the 1,900 telephones in the section will be dial.

REMEMBER? When people stood in line to get cigarettes, they took whatever brand they could get. That's when so many more smokers learned Camels suit them best.

Yes, experience during the wartime cigarette shortage taught millions the differences in cigarette quality!

- Mrs. Dorothy Newstead speaking: "During the wartime cigarette shortage, I smoked many different brands. And that's when I found that Camels suit my 'T-Zone' best!"

You and millions of other smokers, Mrs. Newstead, found yourselves comparing brands. And that full, rich flavor and the cool mildness of Camels found a happy welcome in many, many "T-Zones."

Result: More people are smoking Camels than ever before.

Try Camels. See how they suit your taste . . . your throat. Let your own experience tell you why, with smoker after smoker who has tried and compared, Camels are the "Choice of Experience."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

by Billy Rose

The other night I got a yen for sauerbrauten.

The best sauerbrauten in the world is made by my Aunt Frieda I arrived at Aunt Frieda's house a little after seven o'clock.

Billy Rose

Aunt Frieda and Uncle Charlie have lived down on the East Side since Teddy Roosevelt was President. Charlie is an amiable old boy whose profession is not making money. In his spare time—from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily—he invents things, thinks deep thoughts and plays chess at the coffee house on the corner. The old gaffers at the coffee house consider Charlie a genius. Aunt Frieda agrees. "Genius," she says, spelled backwards—jackass."

As I climbed the three flights to their flat, I could feel myself gaining weight on the smells which came out of Aunt Frieda's kitchen. In the parlor, Uncle Charlie was frowning at an old copy of Popular Mechanics and pencilling notes in the margins.

"Done any inventing lately?" I asked.

"Who has time to invent?" sighed Uncle Charlie. "These days I am a laboring man. On call twenty-four hours a day."

"What kind of work are you doing?" I asked him.

"Your uncle," yelled Frieda from the kitchen, "is sitting with babies."

"To make a little spending money," explained Charlie. "I'm registering with an agency and becoming a baby sitter. Last Monday the agency is sending me to mind a baby for a Mrs. Mendel who lives uptown on Eighth Street. She is willing to pay fifty cents an hour while she is spending her husband's money in the stores. At two o'clock I am in her apartment minding the little one."

"So is Marcus and the other loafers from the coffee house," Aunt Frieda added.

"My friends came fifteen minutes later when Mrs. Mendel is gone," Crarlie said with dignity. "What harm is there in a quiet game of chess while the child is sleeping? There are eleven of us. Five games of chess and one man watches the baby in a bedroom with puppydogs and pussycats on the walls. I am playing Marcus. I am winning."

"By getting Marcus drunk," Frieda explained.

"Marcus had only two small drinks of Mr. Mendel's brandy," said my uncle. "As host, am I not obliged to give each guest a little refreshment?

"All at once the baby is commencing to cry. The eleventh man is bringing her into the parlor for a consultation. Everybody starts making kitchy-koo at the baby. The baby starts crying loud enough for two babies."

"What else? said Frieda. "I would cry myself if eleven chess players made faces at me."

"So," continued Charlie, "we are sitting down and reasoning with logic how to make a baby stop crying. Marcus says in the old country when a baby cries they are putting a little schnapps in the milk. This we do. Now the baby is cryiing like four babies.

"Again we reason with logic. 'What does baby want?' asks Strunsky. 'Its mother,' says Meyer. So because I am getting the fifty cents an hour, I must be the mother. In a closet I find a dress of Mrs. Mendel's and I put it on. A black silk one. Then I pick up the baby and sing it a little song from the old country. Dunder and Blitzen! Now the baby is crying like to wake the dead.

"Suddenly Marcus gets very excited. From his chess board is missing a pawn. 'The baby has swallowed the pawn,' hollers Marcus. This is why it keeps crying. Everyone is excited. 'Call the doctor,' yells Strunsky. We do not know a doctor to call. Marcus says the hospital is supported by the money of citizens, and we are citizens. The hospital should send the doctor. Otherwise we will write letters to the newspapers. I call and tell the operator please, this is an emergency. Send a doctor from the hospital. Just then I notice one of the chess players has thrown a cigarette in the waste basket. A fire is breaking out. I tell the operator if she will please be so kindly to sent the fire engine too.

"While we wait, Marcus puts out the fire with a bottle of seltzer. Berger, with the brilliant mind, opens the baby's mouth and finds it is getting a tooth. I go to the telephone to tell the girl not to bother the hospital and the fire department.

"Suddenly there is clanging and whistles. Into the room comes firemen with axes, doctors with oxygen tanks policemen with billy clubs. Also the neighbors. Also Mrs. Mendel.

"A fat policeman arrests me for contributing to the delinquency of a minor child and masquerading like a woman.

'At the station house I explain. 'Tell it to Sweeney,' the sergeant says. In a cell I am waiting until eleven o'clock that night to tell it to this Mr. Sweeney, but he doesn't come. Finally my son Melvin, the druggist-doctor, arrives and bails me out. The next morning he convinces Mrs. Mendel not to press the charges. But first—imagine it—we must pay for the brandy her own baby helped drink."

"And second," said my Aunt Frieda, "if you loafers don't stop talking, the sauerbrauten will get cold. Eat, eat, eat."

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8 (INS)—Intriguing is the news that MGM plans to film Gustave Flaubert's classic, "Madame Bovary," with Lana Turner playing Madame Bovary, who was born on a Normandy farm and achieved exciting romance.

Paulette Goddard

Pandro Berman, who is producing "Bovary," is already supervising its adaptation.

Famed singer Lotte Lehmann makes her movie debut with Margaret O'Brien in "Big City," Miss Lehmann will sing "God Bless America," the Irving Berlin song which has already cleared $137,000 for the boy and girl scouts, to whom the proceeds have been given by the generous Irving.

It's interesting that when "When Freedom Rings," Berlin's new song, is put on the market, the proceeds from that will go to the American Heritage Foundation.

There's been a lot of buzzing that because Paulette Goddard and Burgess Meredith were coming home separately they were calling a halt to their marriage.

A cable from Burgess denies this. He is on the Mauretania and arrives Thursday, Paulette is flying home and they will meet in New York and go to their farm before coming to Hollywood.

When Burgess gets here he will do some added scenes for "A Miracle Can Happen" for Ben Bogeaus, while Paulette is slated to do a picture called "Hazard" for Paramount.

Katie Hepburn has had a real peeve on because MGM didn't give her the lead in "B. F.'s Daughter," but gave it to Barbara Stanwyck—and there's a very amusing story told about Barbara.

She always said she would never make a picture at MGM, so when she arrived at the studio the property men rolled down a red carpet for her to walk on, and when she stepped into her dressing room, she found a set of silver from her bosses.

Katie is now saying she will be happy again if the studio buys Anita Loos' play, "Happy Birthday" for her.

When "Bathsheba" plays here, if you're interested, you can get a look at Doris Duke's new husband, Porgirio Rubirosa. He's an expert horseman, and he doubled for all the difficult riding scenes for the leading man.

Talk is that Danielle Darrieux, who gave up Rubirosa to marry another man, is none too happy over marriage to the tobacco heiress.

There isn't a nicer guy in town than Lee Bonnell, husband of Gale Storm, but he's never gotten the break he deserved. He served four years in the Coast Guard, out ran into tough luck when he returned to RKO because no pictures could be found for him.

Now I'm happy to say he has a good job, his first since the war. He'll play the romantic lead in "Jiggs and Maggie in Society" at Monogram, and I hope it's just the beginning of a fine new career for him.

Also at the Bowl were Dennis Day and Peggy Almquist, such a pretty girl and they look very serious.

Bruce Cabot is off to New York. He just got back. He'll spend a day in St. Louis as the guest of Carl Brisson.

Harry Richmond, in marvelous form, had all his friends at his Ciro's opening. Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon at a ringside table. Joseph Schenck also was there to welcome Harry.

Sid Luft and Marian Marshall, a blonde, out stepping.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8 (INS)—Intriguing is the news that MGM plans to film Gustave Flaubert's classic, "Madame Bovary," with Lana Turner playing Madame Bovary, who was born on a Normandy farm and achieved exciting romance.

Pandro Berman, who is producing "Bovary," is already supervising its adaptation.

Famed singer Lotte Lehmann makes her movie debut with Margaret O'Brien in "Big City," Miss Lehmann will sing "God Bless America," the Irving Berlin song which has already cleared $137,000 for the boy and girl scouts, to whom the proceeds have been given by the generous Irving.

Paulette Goddard

It's interesting that when "When Freedom Rings," Berlin's new song, is put on the market, the proceeds from that will go to the American Heritage Foundation.

There's been a lot of buzzing that because Paulette Goddard and Burgess Meredith were coming home separately they were calling a halt to their marriage.

A cable from Burgess denies this. He is on the Mauretania and arrives Thursday, Paulette is flying home and they will meet in New York and go to their farm before coming to Hollywood.

When Burgess gets here he will do some added scenes for "A Miracle Can Happen" for Ben Bogeaus, while Paulette is slated to do a picture called "Hazard" for Paramount.

Katie Hepburn has had a real peeve on because MGM didn't give her the lead in "B. F.'s Daughter," but gave it to Barbara Stanwyck—and there's a very amusing story told about Barbara.

She always said she would never make a picture at MGM, so when she arrived at the studio the property men rolled down a red carpet for her to walk on, and when she stepped into her dressing room, she found a set of silver from her bosses.

Katie is now saying she will be happy again if the studio buys Anita Loos' play, "Happy Birthday" for her.

Talk is that Danielle Darrieux, who gave up Rubirosa to marry another man, is none too happy over marriage to the tobacco heiress.

There isn't a nicer guy in town than Lee Bonnell, husband of Gale Storm, but he's never gotten the break he deserved. He served four years in the Coast Guard, out ran into tough luck when he returned to RKO because no pictures could be found for him.

Now I'm happy to say he has a good job, his first since the war. He'll play the romantic lead in "Jiggs and Maggie in Society" at Monogram, and I hope it's just the beginning of a fine new career for him.

Also at the Bowl were Dennis Day and Peggy Almquist, such a pretty girl and they look very serious.

Bruce Cabot is off to New York. He just got back. He'll spend a day in St. Louis as the guest of Carl Brisson.

Three All-Americans Are On 1947 Squad

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 8—(INS)—Seventy-four high-powered football stars, led by All-American Johnny Lujack, George Strohmeyer and George Connor, reported to Head Coach Frank Leahy today for the opening practice session in Notre Dame's "year of destiny".

Even announcement that promising scatback Ernie Zalejski will not be available to the Fighting Irish because of a trick knee failed to restrain Notre Dame hopes, which are higher this year than ever before.

Pre-season consensus gives an undefeated season and the nation's number one ranking to Frank Leahy's men, who are to play Pittsburgh, Purdue, Nebraska, Iowa, Navy, Army, Northwestern, Tulane and Southern California in that order.

Four 1946 Stars Missing

Notably missing from last year's undefeated Notre Dame cast, whose record was besmirched only by that scoreless tie with Army, were Guard John Mastrangelo, End Jack Zilly, Quarterback George Ratterman and Fullback Jim Mello.

Ratterman, however, played second string to Lujack at quarter, and among the "fill-in's" at the other spots are:

ENDS—Leon Hart, Frank Kosikowski, Bill Leonard, Jim Martin; TACKLES—Connor, Ziggy Czarobski, John Fallon, Ralph McGehee, George Sullivan; GUARDS—Bill Fischer, Bob Lally, Joe Signaigo, Marty Wendell; CENTERS—Strohmeyer, Bill Walsh.

HALFBACKS—Terry Brennan, Fred Earley, Bill Gompers, Bob Livingstone, Coy McGee, Emil Sitko, Mike Swistowicz; FULLBACKS—Corwin Clatt, Floyd Simmons, John Panelli.

Leahy Is Conservative

Leahy, as always, was conservative in his estimate of the team's chances. Said he:

"Potentially we're a representative Notre Dame team. It is hard to believe we can be as good as last year's national championship eleven. Actually, the strength of the 1947 squad will be dependent on whether our players are willing to pay the price for gridiron success.

"The price to which I refer is hard intelligent work. If that price is paid I feel we'll have a team of which alumni and friends of Notre Dame will be proud."

Dodgers' Guard Tells Of Play Which Helped Baltimore Colts Win

BROOKLYN, Sept. 8 (AP)—Harry Buffington, Brooklyn Dodger football guard, moaned today he had no explanation for his 30-yard romp to the wrong goal line with the ball in the opening minute of yesterday's All-America Conference game in Baltimore.

"I threw a good block and was spun around and when I stopped spinning, there was the loose ball in front of me. I grabbed it and started for the goal," he said.

Buffington said he didn't realize he was going in the wrong direction until about two strides from the counting station and had worked up such speed he couldn't stop.

After reaching the end zone he saw Mickey Colmer, one of the ten Dodger teammates who had tried to stop him, in the clear and Buffington tried a pass. It was knocked down and Jimmy Castiglia of the Colts, fell on it for a touchdown.

Baltimore, playing its first game in the loop, won by a 16 to 7 score.

Elks Eliminate Casey Tossers From Playoffs

Knights Bow, 9 To 4, In Chair Loop Tilt

Packing their scoring punch into two innings, the B.P.O. Elks eliminated the Knights of Columbus from the Rocking Chair Softball League playoffs by defeating the latter yesterday at Community Park by the score of 9 to 4.

It was the third game of the series, the Elks having won the opener, 2-1, while the second contest went seven innings to a 1-1 draw, being halted by darkness.

Elks Reach Finals

Through their triumph over the defending champions, the Elks gained the right to meet the winner of the American Legion-Loyal Order of Moose series for the title. The second game of the Legion-Moose series is set for today at 6:15 p. m. at Community Park. In the opener last week the Moose team scored an 8-5 victory.

A blow-up in the initial frame started the Caseys on the road to defeat yesterday. The Elks coupled two hits with five errors to chase four runs over the platter in the opening stanza and grouped four hits with two errors to register four more tallies in the 5th. The winners' final run was marked up in the sixth frame.

The Knights trailed 4-3 going into the last of the 5th when the Elks' final four-run splurge decided the issue.

Three of the Caseys' eight hits were two-baggers while the extra base hits credited to the Elks were Jim Wilkinson's double and Pete Lear's triple. The latter was thrown out at the plate when he attempted to stretch his three-bagger into a homer.

Mackey Makes Nice Catch

"Lefty" Loibel and "Chick" Snider of the K. of C., and Dick Bruce and "Windy" Wallis of the Elks had two hits each to their credit.

Ten errors were made by the teams, seven being charged against the losers.

Timonium Lifts Ban On Marlboro Horses

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Timonium track today lifted its ban on entries stabled at Marlboro which had been invoked because of a report that some horses there had raced in New England where swamp fever has been killing thoroughbreds.

Timonium officials said horses from Marlboro now will be acceptable since danger from the disease at the Southern Maryland track appears to be over.

At the same time, a two-year-old, Pharadine, died today at Timonium from what was diagnosed as shipping fever. The horse came here by rail from Cumberland early last week.

Moore Scores TKO Over Bivins In 9th

BALTIMORE, Sept. 8 (AP) — After Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland twice indicated he was in dire straits, Referee Eddie Leonard awarded Archie Moore of St. Louis a technical knockout in the ninth round and the winner promptly fell flat on his face in the Fifth Regiment Armory tonight before 7,916 sweltering fans.

Both fighters were visibly affected by the hot confines of the armory which was believed responsible for Bivins' collapse. He was revived in a minute by his handlers.

Moore held the edge throughout a sharp-hitting fight scheduled for 10 rounds in which he gave away ten pounds to Bivins who weighed 183. Bivins went down for a count of two from a hard right in the third round.

Teams Clash Today On Taylor Field

Lacy Cifala's Delicatets and the Cumberland Amvets batted to a 3-3 tie in nine innings in the opening game of their playoff series for the championship of the City Softball League yesterday at Stitcher Field. Darkness brought a halt to hostilities after the second overtime inning.

The Amvets forced the game into extra innings when they sent over the tying marker after two down in the 7th. "Doc" Dougherty's double followed by Allan Sheetz's triple turned the trick. Ted Durbin, however, saved the day for the Delicatets when he made a perfect peg to Hardy to cut down Sheetz who attempted to score with what would have been the winning marker.

A large crowd turned out for the opener of the best-of-five games series between the first and second half champions and witnessed one of the hardest-fought battles of the campaign in which Jim Roby and Allan Sheetz hooked up in a pitching duel.

Sheetz yielded nine hits, three of which were credited to Durbin while Penner and Hardy garnered two each. Dougherty collected two of the Amvets' seven bingles.

The teams decided to meet today at 6 p. m. at Taylor Field. Wednesday will be an open date and on Thursday the series will be resumed at Stitcher Field. Box:

Dobbs, Bertelli Figure In Deal

Hoernschemeyer Also In 3-Cornered Swap

BROOKLYN, Sept. 8 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers of the All-America Football Conference, today traded Glenn Dobbs, voted the loop's most outstanding player last year, to the Los Angeles Dons in a three-cornered deal that brought Angelo Bertelli to the Chicago Rockets and Robert (Hunchy) Hoernschemeyer to the Dodgers.

All are backfield standouts.

No cash was involved in the deal, Brooklyn officials said. Dobbs will leave immediately to join his new mates and Hoernschemeyer will practice with the Dodgers tomorrow in their preparations for Friday night's game in Ebbets Field with Cleveland.

Dobbs, former Tulsa University All-America player in 1942, received 41½ votes out of a possible 42 this winter in the ballotting for the most valuable award.

He established a conference record last year with a 78-yard punt and also set another mark when he completed 23 passes in a game against the San Francisco 49ers. He got off a 78 yard punt against the same club for a third record.

Bertelli starred at Notre Dame and signed with the Dons during the war. A few days later he signed another pact, this one with the Boston Yanks of The National Football League. In the subsequent court battle Bartelli was awarded to the All-America club.

Hoernschemeyer played for both Indiana University and the Naval Academy during the war and was the directing general of the Rockets in their two games this year.

Cliff Battles, coach of the Dodgers, said "that I know I am giving up an edge in kicking by trading Dobbs but Hunchy will give us a superior field general. Dobbs made several strategical mistakes this fall. In addition, Hoernschemeyer is five years younger than Dobbs."

Gonzales Carries Mulloy Five Sets At Forest Hills

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, a 19-year-old stick of tennis dynamite from Los Angeles, came near throwing the national championships completely out of kilter today when he carried Davis Cup star Gardnar Mulloy of Miami to five screaching sets before bowing out in a second round match at Forest Hills.

The hot tamale from the coast, owner af a searing service and a deadly stop-volley that baffled Mulloy, once stood at 4-2 in games in the deciding set and again was within one point of making it 5-3 on his own service. Only Mulloy's cool head and vast experience finally pulled him out of a nasty situation. The scores were 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 9-11, 6-4.

Mulloy, the fourth seeded native star, had been expected to tame the swarthy Pancho without much trouble. Indeed, when he won the first two sets from the youngster it looked as though it would be over very shortly.

And then Gonzales began to play a brand of slashing, net-rushing, tennis that no one knew he possessed. By the time he had reeled off the third set and then squared the match by winning the long-drawn fourth, practically all the several thousand spectators on the premises had jammed themselves into the secondary grandstands where the match was being played to watch Pancho make his bid.

Frankie Parker, the two-time former champion, played to an almost empty house as he scored a routine victory over Ladislav Hecht, the former Czech Davis Cup player by 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Mulloy was the only one of the seeded stars in the lower bracket to run into a hornet today. Jack Bromwich of Australia, the No. 1 seeded foreigner, methodically chopped down George Pero, a stocky player from Miami, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1, and Pancho Segura, the singular Ecuadorean, vanquished Richard Savitt of East Orange, N. J., 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

Both Colin Long of Australia, fourth seeded foreigner, and young Bob Falkenburg of Los Angeles, seventh seeded American, gained a lap on the men's field when they played and won their third-round matches. Long beat Ricardo Balbiers of Chile, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, and Falkenburg outlasted Harry Likas of San Francisco, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

The women's second round was completed without incident, Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, the favorite, scored an impressive 6-3, 6-2 victory over Mrs. Helen Peterson Rihbany of Boston. Doris Hart of Miami, seeded third, romped to a 6-3, 6-3, win over Mrs. Jacque Hunt Fischer of Montclair, N. J.

In a second round men's singles match, Clarence Carter, San Francisco, defeated Harold Burrows, Charlottesville, Va., 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Lloyd Gearhart's Circuit Wallop Wins For Giants

New Yorkers Sink Bucs In Ninth, 10-8

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 8 (AP)—Coming from behind an 8-0 count, the New York Giants broke loose with seven runs in the eighth inning and then defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-8, on Lloyd Gearhart's two-run homer in the ninth.

A paid crowd of 3,963 fans saw veteran Fritz Ostermueller pitch no-hit ball for five innings and two-hit ball for seven before the Giants blasted him off the mound with a five-hit attack good far as many runs.

The Pirates roughed up Sheldon Jones, Joe Beggs and Andy Hansen for 10 of their 12 hits and all of their runs but couldn't score in the last two innings on fireman Ken Trinkle who received credit for his seventh victory. Box:

Mills Scores TKO To Capture Title

Freddie Stops Belgian In Fourth At London

By BILL MACKLIN

LONDON, Sept. 8—(AP)—Freddie Mills of Great Britain won the European light heavyweight boxing title tonight by scoring a technical knockout over Pol Goffaux of Belgium, in the fourth round of a scheduled 15-round title bout.

Both fighters weighed 172¼.

After being clubbed to the floor five times earlier in the fourth round, the 30-year-old Belgian retired. His eyes leaden from the battering he'd absorbed, his knees wobbly, he stood in his corner and raised his right hand as a signal to the charging Briton that he'd had enough.

In the scheduled eight-round semi-windup, former world flyweight champion Jackie Paterson, invading the bantamweight ranks, was stopped in the second round by Stan Powan of Britain.

Mills opened negotiations for that bout with Lesnevich's manager, Joe Vella, recently, and learned Gus is asking for a $60,000 guarantee to put his title on the line against Freddie either in December or early in 1948.

Night Contest Is Scheduled For 8 O'Clock

Masontown Cancels, Keyser Comes Here

LaSalle High School and Keyser (W. Va.) High School will inaugurate the 1947 football season in Cumberland when they clash Friday night at 8 p. m. at the Fort Hill Stadium.

Arrangements for the staging of the game were made last night at a meeting of Brother Gregory, director of athletics and Coach John J. Long, of LaSalle High School, and Coach Frederick "Tack" Clark of Keyser.

Coach Clark came to Cumberland last night seeking a game for Friday after Masontown, W. Va. High School cancelled its scheduled game with the Mineral countians on that date. He contacted Brother Gregory and the latter told him to come to Carroll Hall and "talk things over." Late last night, Brother Gregory announced that the schools had signed a contract to get the season started here on Friday.

"The only game we had booked before the city contest with Fort Hill on October 3 was the one with St. Mary's of Clarksburg, W. Va., here, Thursday, September 18," Brother Gregory said. "We needed another game under our belts before the city contest and Keyser should be a logical opponent."

Keyser opened its season last Friday, edging the Alumni in the mud by the score of 6 to 0. Keyser's next home game is with Charles Town, September 19.

Following the Fort Hill game, LaSalle will play St. Francis Prep at York, Pa., October 12; Bedford, home, October 17; Mooseheart, home, October 25; Allegany, November 7; Ridgeley, November 14; Romney, home, November 21, and Beall at Frostburg, Thanksgiving Day.

Fort Hill opens its season Saturday with Washington and Lee High School, of Alexandria, Va., on the latter's field. Allegany opens with Somerset, Pa., High here Saturday, September 20.

Stranahan Wins, Evans Is Loser

Favorite Sets Pace In National Amateur

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 8 (AP)—Top favorites for the most part breezed through first round matches today of the 1947 U. S. Amateur Golf Championship but rugged Pebble Beach nevertheless claimed some of the stars and big name players as its victims.

Tournament favorite Frank Stranahan set the winning pace. The Toledo, Ohio, entry, who makes golf practically a daily hobby, shot two under par for twelve holes to swamp Douglas Bajus of Vancouver, B. C. 7 and 6.

The two time ex-champion, Marvin "Bud" Ward of Spokane, Wash., sounded his first challenge to regain the title he held in 1939 and 1941, with a tremendous 9 and 7 count over W. A. Schneider, Honolulu, Ward won eight of the first nine holes, finishing even par, while his opponent soared to duffer's figures.

On the debit side were posted the names of such tested performers and veterans as Jack Westland, Everett, Wash., Albert (Scotty) Campbell, Seattle, Wash., Harrison R. Johnston of Minneapolis; John Kraft, Denver, and graying Charles (Chick) Evans, 57 year oldster from Chicago.

Westland and Campbell, former Walker Cup luminaries, went down fighting. The former 3 and 2 at the hands of Harold Paddick, Aurora, Ohio, and Campbell taking his rival, Hal Stone, Jr., Bloomington, Ill., to the 19th hole, where the ax fell.

Harrison Johnston won the national crown over this same trapped and treacherous course in 1929 He couldn't cut the buck today and Eugene Andrews, San Diego, Calif., insurance man, chalked up the win, 2 and 1.

Kraft, one of the good ones in the Rocky Mountain district, couldn't keep up with a fellow named John J. Humm of Rockville Center, N. Y., and the score was 3 and 2.

The gallery was pulling for Chick Evans who bagged the title in 1916 and again in 1920 but his opponent George Rowbotham, Mano, Pa., had different ideas, and won handily, 5 and 4.

LaSalle And Keyser Open Grid Season Here Friday

Three All-Americans Are On 1947 Squad

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 8—(INS)—Seventy-four high-powered football stars, led by All-American Johnny Lujack, George Strohmeyer and George Connor, reported to Head Coach Frank Leahy today for the opening practice session in Notre Dame's "year of destiny".

Even announcement that promising scatback Ernie Zalejski will not be available to the Fighting Irish because of a trick knee failed to restrain Notre Dame hopes, which are higher this year than ever before.

Pre-season consensus gives an undefeated season and the nation's number one ranking to Frank Leahy's men, who are to play Pittsburgh, Purdue, Nebraska, Iowa, Navy, Army, Northwestern, Tulane and Southern California in that order.

Four 1946 Stars Missing

Notably missing from last year's undefeated Notre Dame cast, whose record was besmirched only by that scoreless tie with Army, were Guard John Mastrangelo, End Jack Zilly, Quarterback George Ratterman and Fullback Jim Mello.

Ratterman, however, played second string to Lujack at quarter, and among the "fill-in's" at the other spots are:

ENDS—Leon Hart, Frank Kosikowski, Bill Leonard, Jim Martin; TACKLES—Connor, Ziggy Czarobski, John Fallon, Ralph McGehee, George Sullivan; GUARDS—Bill Fischer, Bob Lally, Joe Signaigo, Marty Wendell; CENTERS—Strohmeyer, Bill Walsh.

HALFBACKS—Terry Brennan, Fred Earley, Bill Gompers, Bob Livingstone, Coy McGee, Emil Sitko, Mike Swistowicz; FULLBACKS—Corwin Clatt, Floyd Simmons, John Panelli.

Leahy Is Conservative

Leahy, as always, was conservative in his estimate of the team's chances. Said he:

"Potentially we're a representative Notre Dame team. It is hard to believe we can be as good as last year's national championship eleven. Actually, the strength of the 1947 squad will be dependent on whether our players are willing to pay the price for gridiron success.

"The price to which I refer is hard intelligent work. If that price is paid I feel we'll have a team of which alumni and friends of Notre Dame will be proud."

Cleveland Wins Over Yanks, 4-3

Bob Feller's Relief Pitching Is Feature

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. (AP) — Bob Feller, Cleveland's great right-hander, turned in a brilliant relief performance in the ninth inning tonight to enable the Indians to squeeze out a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees. Feller came to Bob Lemon's rescue with nobody out and runners on first and third and retired the next three batters without allowing a run. Box:

Dodgers' Guard Tells Of Play Which Helped Baltimore Colts Win

BROOKLYN, Sept. 8 (AP)—Harry Buffington, Brooklyn Dodger football guard, moaned today he had no explanation for his 30-yard romp to the wrong goal line with the ball in the opening minute of yesterday's All-America Conference game in Baltimore.

"I threw a good block and was spun around and when I stopped spinning, there was the loose ball in front of me. I grabbed it and started for the goal," he said.

Buffington said he didn't realize he was going in the wrong direction until about two strides from the counting station and had worked up such speed he couldn't stop.

After reaching the end zone he saw Mickey Colmer, one of the ten Dodger teammates who had tried to stop him, in the clear and Buffington tried a pass. It was knocked down and Jimmy Castiglia of the Colts, fell on it for a touchdown.

Baltimore, playing its first game in the loop, won by a 16 to 7 score.

Elks Eliminate Casey Tossers From Playoffs

Knights Bow, 9 To 4, In Chair Loop Tilt

Packing their scoring punch into two innings, the B.P.O. Elks eliminated the Knights of Columbus from the Rocking Chair Softball League playoffs by defeating the latter yesterday at Community Park by the score of 9 to 4.

It was the third game of the series, the Elks having won the opener, 2-1, while the second contest went seven innings to a 1-1 draw, being halted by darkness.

Elks Reach Finals

Through their triumph over the defending champions, the Elks gained the right to meet the winner of the American Legion-Loyal Order of Moose series for the title. The second game of the Legion-Moose series is set for today at 6:15 p. m. at Community Park. In the opener last week the Moose team scored an 8-5 victory.

A blow-up in the initial frame started the Caseys on the road to defeat yesterday. The Elks coupled two hits with five errors to chase four runs over the platter in the opening stanza and grouped four hits with two errors to register four more tallies in the 5th. The winners' final run was marked up in the sixth frame.

The Knights trailed 4-3 going into the last of the 5th when the Elks' final four-run splurge decided the issue.

Three of the Caseys' eight hits were two-baggers while the extra base hits credited to the Elks were Jim Wilkinson's double and Pete Lear's triple. The latter was thrown out at the plate when he attempted to stretch his three-bagger into a homer.

Mackey Makes Nice Catch

"Lefty" Loibel and "Chick" Snider of the K. of C., and Dick Bruce and "Windy" Wallis of the Elks had two hits each to their credit.

Ten errors were made by the teams, seven being charged against the losers.

Timonium Lifts Ban On Marlboro Horses

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Timonium track today lifted its ban on entries stabled at Marlboro which had been invoked because of a report that some horses there had raced in New England where swamp fever has been killing thoroughbreds.

Timonium officials said horses from Marlboro now will be acceptable since danger from the disease at the Southern Maryland track appears to be over.

At the same time, a two-year-old, Pharadine, died today at Timonium from what was diagnosed as shipping fever. The horse came here by rail from Cumberland early last week.

Moore Scores TKO Over Bivins In 9th

BALTIMORE, Sept. 8 (AP) — After Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland twice indicated he was in dire straits, Referee Eddie Leonard awarded Archie Moore of St. Louis a technical knockout in the ninth round and the winner promptly fell flat on his face in the Fifth Regiment Armory tonight before 7,916 sweltering fans.

Both fighters were visibly affected by the hot confines of the armory which was believed responsible for Bivins' collapse. He was revived in a minute by his handlers.

Moore held the edge throughout a sharp-hitting fight scheduled for 10 rounds in which he gave away ten pounds to Bivins who weighed 183. Bivins went down for a count of two from a hard right in the third round.

Teams Clash Today On Taylor Field

Lacy Cifala's Delicatets and the Cumberland Amvets batted to a 3-3 tie in nine innings in the opening game of their playoff series for the championship of the City Softball League yesterday at Stitcher Field. Darkness brought a halt to hostilities after the second overtime inning.

The Amvets forced the game into extra innings when they sent over the tying marker after two down in the 7th. "Doc" Dougherty's double followed by Allan Sheetz's triple turned the trick. Ted Durbin, however, saved the day for the Delicatets when he made a perfect peg to Hardy to cut down Sheetz who attempted to score with what would have been the winning marker.

A large crowd turned out for the opener of the best-of-five games series between the first and second half champions and witnessed one of the hardest-fought battles of the campaign in which Jim Roby and Allan Sheetz hooked up in a pitching duel.

Sheetz yielded nine hits, three of which were credited to Durbin while Penner and Hardy garnered two each. Dougherty collected two of the Amvets' seven bingles.

The teams decided to meet today at 6 p. m. at Taylor Field. Wednesday will be an open date and on Thursday the series will be resumed at Stitcher Field. Box:

Dobbs, Bertelli Figure In Deal

Hoernschemeyer Also In 3-Cornered Swap

BROOKLYN, Sept. 8 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers of the All-America Football Conference, today traded Glenn Dobbs, voted the loop's most outstanding player last year, to the Los Angeles Dons in a three-cornered deal that brought Angelo Bertelli to the Chicago Rockets and Robert (Hunchy) Hoernschemeyer to the Dodgers.

All are backfield standouts.

No cash was involved in the deal, Brooklyn officials said. Dobbs will leave immediately to join his new mates and Hoernschemeyer will practice with the Dodgers tomorrow in their preparations for Friday night's game in Ebbets Field with Cleveland.

Dobbs, former Tulsa University All-America player in 1942, received 41½ votes out of a possible 42 this winter in the ballotting for the most valuable award.

He established a conference record last year with a 78-yard punt and also set another mark when he completed 23 passes in a game against the San Francisco 49ers. He got off a 78 yard punt against the same club for a third record.

Bertelli starred at Notre Dame and signed with the Dons during the war. A few days later he signed another pact, this one with the Boston Yanks of The National Football League. In the subsequent court battle Bartelli was awarded to the All-America club.

Hoernschemeyer played for both Indiana University and the Naval Academy during the war and was the directing general of the Rockets in their two games this year.

Cliff Battles, coach of the Dodgers, said "that I know I am giving up an edge in kicking by trading Dobbs but Hunchy will give us a superior field general. Dobbs made several strategical mistakes this fall. In addition, Hoernschemeyer is five years younger than Dobbs."

Gonzales Carries Mulloy Five Sets At Forest Hills

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, a 19-year-old stick of tennis dynamite from Los Angeles, came near throwing the national championships completely out of kilter today when he carried Davis Cup star Gardnar Mulloy of Miami to five screaching sets before bowing out in a second round match at Forest Hills.

The hot tamale from the coast, owner of a searing service and a deadly stop-volley that baffled Mulloy, once stood at 4-2 in games in the deciding set and again was within one point of making it 5-3 on his own service. Only Mulloy's cool head and vast experience finally pulled him out of a nasty situation. The scores were 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 9-11, 6-4.

Mulloy, the fourth seeded native star, had been expected to tame the swarthy Pancho without much trouble. Indeed, when he won the first two sets from the youngster it looked as though it would be over very shortly.

And then Gonzales began to play a brand of slashing, net-rushing, tennis that no one knew he possessed. By the time he had reeled off the third set and then squared the match by winning the long-drawn fourth, practically all the several thousand spectators on the premises had jammed themselves into the secondary grandstands where the match was being played to watch Pancho make his bid.

Frankie Parker, the two-time former champion, played to an almost empty house as he scored a routine victory over Ladislav Hecht, the former Czech Davis Cup player by 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Mulloy was the only one of the seeded stars in the lower bracket to run into a hornet today. Jack Bromwich of Australia, the No. 1 seeded foreigner, methodically chopped down George Pero, a stocky player from Miami, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1, and Pancho Segura, the singular Ecuadorean, vanquished Richard Savitt of East Orange, N. J., 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

Both Colin Long of Australia, fourth seeded foreigner, and young Bob Falkenburg of Los Angeles, seventh seeded American, gained a lap on the men's field when they played and won their third-round matches. Long beat Ricardo Balbiers of Chile, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, and Falkenburg outlasted Harry Likas of San Francisco, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

The women's second round was completed without incident, Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, the favorite, scored an impressive 6-3, 6-2 victory over Mrs. Helen Peterson Rihbany of Boston. Doris Hart of Miami, seeded third, romped to a 6-3, 6-3, win over Mrs. Jacque Hunt Fischer of Montclair, N. J.

In a second round men's singles match, Clarence Carter, San Francisco, defeated Harold Burrows, Charlottesville, Va., 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

New Yorkers Sink Bucs In Ninth, 10-8

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 8 (AP)—Coming from behind an 8-0 count, the New York Giants broke loose with seven runs in the eighth inning and then defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-8, on Lloyd Gearhart's two-run homer in the ninth.

A paid crowd of 3,963 fans saw veteran Fritz Ostermueller pitch no-hit ball for five innings and two-hit ball for seven before the Giants blasted him off the mound with a five-hit attack good for as many runs.

After Jim Bagby relieved Ostermueller with men on first and second and two out, the Pirate reliefer committed a balk advancing both runners. Pinch-hitter Joe Lafata drove them home with a single.

The Pirates roughed up Sheldon Jones, Joe Beggs and Andy Hansen for 10 of their 12 hits and all of their runs but couldn't score in the last two innings on fireman Ken Trinkle who received credit for his seventh victory. Box:

Mills Scores TKO To Capture Title

By BILL MACKLIN

LONDON, Sept. 8—(AP)—Freddie Mills of Great Britain won the European light heavyweight boxing title tonight by scoring a technical knockout over Pol Goffaux of Belgium, in the fourth round of a scheduled 15-round title bout.

Both fighters weighed 172¼.

After being clubbed to the floor five times earlier in the fourth round, the 30-year-old Belgian retired. His eyes leaden from the battering he'd absorbed, his knees wobbly, he stood in his corner and raised his right hand as a signal to the charging Briton that he'd had enough.

In the scheduled eight-round semi-windup, former world flyweight champion Jackie Paterson, invading the bantamweight ranks, was stopped in the second round by Stan Rowan of Britain.

Mills opened negotiations for that bout with Lesnevich's manager, Joe Vella, recently, and learned Gus is asking for a $60,000 guarantee to put his title on the line against Freddie either in December or early in 1948.

Night Contest Is Scheduled For 8 O'Clock

Masontown Cancels, Keyser Comes Here

LaSalle High School and Keyser (W. Va.) High School will inaugurate the 1947 football season in Cumberland when they clash Friday night at 8 p. m. at the Fort Hill Stadium.

Arrangements for the staging of the game were made last night at a meeting of Brother Gregory, director of athletics and Coach John J. Long, of LaSalle High School, and Coach Frederick "Tack" Clark of Keyser.

Coach Clark came to Cumberland last night seeking a game for Friday after Masontown, W. Va. High School cancelled its scheduled game with the Mineral countians on that date. He contacted Brother Gregory and the latter told him to come to Carroll Hall and "talk things over." Late last night, Brother Gregory announced that the schools had signed a contract to get the season started here on Friday.

"The only game we had booked before the city contest with Fort Hill on October 3 was the one with St. Mary's of Clarksburg, W. Va., here, Thursday, September 18," Brother Gregory said. "We needed another game under our belts before the city contest and Keyser should be a logical opponent."

Keyser opened its season last Friday, edging the Alumni in the mud by the score of 6 to 0. Keyser's next home game is with Charles Town, September 19.

Following the Fort Hill game, LaSalle will play St. Francis Prep at York, Pa., October 12; Bedford, home, October 17; Mooseheart, home, October 25; Allegany, November 7; Ridgeley, November 14; Romney, home, November 21, and Beall at Frostburg, Thanksgiving Day.

Fort Hill opens its season Saturday with Washington and Lee High School, of Alexandria, Va., on the latter's field. Allegany opens with Somerset, Pa., High here Saturday, September 20.

Stranahan Wins, Evans Is Loser

Favorite Sets Pace In National Amateur

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 8 (AP)—Top favorites for the most part breezed through first round matches today of the 1947 U. S. Amateur Golf Championship but rugged Pebble Beach nevertheless claimed some of the stars and big name players as its victims.

Tournament favorite Frank Stranahan set the winning pace. The Toledo, Ohio, entry, who makes golf practically a daily hobby, shot two under par for twelve holes to swamp Douglas Bajus of Vancouver, B. C. 7 and 6.

The two time ex-champion, Marvin "Bud" Ward of Spokane, Wash., sounded his first challenge to regain the title he held in 1939 and 1941, with a tremendous 9 and 7 count over W. A. Schneider, Honolulu. Ward won eight of the first nine holes, finishing even par, while his opponent soared to duffer's figures.

On the debit side were posted the names of such tested performers and veterans as Jack Westland, Everett, Wash., Albert (Scotty) Campbell, Seattle, Wash., Harrison R. Johnston of Minneapolis; John Kraft, Denver, and graying Charles (Chick) Evans, 57 year oldster from Chicago.

Westland and Campbell, former Walker Cup luminaries, went down fighting. The former 3 and 2 at the hands of Harold Paddick Aurora, Ohio, and Campbell taking his rival, Hal Stone, Jr., Bloomington, Ill., to the 19th hole, where the ax fell.

Harrison Johnston won the national crown over this same trapped and treacherous course in 1929 He couldn't cut the buck today and Eugene Andrews, San Diego, Calif., insurance man, chalked up the win, 2 and 1.

Kraft, one of the good ones in the Rocky Mountain district, couldn't keep up with a fellow named John J. Humm of Rockville Center, N. Y., and the score was 3 and 2.

The gallery was pulling for Chick Evans who bagged the title in 1916 and again in 1920 but his opponent George Rowbotham, Mano, Pa., had different ideas, and won handily, 5 and 4.

New Police Radio Aids In Arrest Of Traffic Violator

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, Sept. 9 — Although the new FM two-way short communication system for the police cruiser cars of Piedmont, Westernport and Keyser has been in operation on a part-time basis, satisfactory results are being obtained, officials reveal. The master station is located in the police station at Keyser and a receiving set also has been placed in the Westernport city clerk's office.

Charles Thomas Wolfe, Bloomington, who was arrested on a charge of reckless driving, was apprehended by the aid of the new radio system Sunday night. Leonard Murphy, assistant police chief of Westernport, followed Wolfe to Piedmont. He radioed to Keyser and police there blocked Piedmont Street and arrested the driver. He was released on a cash bond of $26.45 and will be given a hearing Saturday morning before Magistrate John Laughlin.

A Cumberland man was apprehended by Officer Murphy Sunday night on a charge of operating a motorcycle in a reckless manner. Quincy S. Bowers, 331 Dorn Avenue, posted $11.45 bond and is scheduled to appear at a hearing before Magistrate Laughlin Saturday at 11 a. m.

The radio project in Piedmont and Westernport was sponsored by the Westernport and Luke Lions Club and they have issued a check for $1,000 to George C. Freeland, Romney, representative of the Link Corporation, for part payment for their share which is approximately $2,000. The total sum had been raised several months ago by donations of the citizens. The Keyser Lions Club sponsored the system at Keyser with $1,000 as its share.

The three towns agreed some time ago to share the cost of maintenance of the service and operating costs. Qualified operators licensed by the Federal Communications Commission are being sought before it can be placed in full 24 hour operation. The date has not been set when this equipment will be officially turned over to the three communities.

New Police Radio Aids In Arrest Of Traffic Violator

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, Sept. 9 — Although the new FM two-way short communication system for the police cruiser cars of Piedmont, Westernport and Keyser has been in operation on a part-time basis, satisfactory results are being obtained, officials reveal. The master station is located in the police station at Keyser and a receiving set also has been placed in the Westernport city clerk's office.

Charles Thomas Wolfe, Bloomington, who was arrested on a charge of reckless driving, was apprehended by the aid of the new radio system Sunday night. Leonard Murphy, assistant police chief of Westernport, followed Wolfe to Piedmont. He radioed to Keyser and police there blocked Piedmont Street and arrested the driver. He was released on a cash bond of $26.45 and will be given a hearing Saturday morning before Magistrate John Laughlin.

A Cumberland man was apprehended by Officer Murphy Sunday night on a charge of operating a motorcycle in a reckless manner. Quincy S. Bowers, 331 Dorn Avenue, posted $11.45 bond and is scheduled to appear at a hearing before Magistrate Laughlin Saturday at 11 a. m.

The radio project in Piedmont and Westernport was sponsored by the Westernport and Luke Lions Club and they have issued a check for $1,000 to George C. Freeland, Romney, representative of the Link Corporation, for part payment for their share which is approximately $2,000. The total sum had been raised several months ago by donations of the citizens. The Keyser Lions Club sponsored the system at Keyser with $1,000 as its share.

The three towns agreed some time ago to share the cost of maintenance of the service and operating costs. Qualified operators licensed by the Federal Communications Commission are being sought before it can be placed in full 24 hour operation. The date has not been set when this equipment will be officially turned over to the three communities.

Red Skelton To Return To NBC Network Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—When Red Skelton gets back on the air of NBC Tuesday night at 9:30 from vacation that will be starting his eleventh network year. Sigmund Romberg's music held forth while he rested from his weekly broadcast.

In coming back, some changes are being made. For one thing, the orchestra will be under the direction of David Rose. For another a touch here and there is to be given to the scripts and supporting cast.

In announcing its selection for Studio One at 8:30, CBS has sent out a 200-word announcement saying the play would be "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." That is, this will be it unless there is another of those last minute announcements that this program has faced on several recent occasions.

The American Forum of MBS at 8:30 plans to debate this question: "What are the prospects for labor-management peace?" The argument will come from James Carey of CIO, Borish Shishkin of AFL, Herman W. Steinkraus, manufacturer, and Robert R. Wason of N. A. M. Theodore Granik will run things as usual.

Another of the Tuesday night forums, America's Town Meeting of ABC at 8:30 which recently moved from Thursday, will originate its discussion from San Diego, Calif. The question to be put is "How can we make United Nations work?"

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Past And Present

It being an accepted rule of the newspaper columnist's trade that "names make the news," suppose some of the great personalities of the past were alive today and were forced — heaven forbid — to make their living in the radio world. A typical cozy radio column might then look somelike the following:

Edgar Bergen

Well, kiddies, we hear that Aaron Burr, famous duel fighter and former U. S. Vice-President, has now switched to N.B.C. as vice-president in charge of editing comedians' joke copy . . . Damon and Pythias, the Milton Berle writing team, have split up over a salary disagreement . . . Johnny Sebastian Bach is the guy writing those new commercial soap jingles that are driving every one crazy . . . Genghis Khan is making the rounds of the agencies with a brand new show idea called "So You Want to Lead an Invasion" . . . Bill Shakespeare has taken time out from his "Life Can Be Beautiful" writing chores to work on a Broadway play . . . Good luck, Bill . . . What Passaic, N. J., milliner named du Barry was chosen on the "Queen for a Day" radio program, and now won't give the crown back to the program sponsors? . . . The F.C.C. is giving the fish eye to some new transmitter ideas being developed by sound engineer Lennie da Vinci.

Tristram and Isolde have been signed for one of those domestic breakfast shows, broadcast directly from their Sutton Place apartment . . . Tris will do most of the writing himself . . . Mark Anthony, who we think has one of the best speaking voices in the business, will spell Ben Grauer for a time while Ben gets in a few weeks fishing . . . those Lorelei girls, who have been luring customers into a Fifty-second Street night club, sound pretty much like the Andrew Sisters . . . and that reminds us, King David, the well known harp soloist, won't appear on the Album of Familiar Music next week until he gets himself straightened out with Petrillo . . . Benedict Arnold has changed agencies again.

Alexander the Great, star of stage, screen, radio and the concert stage, is now looking for new worlds to conquer . . . Disinterested spectators figure the new Lady Godiva show will do for television what Marconi did for radio . . . Nathan Hale, the comedy show producer, who gave up his stomach to the radio business, is taking the milk cure up in Connecticut . . . Major General George Custer, the radio military commentator, was slaughtered in the last Hooperating . . . Paul Revere, from up around Boston way, one of the most popular midnight disc jockeys.

Lucullus, the well known sponsor and soap tycoon, is tossing one of his famous supper parties at Toots Shor's next Sattiday night . . . Which reminds us that the headwaiter at the Stork has just banned Attila the Hun again . . . Attie just can't behave, it seems . . . Mary Margaret McBride interviews Napoleon Bonaparte on her tomorrow morning show . . . Chris Columbus has dug up some new capital somewhere (rumor credits a certain well known Park Avenue dowager) and is working on his commercial announcement theories again . . . Seems he's got some crazy idea about a short-cut announcement that sells products better than the regular two-minute spiels.

Should be some fireworks tonight when Voltaire guests on "The Author Meets the Critics"...They're considering Mark Twain for the comedy spot on the new Kate Smith show . . . Karl Marx has a new idea for an audience participation show which he isn't telling any one yet . . . Ivan the Terrible just beheaded eighteen of his gag writers. Having heard his last show, we can't blame him . . . Richard the Lion Hearted, new N.B.C. exec, is leading a crusade for smiling faces and neator boutonnieres around the network offices.

BEST BETS: "Truth or Consequences" — Nero, ex-emporer and master of ceremonies feeds losing Christians to lions in Yankee Stadium, 7 p. m. EDT. "Henry Tudor"—Henry, former King of England, known as the "Eighth," stars in this screamingly funny adolescent comedy about the average boy. He kills off his tenth girl friend in this installment, 8 p. m. EDT. "Hour of Charm—Louis von Beethoven conducting the All-Girl Orchestra, 8:30 p. m. EDT. "Philip Marlowe, Private Eye" written by Eddie Allan Poe, famed mystery novelist, 9 p. m. EDT. "Information Please"—Franklin P. Adams and John Kieran, with guests Sophocles and Confucius, 9:30 p. m. EDT. "One Man's Family" starring King Solomon, and his eight thousand various wives and in-laws with their warm, every-day problems, 10 p. m. EDT.

Neighbors complaining about drunken parties and noise resulted in Blanch Huff and Luther Huff, 333 Central Avenue, yesterday being committed to City Jail for 10 days each in default of $10 bonds after they were given hearings in Police Court on drunk and disorderly conduct charges.

Police said they made three trips to the home Sunday night and warned the couple before making the arrests.

Red Skelton To Return To NBC Network Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—When Red Skelton gets back on the air of NBC Tuesday night at 9:30 from vacation that will be starting his eleventh network year. Sigmund Romberg's music held forth while he rested from his weekly broadcast.

In coming back, some changes are being made. For one thing, the orchestra will be under the direction of David Rose. For another a touch here and there is to be given to the scripts and supporting cast.

In announcing its selection for Studio One at 8:30, CBS has sent out a 200-word announcement saying the play would be "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." That is, this will be it unless there is another of those last minute announcements that this program has faced on several recent occasions.

The American Forum of MBS at 8:30 plans to debate this question: "What are the prospects for labor-management peace?" The argument will come from James Carey of CIO, Borish Shishkin of AFL, Herman W. Steinkraus, manufacturer, and Robert R. Wason of N. A. M. Theodore Granik will run things as usual.

Another of the Tuesday night forums, America's Town Meeting of ABC at 8:30 which recently moved from Thursday, will originate its discussion from San Diego, Calif. The question to be put is "How can we make United Nations work?"

SALLY'S SALLIES

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Past And Present

It being an accepted rule of the newspaper columnist's trade that "names make the news," suppose some of the great personalities of the past were alive today and were forced — heaven forbid — to make their living in the radio world. A typical cozy radio column might then look somelike the following:

Edgar Bergen

Well, kiddies, we hear that Aaron Burr, famous duel fighter and former U. S. Vice-President, has now switched to N.B.C. as vice-president in charge of editing comedians' joke copy . . . Damon and Pythias, the Milton Berle writing team, have split up over a salary disagreement . . . Johnny Sebastian Bach is the guy writing those new commercial soap jingles that are driving every one crazy . . . Genghis Khan is making the rounds of the agencies with a brand new show idea called "So You Want to Lead an Invasion" . . . Bill Shakespeare has taken time out from his "Life Can Be Beautiful" writing chores to work on a Broadway play . . . Good luck, Bill . . . What Passaic, N. J., milliner named du Barry was chosen on the "Queen for a Day" radio program, and now won't give the crown back to the program sponsors? . . . The F.C.C. is giving the fish eye to some new transmitter ideas being developed by sound engineer Lennie da Vinci.

Tristram and Isolde have been signed for one of those domestic breakfast shows, broadcast directly from their Sutton Place apartment . . . Tris will do most of the writing himself . . . Mark Anthony, who we think has one of the best speaking voices in the business, will spell Ben Grauer for a time while Ben gets in a few weeks fishing . . . those Lorelei girls, who have been luring customers into a Fifty-second Street night club, sound pretty much like the Andrew Sisters . . . and that reminds us, King David, the well known harp soloist, won't appear on the Album of Familiar Music next week until he gets himself straightened out with Petrillo . . . Benedict Arnold has changed agencies again.

Alexander the Great, star of stage, screen, radio and the concert stage, is now looking for new worlds to conquer . . . Disinterested spectators figure the new Lady Godiva show will do for television what Marconi did for radio . . . Nathan Hale, the comedy show producer, who gave up his stomach to the radio business, is taking the milk cure up in Connecticut . . . Major General George Custer, the radio military commentator, was slaughtered in the last Hooperating . . . Paul Revere, from up around Boston way, one of the most popular midnight disc jockeys.

Lucullus, the well known sponsor and soap tycoon, is tossing one of his famous supper parties at Toots Shor's next Sattiday night . . . Which reminds us that the headwaiter at the Stork has just banned Attila the Hun again . . . Attie just can't behave, it seems . . . Mary Margaret McBride interviews Napoleon Bonaparte on her tomorrow morning show . . . Chris Columbus has dug up some new capital somewhere (rumor credits a certain well known Park Avenue dowager) and is working on his commercial announcement theories again . . . Seems he's got some crazy idea about a short-cut announcement that sells products better than the regular two-minute spiels.

Should be some fireworks tonight when Voltaire guests on "The Author Meets the Critics"...They're considering Mark Twain for the comedy spot on the new Kate Smith show . . . Karl Marx has a new idea for an audience participation show which he isn't telling any one yet . . . Ivan the Terrible just beheaded eighteen of his gag writers. Having heard his last show, we can't blame him . . . Richard the Lion Hearted, new N.B.C. exec, is leading a crusade for smiling faces and neator boutonnieres around the network offices.

BEST BETS: "Truth or Consequences" — Nero, ex-emporer and master of ceremonies feeds losing Christians to lions in Yankee Stadium, 7 p. m. EDT. "Henry Tudor"—Henry, former King of England, known as the "Eighth," stars in this screamingly funny adolescent comedy about the average boy. He kills off his tenth girl friend in this installment, 8 p. m. EDT. "Hour of Charm—Louis von Beethoven conducting the All-Girl Orchestra, 8:30 p. m. EDT. "Philip Marlowe, Private Eye" written by Eddie Allan Poe, famed mystery novelist, 9 p. m. EDT. "Information Please"—Franklin P. Adams and John Kieran, with guests Sophocles and Confucius, 9:30 p. m. EDT. "One Man's Family" starring King Solomon, and his eight thousand various wives and in-laws with their warm, every-day problems, 10 p. m. EDT.

CARD OF THANKS

We are taking this means to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness extended to us following the death of our husband and father, George William Stump. We wish to express our gratitude to Rev. Jones of Emmanuel Methodist Church, Capt. Wisman of the Salvation Army, the choir of the Salvation Army, and the pallbearers from the Eagles. We are also grateful to those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars for the funeral, and to Mr. Hafer and his associates for their courteous services rendered.
MRS. WILLIAM STUMP and Daughter, MRS. ANN LEONARD.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our friends, neighbors, and relatives for the kindness shown us in our recent bereavement, the death of our father and husband, James Walter Everly, Sr. We are grateful for their many flowers and cards, and for the donation of their cars. We especially want to express our appreciation to the Rev. Walter Marion Michael, of the Centre Street Methodist Church
MRS. JAMES WALTER EVERLY, SR., and FAMILY.

Market Slips For Seventh Straight Monday With Losses Up To 2 Points

Prices slipped from the start with steels, motors, rubbers, coppers and rails in the lead. Attempts at recovery after midday failed and most pivotals closed around the day's bottom with losses of fractions to two or more points. Occasional active intervals, with the pace quickening in the final hour, put the five-hour volume at 830,000 shares compared with 720,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .9 of a point at 63.9, a low since late June. The dip equalled that of August 25 which was the sharpest since August 8 or 982 issues registering, 690 fell and only 131 advanced.

Recording 1947 lows were Chrysler, off 1½ at 56½; Universal Pictures 1¼ at 15⅝, Paramount Pictures three-fourths at 21, Norfolk and Western 1¾ at 59¼, American Can 1½ at 86¼, Dow Chemical seven-eighths at 36⅛ and Air Reduction one-fourth at 28¼.

Among Curb casualties were Aluminum of America, Solar Aircraft, Cities Service, Sherwin-Williams, United Shoe, Electric Bond and Share, Mining Corporation of Canada and Barium Steel. Turnover here was 240,000 shares versus 180,000 in the preceding session.

The general run of rails lost the most ground with a few scattered issues bucking the trend. Industrials and utilities held up better but here too there were more losers than otherwise. Foreign dollar bonds dipped to a new low average for the year as a result of renewed liquidation in loans of Australia and Canada and some of the South Americans.

The wedding was performed Sunday, August 24, in First Presbyterian Church, Parsons, with Rev. Harold D. Shiflet, pastor of the church, officiating.

350 Truck Drivers Continue Strike

Trucking operators of the Winchester, Va., area and 350 members of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, remained at Odds today and C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said it may result in closing a terminal in this city.

The drivers, employes of eight trucking firms, walked off the job Saturday at midnight after postponing the strike for a week in an effort to settle the dispute over demands for higher wages and better working conditions, according to union officials.

Stutzman said the drivers are seeking 20 to 25 per cent increase in wages and are also at odds with the companies over working conditions. He explained that one of the eight companies operates a terminal in the city and said it may be closed if the strike continues. He was referring to the Novick Transfer Company.

Other firms involved are Elliott Motor Lines, Allegheny Transportation Lines, Smith Transfer, Mason-Dixon Lines and Super-Service Lines. The contract with the eight companies expired September 1, but negotiations were continued until Saturday night.

City To Send Delegate To Traffic Conference

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday decided to ask Chief of Police E. Emmett Flynn to send a representative of the City Police Department to a meeting in Washington, D. C., on Thursday and Friday of this week regarding traffic and parking problems.

The meeting is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and will consist of a businessmen's conference on urban problems.

Chief Flynn said last night he has not yet named a representative to attend the meeting.

Included in the array of weapons will be a 75 mm. recoilless cannon, .50 and .30 calibre Browning machine guns, M1 rifle, M1 carbine, Thompson submachine gun and a set of walkie talkie radios.

Ellerslie Man Taken To House Of Correction

Robert Klahre, of Ellerslie, who was sentenced to serve a year in the House of Correction in Juvenile Court here on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of his children, was removed from the County Jail yesterday. Davis Fined $10

Franklin Davis, 21, Mt. Savage, driver of a car that was involved in an accident September 3 on Big Savage Mountain west of Frostburg, last night was fined $10 after he was found guilty of a reckless driving charge, according to State Police.

Trooper William Baker, who preferred charges, said Davis entered a plea of not guilty to the charge before Magistrate Alexander Nickel. Drivers of the two trucks with which Davis collided when attempting to pass one, were released, police reported.

2 Drivers Arrested

A Mt. Savage and a Cumberland man face careless driving charges as the result of a minor accident last night at 7:35 o'clock on Valley Street, according to City Police.

The men were identified as Emmet L. Merat, RFD 2, city, and Thomas J. Flanigan, Mt. Savage. Both men posted bonds of $5 for hearings Wednesday morning in Police Court. Charges were preferred by Officers Carl Stouffer and James Brown.

Hurt In Auto Mishap

Mrs. Beneman

Seventeen such cases were handled last month, as compared to 30 in August of 1946, while 23 cases were handled in July of this year and 24 in the same month last year.

The report stated that home service workers are doing a great amount of disability claims and providing other types of assistance to veterans, and that such work is expected to increase steadily for the next 18 months.

Financial aid is being limited to individuals rather than to large families, as was the case in 1946, Mrs. Dean said, adding that there are still delays in allotments because unemployment in the county has caused a rise in service enlistments, increasing the number of allotments to handle.

Council Appoints

wanted to know if they are to be treated as motorcycles. Heskett said they are not allowed to operate without a muffler, but other than that he said he does not know of any regulations.

John T. Fey, representing the Community Chest, sought the use of two City Hall rooms for the drive in October. Commissioner Myers G. Light said that one of the rooms has been promised to Rent Control officials and that he could not commit himself finally to the Chest until rent officials act. Fey said the Chest is experiencing difficulty in securing downtown headquarters for the campaign.

Council Receives Financial Report On Air Operation

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson submitted the 1946 financial report of Cumberland Airways, Inc., which leases the Cumberland Municipal Airport from the city, to the Mayor and City Council yesterday.

The report shows that gross business was $50,131.38 and that expenditures totaled $49,743.15 to make a net profit before federal taxes of $388.22. After those taxes, amounting to $81.52, were paid, net income amounted to $306.70.

Three disputed items in the report have been ordered disallowed by the Municipal Airport Commission, which has not yet received an answer from William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, president of Cumberland Airways, to its request for adjustment of the items, which would bring profit a $2,606.93.

Interest To Graham

The auditor said that one expenditure item was $1,383.57 for interest. He said this money was paid Graham, for money borrowed by the company which is capitalized at $1,000. Gibson said it is felt that the capital is insufficient and that the money borrowed should have been capital.

It was pointed out by Gibson that an unexplained item of $500 appeared in the advertising account of $1,307.87. Later, he said, it was learned from Graham that the money was used for promotion work.

He also pointed out that the valuation of a Beechcraft stationed here was questioned along with the resulting depreciation. This item amounts to $416.66.

Details On Report

Principal items of income shown in the report were: Sale of airplanes, $8,850, sale of gas and oil, $3,479.10, flight income including veterans' training $31,715.98.

On the expense side the main items were: Cost of airplanes sold $7,901.58, cost of gas and oil sold $2,306.75, advertising $1,307.87, crash expense $1,443.41, airplane depreciation $3,735.73, wooden hangar depreciation $1,133.05, gas and oil not resold $4,130.68, interest $1,383.57, maintenance of aircraft $4,029.79, J. A. Chapman, salary $5,000, pilots' salaries $4,986.02, shop salaries $1,825.56, and attendants' salaries $1,393.48.

Mayor Thomas S. Post commented that it looks to him as though the company tried to list all the expense items possible so as to show a small profit. He said the commission is not satisfied with the report and is doing a good job in trying to make the necessary corrections.

Other than the three previously mentioned items on which an adjustment is sought, the commission gave considerable attention to the following:

Listing of $350 paid for the display bomber as an expense item rather than as a capital investment; air show income of $1,393.85 (only half of the amount was credited to the company); plane profit, and building depreciation.

Half of the air show income was paid to Chapman, airport manager, and Graham said this is a customary practice. In regard to profit on an airplane, Graham said profit was small due to a quick sale and may have been less if the plane was not disposed of quickly.

Lease Expires Soon

The lease with the city calls for building depreciation at the rate of five per cent. The company, however, listed depreciation at 10 and 14 per cent. This will straighten itself out whenever a final adjustment is made with Graham at the termination of the lease.

Under the lease arrangement Cumberland Airways pays no stipulated rental to the city for the first two years but the city is to get all profit over $1,000. After two years renegotiation is provided. The period expires December 31 and it has been indicated by Graham that he does not desire to renew the lease. The lease also provides that if the lease is not continued, the city will reimburse the company for money spent on buildings, less depreciation.

Board To Be Reviewed By National Director

National Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon has announced that he will personally review all the nominations for citizen members of Area Rent Advisory Boards, according to information received by Caleb J. White, area rent director.

Creedon said some boards had been called to his attention as not being representative. He added that the board should consist of five or more residents of the area under control who represent a cross-section of the citizens in the community or area.

He stated that no board consisting predominantly of tenants or landlords would be considered as representative. Both groups should be adequately represented with neither predominating.

He said in the cases where the boards did not appear to be representative, he would request additional recommendations from Gov. Lane to achieve proper representation.

The Cumberland Area board, named several weeks ago, includes Daniel F. McMullen, attorney; David Kauffman, attorney, Ralph C. Beard, Rubber Workers Union (CIO); William E. McDonald, realtor, all of Cumberland; and Ralph M. Race, secretary-treasurer, of Frostburg's Fidelity Bank.

Market Slips For Seventh Straight Monday With Losses Up To 2 Points

Prices slipped from the start with steels, motors, rubbers, coppers and rails in the lead. Attempts at recovery after midday failed and most pivotals closed around the day's bottom with losses of fractions to two or more points. Occasional active intervals, with the pace quickening in the final hour, put the five-hour volume at 830,000 shares compared with 720,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .9 of a point at 63.9, a low since late June. The dip equalled that of August 25 which was the sharpest since August 8 or 982 issues registering, 690 fell and only 131 advanced.

Recording 1947 lows were Chrysler, off 1½ at 56½; Universal Pictures 1¼ at 15⅝, Paramount Pictures three-fourths at 21, Norfolk and Western 1¾ at 59¼, American Can 1½ at 86¼, Dow Chemical seven-eighths at 36⅛ and Air Reduction one-fourth at 28¼.

Among Curb casualties were Aluminum of America, Solar Aircraft, Cities Service, Sherwin-Williams, United Shoe, Electric Bond and Share, Mining Corporation of Canada and Barium Steel. Turnover here was 240,000 shares versus 180,000 in the preceding session.

The general run of rails lost the most ground with a few scattered issues bucking the trend. Industrials and utilities held up better but here too there were more losers than otherwise. Foreign dollar bonds dipped to a new low average for the year as a result of renewed liquidation in loans of Australia and Canada and some of the South Americans.

In the minus column, in some cases more than a point, included Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles of 1960, Central of Georgia consolidated 5s, Great Hudson Coal 5s.

350 Truck Drivers Continue Strike

Trucking operators of the Winchester, Va., area and 350 members of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, remained at Odds today and C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said it may result in closing a terminal in this city.

The drivers, employes of eight trucking firms, walked off the job Saturday at midnight after postponing the strike for a week in an effort to settle the dispute over demands for higher wages and better working conditions, according to union officials.

Stutzman said the drivers are seeking 20 to 25 per cent increase in wages and are also at odds with the companies over working conditions. He explained that one of the eight companies operates a terminal in the city and said it may be closed if the strike continues. He was referring to the Novick Transfer Company.

Other firms involved are Elliott Motor Lines, Allegheny Transportation Lines, Smith Transfer, Mason-Dixon Lines and Super-Service Lines. The contract with the eight companies expired September 1, but negotiations were continued until Saturday night.

Seventeen such cases were handled last month, as compared to 30 in August of 1946, while 23 cases were handled in July of this year and 24 in the same month last year.

The report stated that home service workers are doing a great amount of disability claims and providing other types of assistance to veterans, and that such work is expected to increase steadily for the next 18 months.

Financial aid is being limited to individuals rather than to large families, as was the case in 1946, Mrs. Dean said, adding that there are still delays in allotments because unemployment in the county has caused a rise in service enlistments, increasing the number of allotments to handle.

wanted to know if they are to be treated as motorcycles. Heskett said they are not allowed to operate without a muffler, but other than that he said he does not know of any regulations.

John T. Fey, representing the Community Chest, sought the use of two City Hall rooms for the drive in October. Commissioner Myers G. Light said that one of the rooms has been promised to Rent Control officials and that he could not commit himself finally to the Chest until rent officials act. Fey said the Chest is experiencing difficulty in securing downtown headquarters for the campaign.

Council Receives Financial Report On Air Operation

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson submitted the 1946 financial report of Cumberland Airways, Inc., which leases the Cumberland Municipal Airport from the city, to the Mayor and City Council yesterday.

The report shows that gross business was $50,131.38 and that expenditures totaled $49,743.15 to make a net profit before federal taxes of $388.22. After those taxes, amounting to $81.52, were paid, net income amounted to $306.70.

Three disputed items in the report have been ordered disallowed by the Municipal Airport Commission, which has not yet received an answer from William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, president of Cumberland Airways, to its request for adjustment of the items, which would bring profit a $2,606.93.

Interest To Graham

The auditor said that one expenditure item was $1,383.57 for interest. He said this money was paid Graham, for money borrowed by the company which is capitalized at $1,000. Gibson said it is felt that the capital is insufficient and that the money borrowed should have been capital.

It was pointed out by Gibson that an unexplained item of $500 appeared in the advertising account of $1,307.87. Later, he said, it was learned from Graham that the money was used for promotion work.

He also pointed out that the valuation of a Beechcraft stationed here was questioned along with the resulting depreciation. This item amounts to $416.66.

Details On Report

Principal items of income shown in the report were: Sale of airplanes, $8,850, sale of gas and oil, $3,479.10, flight income including veterans' training $31,715.98.

On the expense side the main items were: Cost of airplanes sold $7,901.58, cost of gas and oil sold $2,306.75, advertising $1,307.87, crash expense $1,443.41, airplane depreciation $3,735.73, wooden hangar depreciation $1,133.05, gas and oil not resold $4,130.68, interest $1,383.57, maintenance of aircraft $4,029.79, J. A. Chapman, salary $5,000, pilots' salaries $4,986.02, shop salaries $1,825.56, and attendants' salaries $1,393.48.

Mayor Thomas S. Post commented that it looks to him as though the company tried to list all the expense items possible so as to show a small profit. He said the commission is not satisfied with the report and is doing a good job in trying to make the necessary corrections.

Other than the three previously mentioned items on which an adjustment is sought, the commission gave considerable attention to the following:

Listing of $350 paid for the display bomber as an expense item rather than as a capital investment; air show income of $1,393.85 (only half of the amount was credited to the company); plane profit, and building depreciation.

Half of the air show income was paid to Chapman, airport manager, and Graham said this is a customary practice. In regard to profit on an airplane, Graham said profit was small due to a quick sale and may have been less if the plane was not disposed of quickly.

Lease Expires Soon

The lease with the city calls for building depreciation at the rate of five per cent. The company, however, listed depreciation at 10 and 14 per cent. This will straighten itself out whenever a final adjustment is made with Graham at the termination of the lease.

Under the lease arrangement Cumberland Airways pays no stipulated rental to the city for the first two years but the city is to get all profit over $1,000. After two years renegotiation is provided. The period expires December 31 and it has been indicated by Graham that he does not desire to renew the lease. The lease also provides that if the lease is not continued, the city will reimburse the company for money spent on buildings, less depreciation.

Board To Be Reviewed By National Director

National Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon ras announced that he will personally review all the nominations for citizen members of Area Rent Advisory Boards, according to information received by Caleb J. White, area rent director.

Creedon said some boards had been called to his attention as not being representative. He added that the board should consist of five or more residents of the area under control who represent a cross-section of the citizens in the community or area.

He stated that no board consisting predominantly of tenants or landlords would be considered as representative. Both groups should be adequately represented with neither predominating.

He said in the cases where the boards did not appear to be representative, he would request additional recommendations from Gov. Lane to achieve proper representation.

The Cumberland Area board, named several weeks ago, includes Daniel F. McMullen, attorney; David Kauffman, attorney Ralph C. Beard, Rubber Workers Union (CIO); William E. McDonald, realtor, all of Cumberland; and Ralph M. Race, secretary-treasurer, of Frostburg's Fidelity Bank.

Keyser Firemen Threaten Break With Town Board

Give City 24 Hours To Act On Building

The Keyser Vigilant Reel and Hose Company notified the Keyser Mayor and Town Council last night that unless favorable action is taken within 24 hours toward the construction of a long-proposed fire station, the volunteer firemen will sever their relations with the city in 30 days and no longer man city-owned equipment to fight fires.

A meeting of about 75 persons was held in the city offices last night, with Mayor John C. Freeland and Councilman Glenn Smith representing the city. A large delegation representing the firemen, another group representing an interested citizens committee and several interested Keyser business and professional men, were also present. Two other members of the council were absent and in the absence of a quorum, no official action could be taken. Another meeting is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Ervin L. Dayton, professor of economics at Potomac State School and Emory Tyler, prominent Keyser attorney were among the speakers at the meeting, urging the town officials to have work started immediately on the proposed building.

E. Wade Thomas, fire chief, and James Briley, president of the company of 60 active volunteers, declare present quarters are old, obsolete and inadequate, and "overrun by rats." Two pieces of obsolete city-owned apparatus are stored in the one-story shed-type building at Centre and North Mineral Streets.

Funds Are Available

The proposed building has been discussed by firemen, town officials and other interested citizens for several years, and firemen claim the city has a total of $37,000 earmarked for construction. Several years ago, the citizens voted a special levy to raise funds for the building, and the levy was made and funds provided.

Keyser firemen have ordered a new and modern piece of firefighting apparatus, a large pumper type engine, which the company has paid for without use of city funds firemen say, adding that this engine should arrive shortly, and in event of fire they will man it. But unless the city takes action to start the new firehouse, city-owned equipment will remain inactive, so far as they are concerned.

Keyser firemen will be host in August 1948 to the West Virginia Firemen's annual convention, and citizens who spoke last night declared, "Present quarters, in a city as large and progressive as Keyser, are a disgrace, and should be replaced before people from all parts of the state come here as guests."

Explain Delay

Town officials declare that some of the delay has been due to the uncertainty until recently of the location of the new state highway bridge across the Potomac River from Keyser to McCoole, and the fact that some street lines in the vicinity of the proposed fire station site would be changed. They also point out that the war caused a postponement of construction, and scarcity of building materials and high costs have since been a handicap.

Several officials and citizens viewed the firemen's action as a move to force the city to take concerted action toward the construction of the long-promised, and much discussed new fire house. There has been much interest evidenced in the situation, and tonight's meeting is expected to result in a definite break between the firemen and the city, or the promise of the mayor and council to proceed immediately with plans to build.

Eckhart Child Is Not Polio Victim

A Frostburg physician treating Kennard McKenzie, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McKenzie, Eckhart, said last night that in his opinion the child is not a victim of polio.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said the child became ill last Thursday and that preliminary diagnosis at that time indicated polio.

The child is at home, and the attending physician said as far as he knows there are no plans to send the boy to a hospital.

Men Escape Injury In Auto Crackup

Two Keyser, W. Va., men narrowly escaped injury Sunday night when the car in which they were riding crashed against a bank and turned over on Knobley Mountain a mile east of Keyser.

Identified as Wayne Kerns and Robert Dawson, authorities said they believed the lights failed on the car and the driver lost control on the dark road. The Keyser Fire Department was summoned to the scene when the demolished car began burning after the flame was started by a short-circuited battery wire.

Mrs. Beneman Is Named Red Cross County Chairman

Will Assume New Duties Immediately

Mrs. Harry Beneman, 802 Fayette Street, was appointed chairman of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, at a meeting of the chapter's board of directors yesterday afternoon in the Postoffice Building.

Mrs. Beneman, whose appointment is effective immediately, succeeds Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, wife of the county superintendent of schools, who submitted her resignation to the board last month after serving for two and a half years.

The new chairman is familiar with Red Cross work, having served as a volunteer staff assistant in the local Red Cross office during the war years.

Mrs. Beneman is expected to call a meeting later this month to appoint committees and to discuss plans for future activities of the chapter.

At yesterday's meeting, Mrs. Louise Dean, home service secretary, gave a report on home service activities for July and August, as compared to those months last year.

She reported a decided drop in the number of cases handled last month, 137 as compared to 216 in August, 1946, pointing out that the decrease is too sudden to predict any definite trend as to approximate expenditures for the balance of the year.

New cases last month totaled 34, as compared to 121 in the same period last year. The comparative report showed a similar decrease for July of this year, with 50 new cases reported in the total of 186 cases, as compared to 196 new cases and a total of 271 cases handled in July of 1946.

Servicemen's cases dropped from 128 in August of last year to 66 last month, and there was also a decrease in ex-service cases from 88 to 71 in the same comparative periods.

The amount of chapter funds used in financial assistance cases dropped from $610.39 in August of last year to $145.67 last month, as compared to a slight decrease from

Council Appoints Flynn Permanent Chief Of Police

B. Frank Gaffney Named Assistant

By unanimous vote yesterday of the Mayor and Council, R. Emmett Flynn, acting chief of police since July 7, was appointed permanent chief, effective September 15. B. Frank Gaffney, acting assistant, was named permanent assistant chief.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan, who recommended both appointments, expressed appreciation to other members of the council for abiding by his judgment.

An ordinance to regulate the installation of liquefied petroleum gas equipment in order to safeguard the public was read for the first time and tabled for a week in order to make certain there is no conflict with the zoning ordinance.

Backed by Inspector

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, said he prepared the ordinance at the suggestion of the fire inspector. The proposed ordinance calls for installation under requirements suggested by the National Fire Protection Association. Firms installing equipment must keep records and the fire inspector is given power to check each installation. Storage regulations are also set up.

The ordinance provides for a fine of from $25 to $100 and a jail sentence of from five to 30 days for violators who fail to make corrections after a 20-day notice

In a letter to the council, Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore engineers, reported they had checked plans for the new 36-inch water line from Lake Gordon to the city and made a number of minor recommendations. The engineers said some of their suggestions would increase costs and some would lower costs, but that the overall figure would not be changed materially.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, said formal approval from the State Health Department of the plans for the line is expected in a few days.

To Sewer Clement Street

An ordinance providing for the sewering of Clement Street, Virginia Avenue to Ford Avenue, was approved.

The Holzshu Realty Company suggested a number of changes in a proposed addition of the concern in relation to a development near Constitution Park. A pipe line right of way, manholes and street layouts are under consideration and the problem was referred to Engineer Rizer.

Charles A. Diggs, 28 Klosterman Addition, offered $400 for Lot 33 with 226.7 feet on Brookfield Avenue. This proposal was submitted to Finance Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller with power to act.

Motor Bike Status Sought

Commissioner Keegan sought a ruling from the city attorney on the status of scooter bikes. He said he has received many complaints and

Bragg Admits He Wounded Wife

A statement admitting that he shot his wife in the left arm Sunday morning was signed yesterday by Edward F. Bragg, former Celanese employe, according to City Police who said the man will be taken to the office of the State's Attorney today.

Meanwhile, Allegany Hospital attaches described the condition of the wife, Mrs. Myrele M. Bragg, 39, as "fine," and police indicated that they expect her to be discharged soon.

Bragg told police, they said, that he returned to his apartment in the McFarland Building, Frederick Street, early Sunday morning after working at the club rooms of a local organization preparing for a picnic that was held Sunday.

Bragg, according to police, said his wife began an argument and accused him of being out with another woman. He walked to a dresser drawer and picked up a .32 caliber revolver, according to police, and after his wife continued the argument fired "in her direction."

The husband, police said, admitted that he was not sure he had hit his wife with the shot, but said he immediately walked to the police station and reported that he had shot her. Police found Mrs. Bragg in her bed room in a weakened condition as a result of the wound.

Lazarus Seeks $10,000 Damages From PE Company

Suit for $10,000 damages was filed in Circuit Court yesterday against the Potomac Edison Company by Aaron Lazarus, through his attorney, Clarence Lippel.

The incident allegedly occurred on May 30, 1947, on Greene Street, at the Lee Street intersection. Lazarus claims the bus stopped and the driver of the Green Street bus opened the door to discharge and take on passengers.

The defendant charges that through "negligence and carelessness," the bus driver closed the door as he was about to enter the vehicle and caught his head.

A bill of complaint was filed by Genevieve J. Barb vs Charles Frederick Barb, seeking divorce. Associate Judge George Henderson, signed a court order requiring Barb to pay his wife $30 twice a month temporary alimony pending the outcome of the suit, and counsel fees.

Forestry Board To Hold Hearing On New Ruling

Regulation Will Control Cutting

A public hearing will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the office of the Board of Education, Washington Street, on proposed regulations for timber cutting in Allegany County, according to William A. Parr, district forester.

All persons interested or engaged in timber cutting are urged to attend, Parr explained, because the regulations are of special interest to them, as well as to the general public and general public welfare.

The Allegany County Forestry Board, under state acts, prepares regulations regarding timber cutting and forest conservation, Parr explained, and members of the Board will be at the hearing to outline and discuss this particular new ruling.

The regulation provides that no desirable species of trees shall be cut which is less than 12 inches in diameter, measured one foot above the average ground level, unless prior approval has been obtained from the Board. Such application for approval or for an alternative cutting plan shall be acted on by the local Forestry Board within 30 days.

For the purpose of the proposed regulation, tree species listed as desirable include all oaks except willow and scrub oak, sugar maple, red maple, tulip poplar, sweet gum, all species of pine, white ash, walnut, black and yellow birch, hemlock, black locust and cedar.

Parr said there has been considerable cutting of timber throughout the area, below this prescribed size, and members of the Board believe the regulation will provide a reasonable basis for conservation and growth, and will contribute to the building up and conservation of the county's forest lands.

Construction Of New Bowling Green Fire Hall Will Begin This Week

Ground will be broken this week for construction of a new fire hall in Bowling Green, Richard Dayton, chairman of the building committee of the recently organized Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Department, announced last night at a meeting of the department at Circle Inn.

In a report to the membership, Dayton said the one-story concrete block structure will be located on a 40 by 100-foot lot in Gover's Addition, Bowling Green, donated to the department by Ralph G. Cover, a member of the 57-man organization.

Cover, who is the contractor, will do the work on a cost basis, and actual construction of the 35 by 70-foot structure is expected to be completed within 40 days. Cost is estimated at $4,000.

After the building is erected, department members will install plumbing and lighting fixtures and finish the interior of the fire hall, which will consist of a main auditorium and space at the rear to house fire-fighting equipment.

Although no ceremony is planned when the ground is broken, the organization will hold a festival when construction is finished, to raise funds for the purchase of equipment. Neighboring volunteer fire companies will be invited to attend, as well as residents of the Bowling Green area.

Meanwhile, an informal dance, open to the public, is being planned for Monday, September 22, at Circle Inn. Lewis C. Millholland, Jr., chairman of the entertainment committee, will announce final details later.

Chief Garland Phillips, who was scheduled to announce appointments of line officers at last night's meeting, was unable to attend because of illness. The next meeting is scheduled for September 29.

Fourth Man Is Held For Assault On C. A. Miller

Three Men Post Bond For Hearing

A fourth man wonted in connection with an alleged assault and attempted robbery of C. A. Miller, Fort Ashby, W. Va., Saturday night, yesterday surrendered to West Virginia State Police and posted $500 bond for a hearing Thursday afternoon, according to Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle.

State Trooper Frank Bowley identified the man as Vintson Riggleman, and said he walked into the State Police office yesterday and gave himself up.

Three other men, Paul and James Riggleman, brothers of Westernport, and Robert Viney, Keyser, were arrested Sunday and their hearings also were set for Thursday. The Riggleman brothers posted bond, but Viney is being held in Mineral County Jail, Keyser, in default of bond.

According to Chief of Police Claude Martin, Keyser, the men allegedly went to the home of Miller, who raises cattle and is in the lumber business. Miller told them he did not want them around, and the men reportedly followed him to a barn where one of the quartet allegedly struck the farmer over the head with a blunt instrument.

Miller, police said, grabbed his assailant and threw him over his head to the ground. The man then escaped with the others while Miller fired several shots from a shotgun that he obtained.

State Police in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania were alerted and the two Riggleman brothers were arrested in Westernport by Trooper A. M. Spioch, while Viney was arrested in Keyser.

The third Riggleman who surrendered yesterday is a distant relative of the other two men, authorities said, adding that they believe he is employed by Miller.

Meeting Planned On Flood Control Work

City Commission To Confer On Methods

Plans will be made for a meeting early next month in Washington, D. C., with Army engineers to discuss methods of handling flood control work in Cumberland and Ridgeley, W. Va., according to James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

This was decided at a meeting yesterday of the commission in Mayor Thomas S. Post's office, when Avirett read a letter from Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore engineering consultants to the city, urging that such a meeting be arranged and offering to participate.

Avirett said arrangements for the meeting will not be made for several weeks so that Harold W. Smith, commission secretary, who is convalescing at his home following an appendectomy, will be able to attend with other members of the group.

Propose Interstate Authority

Several months ago Army engineers proposed that a single interstate authority be established to handle Cumberland and Ridgeley as a joint flood protection project.

Whitman and Requardt informed the engineers, however, that in the firm's opinion the Corps of Engineers, working with both Cumberland and Ridgeley, can "work out such details as finances, property acquisition, design and construction as may be necessary" without setting up an interstate authority.

The commission has also voiced its objection to the proposal. City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett said some time ago it was "unworkable and impractical" because legislative acts setting up the interstate authority would have to be passed by both the Maryland and West Virginia State Legislatures.

Traffic Changes Suggested

During a discussion of traffic problems, Clarence Griggs suggested that one-way traffic should be put into effect on Bedford and Frederick Streets, with southbound traffic using Bedford and northbound traffic using Frederick. He also suggested that present parking restrictions on those streets be enforced.

Avirett also read a communication from F. T. Small, plant manager of the Celanese Corporation of America, stating that the company's chief engineer is checking engineering societies and universities for possible candidates for the position of smoke abatement engineer in the city.

Whitman and Requardt submitted a bill for the balance of the $12,000 fee for preparing an engineering report on the city's facilities and needs, which was completed last June. A balance of $2,042.50 is due, and the commission voted to recommend to the Mayor and Council that the sum be paid to the firm.

The commission also decided to apply for membership in the American Society of Planning Officials, which has headquarters in Chicago. The society furnishes a monthly news letter on planning and development in major cities throughout the country.

Mayor Post, Avirett, Heskett and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer will attend a conference with State Roads Commission officials in Balmore this afternoon regarding the proposed crosstown viaduct.

Police Discover 21 City Parking Meters Damaged

Plastic Glass Is Dislodged By Vandals

A new outbreak of vandalism was reported by City Police after 21 parking meters on three streets in the business district were discovered broken and damaged over the weekend, according to investigating officers, who said no money was taken.

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn said the plastic glass which shows the last coin deposited was pushed in on each meter, in what appeared to be an effort to remove the coins, but the design of the meters prevented the theft.

William H. Burly, city meter inspector, discovered the damaged machines on South Centre, Commerce and Salem Streets when he began inspecting the meters. He reported four machins damaged on Salem Street, five on South Centre Street, and 12 on Commerce Street.

In each incident, according to police, the plastic glass which covers a hole the size of a 50 cent piece was pushed back. Burley said heavy pressure would have to be applied to dislodge the glass discs, but declared he did not know what tool had been used.

The destruction to the meters is the first such vandalism reported in the city for "some time" authorities said, although an occasional machine is damaged by attempted thefts.

Police said the machines are so designed to prevent theft of the money and explained that in pushing back the glass, which will not break, the coin also is pushed back.

Burley said the machines will be repaired in the city, and estimated that most of the meters will be back in operation within a few days.

Police said the destructive work is being investigated.

Authorities also were investigating a damaged traffic light at the corner of Mechanic and Baltimore Streets, in front of the Alibi Cocktail Lounge. Police said the pole on which the light is fastened was probably struck by an automobile or truck and the light is turned.

A man identified as Mervin Miller, Hyndman, Pa., is being held in City Jail for United States Army authorities. Police said the man is absent from the Army without leave.

Attorneys Explain Mix-Up Over Strip Mining Measure

Lane Vetoed Bill Due To Bad Title

Former Judges D. Lindley Sloan and William C. Walsh, issued a joint statement yesterday regarding the discussion between County Commissioner William H. Lemmert and William H. Geppert, member of the House of Delegates from Allegany County, on the strip mining bill introduced by Geppert at the last session of Legislature, and which Gov. Lane failed to sign.

In attempting to clarify the question, the two former jurists reiterated in part a statement in NEWS editorial calling attention to the need for a strip mining control law, which appeared in the NEWS August 15.

The editorial stated in part, "In granting Garrett County's request to be excluded, the committee supposedly neglected to insert that fact in the title of the measure. That raised the possibility that the act might, by some remote chance, be thrown out by the courts."

The statement of Walsh and Sloan follows:

"In the interest of accuracy we wish to point out the following facts in connection with the strip mining bill introduced at the last session of the Maryland Legislature by Mr. Geppert of the Allegany county delegation.

"This Bill, which was House Bill No. 267, was a very drastic one, and went considerably further than do the present laws in states which control strip mining. We were employed by the George's Creek and Upper Potomac Coal Operators' Association to oppose the bill as it was originally introduced, and a hearing on the matter was held before the Allegany and Garrett county delegations in Annapolis.

"Later on Mr. Geppert modified the bill by amendments and on behalf of the Coal Operators' Association we agreed to the bill as amended, and we might add that the amended bill required back-filling and imposed certain other regulations over strip mining.

The bill, as it was originally introduced, applied to both Allegany and Garrett counties, but after the amended bill was passed by the House of Delegates, it was further amended to exclude Garrett county, where most of the strip mines are in isolated places."

However, while a section exempting Garrett county was added to the bill, there was no reference to this exemption in the title or in the enacting clause, so that there was a serious question as to whether Garrett county was exempted or was not exempted, and this mixup also created a question as to the validity of the entire bill, and it was because of this that Governor Lane, at the request of Garrett county, vetoed the bill.

"From the foregoing, it is obvious that Mr. Geppert sponsored the strip mining bill, and that as finally amended by Mr. Geppert no one in this county opposed the passage of the bill. It is also equally apparent that the bill was vetoed because of the mixup regarding the exemption of Garrett county and the legal uncertainty which resulted from this."

Local Men Named To Armory Posts

C. R. Nuzum, local civil engineer, has been named supervising inspector of construction work at the naval armory being constructed on the hill at the eastern end of Baltimore Street, according to Victor W. Buhr, Salisbury engineer in charge of the work.

Another Cumberland man, John Lawrence Ways, has been named resident inspector of construction work. Both appointments were effective yesterday.

Meanwhile, Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer of the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division, reported that three area men have been accepted for the division.

They are Clifford William Day, Route 3, city, machinist's mate first class, a veteran of four years of Navy service; Lawrence Wayne Dawson, Rawlings, apprentice seaman; and George Earl Boore, Pattersons Creek, W. Va., apprentice seaman.

Comdr. Hedrick said that Kenneth Geatz Munro, Route 2, Baltimore Avenue, an apprentice seaman in the division, has received a fire fighting certificate from the Bureau of Naval Personnel after two weeks of training last month at Norfolk, Va.

Port Lessee Receives CAB Registration

Cumberland Airways, Inc., which operates the Cumberland Municipal Airport on lease from the city, is one of the 10 small air transport companies based in Maryland which have received letters of registration from the Civil Aeronautics Board according to the Associated Press.

New regulations under which the CAB now maintains supervision of the non-scheduled air carriers were issued May 26 and require that letters of registration be issued both to companies operating prior to that date and to new companies.

Three applications for alcoholic beverage licenses were filed yesterday with the Allegany County Liquor Control Board. Earl C. Nield, Oldtown Road, seeks a beer license. O. D. Keyser Firemen Threaten Break With Town Board

Give City 24 Hours To Act On Building

The Keyser Vigilant Reel and Hose Company notified the Keyser Mayor and Town Council last night that unless favorable action is taken within 24 hours toward the construction of a long-proposed fire station, the volunteer firemen will sever their relations with the city in 30 days and no longer man city-owned equipment to fight fires.

A meeting of about 75 persons was held in the city offices last night, with Mayor John C. Freeland and Councilman Glenn Smith representing the city. A large delegation representing the firemen, another group representing an interested citizens committee and several interested Keyser business and professional men, were also present. Two other members of the council were absent and in the absence of a quorum, no official action could be taken. Another meeting is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Ervin L. Dayton, professor of economics at Potomac State School and Emory Tyler, prominent Keyser attorney were among the speakers at the meeting, urging the town officials to have work started immediately on the proposed building.

E. Wade Thomas, fire chief, and James Briley, president of the company of 60 active volunteers, declare present quarters are old, obsolete and inadequate, and "overrun by rats." Two pieces of obsolete city-owned apparatus are stored in the one-story shed-type building at Centre and North Mineral Streets.

Funds Are Available

The proposed building has been discussed by firemen, town officials and other interested citizens for several years, and firemen claim the city has a total of $37,000 earmarked for construction. Several years ago, the citizens voted a special levy to raise funds for the building, and the levy was made and funds provided.

Keyser firemen have ordered a new and modern piece of fire-fighting apparatus, a large pumper type engine, which the company has paid for without use of city funds firemen say, adding that this engine should arrive shortly, and in event of fire they will man it. But unless the city takes action to start the new firehouse, city-owned equipment will remain inactive, so far as they are concerned.

Keyser firemen will be host in August 1948 to the West Virginia Firemen's annual convention, and citizens who spoke last night declared, "Present quarters, in a city as large and progressive as Keyser, are a disgrace, and should be replaced before people from all parts of the state come here as guests."

Explain Delay

Town officials declare that some of the delay has been due to the uncertainty until recently of the location of the new state highway bridge across the Potomac River from Keyser to McCoole, and the fact that some street lines in the vicinity of the proposed fire station site would be changed. They also point out that the war caused a postponement of construction, and scarcity of building materials and high costs have since been a handicap.

Several officials and citizens viewed the firemen's action as a move to force the city to take concerted action toward the construction of the long-promised, and much discussed new fire house. There has been much interest evidenced in the situation, and tonight's meeting is expected to result in a definite break between the firemen and the city, or the promise of the mayor and council to proceed immediately with plans to build.

Eckhart Child Is Not Polio Victim

A Frostburg physician treating Kennard McKenzie, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McKenzie, Eckhart, said last night that in his opinion the child is not a victim of polio.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said the child became ill last Thursday and that preliminary diagnosis at that time indicated polio.

The child is at home, and the attending physician said as far as he knows there are no plans to send the boy to a hospital.

Two Keyser, W. Va., men narrowly escaped injury Sunday night when the car in which they were riding crashed against a bank and turned over on Knobley Mountain a mile east of Keyser.

The Keyser Fire Department was summoned to the scene when the demolished car began burning after the flame was started by a short-circuited battery wire.

Mrs. Beneman Is Named Red Cross County Chairman

Will Assume New Duties Immediately

Mrs. Harry Beneman, 802 Fayette Street, was appointed chairman of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, at a meeting of the chapter's board of directors yesterday afternoon in the Postoffice Building.

Mrs. Beneman, whose appointment is effective immediately, succeeds Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, wife of the county superintendent of schools, who submitted her resignation to the board last month after serving for two and a half years.

The new chairman is familiar with Red Cross work, having served as a volunteer staff assistant in the local Red Cross office during the war years.

She was appointed following a report of the nominating committee, composed of Mrs. George Henderson and Mrs. Somerville Nicholson.

Mrs. Beneman is expected to call a meeting later this month to appoint committees and to discuss plans for future activities of the chapter.

At yesterday's meeting, Mrs. Louise Dean, home service secretary, gave a report on home service activities for July and August, as compared to those months last year.

She reported a decided drop in the number of cases handled last month, 137 as compared to 216 in August, 1946, pointing out that the decrease is too sudden to predict any definite trend as to approximate expenditures for the balance of the year.

New cases last month totaled 84, as compared to 121 in the same period last year. The comparative report showed a similar decrease for July of this year, with 50 new cases reported in the total of 186 cases, as compared to 196 new cases and a total of 271 cases handled in July of 1946.

Servicemen's cases dropped from 128 in August of last year to 66 last month, and there was also a decrease in ex-service cases from 88 to 71 in the same comparative periods.

The amount of chapter funds used in financial assistance cases dropped from $610.39 in August of last year to $145.67 last month, as compared to a slight decrease from

Council Appoints Flynn Permanent Chief Of Police

B. Frank Gaffney Named Assistant

By unanimous vote yesterday of the Mayor and Council, R. Emmett Flynn, acting chief of police since July 7, was appointed permanent chief, effective September 15. B. Frank Gaffney, acting assistant, was named permanent assistant chief.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan, who recommended both appointments, expressed appreciation to other members of the council for abiding by his judgment.

An ordinance to regulate the installation of liquefied petroleum gas equipment in order to safeguard the public was read for the first time and tabled for a week in order to make certain there is no conflict with the zoning ordinance.

Backed by Inspector

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, said he prepared the ordinance at the suggestion of the fire inspector. The proposed ordinance calls for installation under requirements suggested by the National Fire Protection Association. Firms installing equipment must keep records and the fire inspector is given power to check each installation. Storage regulations are also set up.

The ordinance provides for a fine of from $25 to $100 and a jail sentence of from five to 30 days for violators who fail to make corrections after a 20-day notice

In a letter to the council, Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore engineers, reported they had checked plans for the new 36-inch water line from Lake Gordon to the city and made a number of minor recommendations. The engineers said some of their suggestions would increase costs and some would lower costs, but that the overall figure would not be changed materially.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, said formal approval from the State Health Department of the plans for the line is expected in a few days.

To Sewer Clement Street

An ordinance providing for the sewering of Clement Street, Virginia Avenue to Ford Avenue, was approved.

The Holzshu Realty Company suggested a number of changes in a proposed addition of the concern in relation to a development near Constitution Park. A pipe line right of way, manholes and street layouts are under consideration and the problem was referred to Engineer Rizer.

The application of L. R. Jenkins, written on a letterhead of the Texas Company, for a permit to install a 2,00 gallon tank at 850 North Mechanic Street was referred to the sender for further information.

Charles A. Diggs, 28 Klosterman Addition, offered $400 for Lot 33 with 226.7 feet on Brookfield Avenue. This proposal was submitted to Finance Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller with power to act.

Motor Bike Status Sought

Commissioner Keegan sought a ruling from the city attorney on the status of scooter bikes. He said he has received many complaints and

Bragg Admits He Wounded Wife

A statement admitting that he shot his wife in the left arm Sunday morning was signed yesterday by Edward F. Bragg, former Celanese employe, according to City Police who said the man will be taken to the office of the State's Attorney today.

Meanwhile, Allegany Hospital attaches described the condition of the wife, Mrs. Myrele M. Bragg, 39, as "fine," and police indicated that they expect her to be discharged soon.

Bragg told police, they said, that he returned to his apartment in the McFarland Building, Frederick Street, early Sunday morning after working at the club rooms of a local organization preparing for a picnic that was held Sunday.

Bragg, according to police, said his wife began an argument and accused him of being out with another woman. He walked to a dresser drawer and picked up a .32 caliber revolver, according to police, and after his wife continued the argument fired "in her direction."

The husband, police said, admitted that he was not sure he had hit his wife with the shot, but said he immediately walked to the police station and reported that he had shot her. Police found Mrs. Bragg in her bed room in a weakened condition as a result of the wound.

Lazarus Seeks $10,000 Damages From PE Company

Suit for $10,000 damages was filed in Circuit Court yesterday against the Potomac Edison Company by Aaron Lazarus, through his attorney, Clarence Lippel.

Lazarus claims he was seriously and painfully injured when a bus driver closed a bus door on him and caught his head in the door.

The incident allegedly occurred on May 30, 1947, on Greene Street, at the Lee Street intersection. Lazarus claims the bus stopped and the driver of the Green Street bus opened the door to discharge and take on passengers.

The defendant charges that through "negligence and carelessness," the bus driver closed the door as he was about to enter the vehicle and caught his head.

A bill of complaint was filed by Genevieve J. Barb vs Charles Frederick Barb, seeking divorce. Associate Judge George Henderson, signed a court order requiring Barb to pay his wife $30 twice a month temporary alimony pending the outcome of the suit, and counsel fees.

Forestry Board To Hold Hearing On New Ruling

Regulation Will Control Cutting

A public hearing will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the office of the Board of Education, Washington Street, on proposed regulations for timber cutting in Allegany County, according to William A. Parr, district forester.

All persons interested or engaged in timber cutting are urged to attend, Parr explained, because the regulations are of special interest to them, as well as to the general public and general public welfare.

The Allegany County Forestry Board, under state acts, prepares regulations regarding timber cutting and forest conservation, Parr explained, and members of the Board will be at the hearing to outline and discuss this particular new ruling.

The regulation provides that no desirable species of trees shall be cut which is less than 12 inches in diameter, measured one foot above the average ground level, unless prior approval has been obtained from the Board. Such application for approval or for an alternative cutting plan shall be acted on by the local Forestry Board within 30 days.

For the purpose of the proposed regulation, tree species listed as desirable include all oaks except willow and scrub oak, sugar maple, red maple, tulip poplar, sweet gum, all species of pine, white ash, walnut, black and yellow birch, hemlock, black locust and cedar.

Parr said there has been considerable cutting of timber throughout the area, below this prescribed size, and members of the Board believe the regulation will provide a reasonable basis for conservation and growth, and will contribute to the building up and conservation of the county's forest lands.

Construction Of New Bowling Green Fire Hall Will Begin This Week

Ground will be broken this week for construction of a new fire hall in Bowling Green, Richard Dayton, chairman of the building committee of the recently organized Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Department, announced last night at a meeting of the department at Circle Inn.

In a report to the membership, Dayton said the one-story concrete block structure will be located on a 40 by 100-foot lot in Gover's Addition, Bowling Green, donated to the department by Ralph G. Cover, a member of the 57-man organization.

Cover, who is the contractor, will do the work on a cost basis, and actual construction of the 35 by 70-foot structure is expected to be completed within 40 days. Cost is estimated at $4,000.

After the building is erected, department members will install plumbing and lighting fixtures and finish the interior of the fire hall, which will consist of a main auditorium and space at the rear to house fire-fighting equipment.

Although no ceremony is planned when the ground is broken, the organization will hold a festival when construction is finished, to raise funds for the purchase of equipment. Neighboring volunteer fire companies will be invited to attend, as well as residents of the Bowling Green area.

Meanwhile, an informal dance, open to the public, is being planned for Monday, September 22, at Circle Inn. Lewis C. Millholland, Jr., chairman of the entertainment committee, will announce final details later.

Chief Garland Phillips, who was scheduled to announce appointments of line officers at last night's meeting, was unable to attend because of illness. The next meeting is scheduled for September 29.

Fourth Man Is Held For Assault On C. A. Miller

Three Men Post Bond For Hearing

A fourth man wonted in connection with an alleged assault and attempted robbery of C. A. Miller, Fort Ashby, W. Va., Saturday night, yesterday surrendered to West Virginia State Police and posted $500 bond for a hearing Thursday afternoon, according to Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle.

State Trooper Frank Bowley identified the man as Vintson Riggleman, and said he walked into the State Police office yesterday and gave himself up.

Three other men, Paul and James Riggleman, brothers of Westernport, and Robert Viney, Keyser, were arrested Sunday and their hearings also were set for Thursday. The Riggleman brothers posted bond, but Viney is being held in Mineral County Jail, Keyser, in default of bond.

According to Chief of Police Claude Martin, Keyser, the men allegedly went to the home of Miller, who raises cattle and is in the lumber business. Miller told them he did not want them around, and the men reportedly followed him to a barn where one of the quartet allegedly struck the farmer over the head with a blunt instrument.

Miller, police said, grabbed his assailant and threw him over his head to the ground. The man then escaped with the others while Miller fired several shots from a shotgun that he obtained.

State Police in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania were alerted and the two Riggleman brothers were arrested in Westernport by Trooper A. M. Spioch, while Viney was arrested in Keyser.

The third Riggleman who surrendered yesterday is a distant relative of the other two men, authorities said, adding that they believe he is employed by Miller.

Meeting Planned On Flood Control Work

City Commission To Confer On Methods

Plans will be made for a meeting early next month in Washington, D. C., with Army engineers to discuss methods of handling flood control work in Cumberland and Ridgeley, W. Va., according to James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

This was decided at a meeting yesterday of the commission in Mayor Thomas S. Post's office, when Avirett read a letter from Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore engineering consultants to the city, urging that such a meeting be arranged and offering to participate.

Avirett said arrangements for the meeting will not be made for several weeks so that Harold W. Smith, commission secretary, who is convalescing at his home following an appendectomy, will be able to attend with other members of the group.

Propose Interstate Authority

Several months ago Army engineers proposed that a single interstate authority be established to handle Cumberland and Ridgeley as a joint flood protection project.

Whitman and Requardt informed the engineers, however, that in the firm's opinion the Corps of Engineers, working with both Cumberland and Ridgeley, can "work out such details as finances, property acquisition, design and construction as may be necessary" without setting up an interstate authority.

The commission has also voiced its objection to the proposal. City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett said some time ago it was "unworkable and impractical" because legislative acts setting up the interstate authority would have to be passed by both the Maryland and West Virginia State Legislatures.

Traffic Changes Suggested

During a discussion of traffic problems, Clarence Griggs suggested that one-way traffic should be put into effect on Bedford and Frederick Streets, with southbound traffic using Bedford and northbound traffic using Frederick. He also suggested that present parking restrictions on those streets be enforced.

The commission voted to recommend the suggestion to the Mayor and Council for consideration.

Avirett also read a communication from F. T. Small, plant manager of the Celanese Corporation of America, stating that the company's chief engineer is checking engineering societies and universities for possible candidates for the position of smoke abatement engineer in the city.

Whitman and Requardt submitted a bill for the balance of the $12,000 fee for preparing an engineering report on the city's facilities and needs, which was completed last June. A balance of $2,042.50 is due, and the commission voted to recommend to the Mayor and Council that the sum be paid to the firm.

The commission also decided to apply for membership in the American Society of Planning Officials, which has headquarters in Chicago. The society furnishes a monthly news letter on planning and development in major cities throughout the country.

Mayor Post, Avirett, Heskett and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer will attend a conference with State Roads Commission officials in Balmore this afternoon regarding the proposed crosstown viaduct.

Police Discover 21 City Parking Meters Damaged

Plastic Glass Is Dislodged By Vandals

A new outbreak of vandalism was reported by City Police after 21 parking meters on three streets in the business district were discovered broken and damaged over the weekend, according to investigating officers, who said no money was taken.

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn said the plastic glass which shows the last coin deposited was pushed in on each meter, in what appeared to be an effort to remove the coins, but the design of the meters prevented the theft.

William H. Burly, city meter inspector, discovered the damaged machines on South Centre, Commerce and Salem Streets when he began inspecting the meters. He reported four machins damaged on Salem Street, five on South Centre Street, and 12 on Commerce Street.

In each incident, according to police, the plastic glass which covers a hole the size of a 50 cent piece was pushed back. Burley said heavy pressure would have to be applied to dislodge the glass discs, but declared he did not know what tool had been used.

The destruction to the meters is the first such vandalism reported in the city for "some time" authorities said, although an occasional machine is damaged by attempted thefts.

Police said the machines are so designed to prevent theft of the money and explained that in pushing back the glass, which will not break, the coin also is pushed back.

Burley said the machines will be repaired in the city, and estimated that most of the meters will be back in operation within a few days.

Police said the destructive work is being investigated.

Authorities also were investigating a damaged traffic light at the corner of Mechanic and Baltimore Streets, in front of the Alibi Cocktail Lounge. Police said the pole on which the light is fastened was probably struck by an automobile or truck and the light is turned.

A man identified as Mervin Miller, Hyndman, Pa., is being held in City Jail for United States Army authorities. Police said the man is absent from the Army without leave.

Attorneys Explain Mix-Up Over Strip Mining Measure

Lane Vetoed Bill Due To Bad Title

Former Judges D. Lindley Sloan and William C. Walsh, issued a joint statement yesterday regarding the discussion between County Commissioner William H. Lemmert and William H. Geppert, member of the House of Delegates from Allegany County, on the strip mining bill introduced by Geppert at the last session of Legislature, and which Gov. Lane failed to sign.

In attempting to clarify the question, the two former jurists reiterated in part a statement in NEWS editorial calling attention to the need for a strip mining control law, which appeared in the NEWS August 15.

The editorial stated in part, "In granting Garrett County's request to be excluded, the committee supposedly neglected to insert that fact in the title of the measure. That raised the possibility that the act might, by some remote chance, be thrown out by the courts."

"In the interest of accuracy we wish to point out the following facts in connection with the strip mining bill introduced at the last session of the Maryland Legislature by Mr. Geppert of the Allegany county delegation.

"This Bill, which was House Bill No. 267, was a very drastic one, and went considerably further than do the present laws in states which control strip mining. We were employed by the George's Creek and Upper Potomac Coal Operators' Association to oppose the bill as it was originally introduced, and a hearing on the matter was held before the Allegany and Garrett county delegations in Annapolis.

"Later on Mr. Geppert modified the bill by amendments and on behalf of the Coal Operators' Association we agreed to the bill as amended, and we might add that the amended bill required back-filling and imposed certain other regulations over strip mining.

The bill, as it was originally introduced, applied to both Allegany and Garrett counties, but after the amended bill was passed by the House of Delegates, it was further amended to exclude Garrett county, where most of the strip mines are in isolated places."

However, while a section exempting Garrett county was added to the bill, there was no reference to this exemption in the title or in the enacting clause, so that there was a serious question as to whether Garrett county was exempted or was not exempted, and this mixup also created a question as to the validity of the entire bill, and it was because of this that Governor Lane, at the request of Garrett county, vetoed the bill.

"From the foregoing, it is obvious that Mr. Geppert sponsored the strip mining bill, and that as finally amended by Mr. Geppert no one in this county opposed the passage of the bill. It is also equally apparent that the bill was vetoed because of the mixup regarding the exemption of Garrett county and the legal uncertainty which resulted from this."

Port Lessee Receives CAB Registration

Cumberland Airways, Inc., which operates the Cumberland Municipal Airport on lease from the city, is one of the 10 small air transport companies based in Maryland which have received letters of registration from the Civil Aeronautics Board according to the Associated Press.

New regulations under which the CAB now maintains supervision of the non-scheduled air carriers were issued May 26 and require that letters of registration be issued both to companies operating prior to that date and to new companies.
